ALEX G. SPANOS

Chairman of the Board

In 1951, at the age of 27, Alex Spanos worked night and day, seven days a week in his father's bakery. His growing family was struggling to make ends meet on $40 a week. The time came for Spanos to make the single toughest business decision of his life — whether to stay in the family business or strike out on his own.

More than 50 years later, Alex G. Spanos has transformed an $800 loan into a corporate giant ranked at the top of the national construction industry. As the founder and chairman of A.G. Spanos Companies, the nation's largest family-owned construction company, his commitment to excellence, quality and integrity are imprinted in the daily operation and management of the eight companies that are wholly owned and managed by the Spanos family.

Spanos recently incorporated his lifelong credo of giving back by publishing his autobiography, Sharing the Wealth: My Story, a compelling, firsthand account of the events and decisions in his life that became his basic fundamentals for success.

A fiercely-loyal American who harbors a deep love for his Hellenic roots, Spanos benefited from that dual heritage, and combined it into an unbeatable formula for success. As he reveals in his book, he feels it is a duty and a privilege to share his secrets of success with the rest of the world.

In his foreword, Rush Limbaugh says: "You are about to race through a marvelous and riveting account of a distinctly American life in which the concepts of 'failure' and 'can't' do not apply...Be prepared to be dazzled, informed, entertained, and challenged....This is a book that will change your life forever and for the good."

The success of the A.G. Spanos Companies allowed him to realize many dreams in his lifetime, including owning a National Football League team.

"I always believed in the pursuit of one's dreams," Spanos characteristically said in announcing his intention to buy the team. "For me, it has been a lifelong goal to own an NFL team. In buying the San Diego Chargers, I've been able to realize a dream." On Aug. 1, 1984, the dream became reality.

Spanos' commitment and value to the NFL was recognized when NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue named him to the League's Expansion and Realignment Committee in 1991. He currently serves on the League's Legislative and NFL Properties Executive Committees.

Prior to the 1994 season, Spanos turned over the day-to-day management of the organization to his son, Dean, but remains active in all business matters related to the team. This new role enables him to fully enjoy being the number-one fan of the Chargers and San Diego.

Throughout his storied life, Spanos has remained centered in his belief in family values and giving back to the community.

Though one of the nation's most productive corporate businesses, the A.G. Spanos organization continues as a family-run operation. The family works as a unit with trust and confidence in each other to guide the direction and actions of the company. Eldest son Dean serves as President-Chief Executive Officer of the Chargers and President-Vice Chairman of the Spanos corporate organization. Son Michael manages the construction and development activities of the company and is the Executive Vice President of the Chargers. Together, they are the driving force behind each business venture.

Spanos' belief in giving back to the community has paid countless dividends to San Diego. Alex led the effort to bring Super Bowl XXXVII to San Diego in January, 2003. It marks the second time in five years that Spanos has delivered the Super Bowl and focused the world's attention on San Diego.

His dedication to the team and the City of San Diego has been evident throughout his ownership.

In March 2000, the Spanos family introduced a huge five-year program entitled "Chargers Champions" that encompasses the team's ongoing support of youth, education, high-school sports as well as its long-standing community service programs.

Chargers Champions benefits students, schools and educators that are "Making the Difference" for San Diego's future. In each of the past three offseasons at the annual Chargers Champions All-Star Gala, 22 outstanding high-school juniors were awarded $7,500 scholarships and laptop computers. Since 2001, the Chargers Champions program has awarded 11 grants to schools as well as 11 grants and laptop computers to San Diego's most deserving educators. This annual commitment of nearly $400,000 in scholarships and grants is unmatched in the San Diego community.

During the 1998 offseason, Spanos announced the creation of the Brooke Humphries Heart Fund in honor of retiring quarterback Stan Humphries and a six-figure contribution to San Diego Children's Hospital in Brooke's name. Stan's daughter Brooke underwent major surgery to correct a heart birth defect.

Spanos is widely credited for using his influence with the NFL and its owners to land Super Bowl XXXII for the City of San Diego, which was played Jan. 25, 1998. The game brought close to $300 million to the community. Spanos and his family kicked off Super Bowl week by chairing the Children's Hospital Super Ball and leading the effort with a major contribution. During the festivities he contributed the same amount to the national Christmas in April program.

In 1995, the Alex G. Spanos San Diego Foundation was created and funded by Spanos to "help San Diego build on its strengths by supporting individuals, activities and organizations that work to make the city a better place to live." Simultaneously, Spanos announced that the first project of the Foundation would be a $1.5 million donation to kick off the $6.5 million fundraising effort for the San Diego Hall of Champions Sports Museum, for which he serves on the advisory board. With a focus on youth and education, Spanos and the Foundation have contributed millions of dollars to support San Diego charities and organizations.

The foundation was renamed San Diego Chargers Charities and maintains the same mission to benefit San Diego.

"My family and I are proud to be a part of the San Diego community," said Spanos. "I'm very fortunate to be in a position to help the city and the people who have been so supportive of me, my family and the Chargers over the years."

In 1995, Spanos' financial support led to the development of a multi-use sports facility for the Pacific Beach community and the students of Kate Sessions Elementary and The Bishops School. The Alex G. Spanos Sports Fields were dedicated in 1997.

His leadership was instrumental in bringing the 1996 Republican National Convention to San Diego, another financial coup for the city. In 1994, he kicked off a fundraising telethon for the San Diego Olympic Training Center with another six-figure pledge and challenge to the local community.

Spanos has been a strong supporter of high school sports in San Diego. He annually sponsors the CIF San Diego Section football championships, allowing the games to be played in Qualcomm Stadium. His backing of the San Diego High School Sports Association and the San Diego County high school all-star football game led to the game being named the Alex Spanos All-Star Football Classic in 1993.

Spanos built the state-of-the-art Alex G. Spanos Athletic and Recreation Building at the University of California-San Diego.

He has been a leading contributor to Children's Hospital in San Diego, and served as chairman of their first Miracle Network Telethon. He also has served as chairman of the San Diego County Easter Seals Telethon and the Loaned Executive campaign drive for United Way/CHAD.

Spanos' philanthropy extends across the globe.

In 1998, Spanos' generosity paid off with separate $1 million donations to three different institutions in California. His support of his alma mater, The University of the Pacific, improved the stadium, athletic facilities and residence halls for the entire student population and lured the San Francisco 49ers training camp to the school. A similar contribution to Sacramento State University's athletic facilities enabled the university to host the 2000 Olympic track and field trials. The same support also went to rebuild the Samuel N. Hancock Christian School, a private school in an urban area of Stockton. In 1997 he gave $1 million to the American Red Cross to help flood victims in Northern California and promised to help raise an additional $1 million.

Many individuals have felt Spanos' kindness over the years. Whether supplying his personal jet to transport those in need to distant countries such as Cambodia or Argentina; or help furnish a young paralyzed high-school athlete with a specially equipped van, Spanos is revered for his generosity.

Spanos spearheaded the top fundraising campaign during the Gulf War crisis which was the most successful fund-raising event in the history of the United Service Organization. In 1991, he chaired the U.S.O.'s Golden Anniversary Salute Luncheon that raised more than $4.5 million.

Spanos also was the founder and driving force behind seven biennial fund-raising Evening of Elegance dinners benefiting assorted children's charities including San Diego Children's Hospital and Health Center. Proceeds from the last Evening of Elegance held in 1985 topped $1 million.

Organizations in San Diego and across the country have honored Spanos often for his generosity. He has received the top awards given in San Diego by the Greater San Diego Chamber of Commerce, the San Diego Convention and Visitors Bureau, and the San Diego Boys and Girls Clubs.

Nationally, such organizations as Volunteers of America, Pop Warner Youth Football, Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, and the American Cinema Awards Foundation have honored Spanos with their top awards. Former President Gerald Ford and his wife, Betty, presented the Gloria Swanson Humanitarian Award from the American Cinema Awards Foundation for "his numerous contributions to the arts and educational institutions as well as civic and athletic organizations."

Spanos' hard work and determination to succeed were recognized in 1986 when he was one of a select group of 80 Americans awarded the Ellis Island Medal of Honor by the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation and the New York Statue of Liberty Commission. Son Dean earned the unique distinction of becoming a second generation recipient of the award in 2002.

Spanos is Honorary Regent of the University of the Pacific and a Trustee of the Eisenhower Medical Center in Palm Springs. The University of the Pacific awarded him an Honorary Doctor of Laws Degree on the same day he gave the commencement address to the 1984 graduating class.

This long list of accomplishments and awards demonstrates the commitment of a man who has carved a remarkable career in business and whose dedication to family and community have been an inspiring example for others.

Spanos was born September 28, 1923, in Stockton, California. He developed his tireless work ethic early, starting at age eight in his father's restaurant, rising before dawn to help prepare pastries before attending school. In 1951, Spanos borrowed $800, purchased a truck and set out on his own. He began his own catering business serving migrant farm workers in the San Joaquin Valley. Spanos later began investing in real estate and in 1960 formed the A.G. Spanos Construction Company.

Spanos is the founder and chairman of eight companies: A.G. Spanos Construction, Inc.; A.G. Spanos Management, Inc.; A.G. Spanos Development, Inc.; A.G. Spanos Enterprises, Inc.; A.G. Spanos Realty, Inc.; AGS Financial Corporation; A. G. Spanos Securities Corporation; and The Spanos Corporation.

Another side to this complex man was revealed with the help of his close friend Bob Hope. Spanos displayed an entertainer's talent and flair when he lived a childhood dream and danced on stage. Together, they sang and danced on numerous occasions both in the United States and abroad.

Spanos' acquisition of the Chargers culminated a lifelong interest and involvement in sports. He earned varsity letters in swimming and diving at the University of the Pacific in Stockton and later distinguished himself as an amateur golfer. Spanos was the first person ever to be on the winning teams in both the Bob Hope Desert Classic in Palm Desert (1977) and the Bob Hope British Pro-Am in Epsom, England (1980).

Alex and his wife, Faye, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 22, 1998. The couple has four children, Dean, Dea (Mrs. Ron Berberian), Alexis (Mrs. Barry Ruhl), and Michael, and 15 grandchildren. They maintain residences in Stockton and Palm Springs, California, and Tarpon Springs, Florida.

DEAN A. SPANOS

President - Chief Executive Officer

Webster's dictionary defines a leader as a person that leads; a guide or conductor; a first or principal performer of a group. President Harry S. Truman shortened it to a famous four-word slogan: "The Buck Stops Here."

For the Chargers, a leader is defined by two words: Dean Spanos.

Spanos' guiding hand has been felt throughout the Chargers' organization and the entire San Diego community since the day his family moved to La Jolla in 1984. Never has his guidance been more visible than in 2002.

This year, Spanos has assembled the four elements of his ideal leadership team: a respected general manager; a proven head coach with a winning track record in the National Football League, and one of league's top salary cap experts to go with an unflappable commitment from ownership.

Prior to this year, the Chargers had three of the four ingredients in place, including General Manager John Butler and Vice President of Football Operations Ed McGuire, the man in charge of maintaining the team's salary cap.

When Spanos brought Butler on board from Buffalo a year ago, he landed one of the most respected and successful men in football. During 14 seasons with the Bills, his teams went to the playoffs 10 times and had an astounding 140-83 (.628) record.

"John Butler knows what it takes to win in this league," said Spanos upon Butler's hiring. "He's had success in the draft and has been responsible for building championship teams. His record speaks for itself."

"I knew when I looked into Dean's eyes that his commitment to win was so strong," said Butler. "Dean doesn't just want to win, he expects to win. His support is always there for everything this team needs."

Spanos and Butler added the final element of the leadership team when they named Marty Schottenheimer the 13th head coach in team history on January 29, 2002.

With 153 regular-season wins in 15 and a half seasons as an NFL head coach, Schottenheimer ranks second among active coaches in career wins.

"We were looking for someone who has proven he knows how to win on this level, and Marty fit the bill perfectly," said Spanos. Butler added: "There just aren't very many coaches who have won as many games in the National Football League as Marty Schottenheimer."

Spanos' leadership permeates beyond the Chargers and can be felt throughout the community as well. The reason for his heartfelt bond with San Diego is simple: a full-time resident since 1984 when his father Alex Spanos purchased majority interest in the team, Dean is proud to call America's Finest City home.

"We've been here for almost 20 years," said Spanos. "Susie and I have raised our kids here. This is our home."

Few NFL owners or businessmen of any kind are as involved in every aspect of their company's inner workings as Dean Spanos. He has been overseeing the business and football operations of the San Diego Chargers since taking over as President-CEO in 1994. He is responsible for the management and administration of personnel and all fiscal matters of the Chargers. He also plays a prominent role in league affairs and represents the team at all league meetings.

After his father purchased majority interest in the team on Aug. 1, 1984, Dean was the man behind the scenes for the Chargers while serving as President of all Spanos corporate entities and Vice Chairman of the AGS Financial Corporation. For 30 years, Dean has been working alongside his father in apartment construction and land development in the family-owned, tight-knit business. He is responsible for all construction operations nationwide and all financial matters relating to the acquisition and development of projects for the Spanos organization.

In addition to his role in the Spanos Corporation, Dean was handed the day-to-day operations of the Chargers in January 1994 and now carries the full responsibility of running both organizations.

The Chargers didn't wait long to enjoy the benefits of Dean's guidance. Less than a year later, in January 1995, the Chargers were playing in Super Bowl XXIX in Miami, Florida.

In addition to running the football organization, he has continued the long-standing tradition of community support by the Spanos family and the Chargers. In March 2000, Dean announced a huge five-year program entitled "Chargers Champions" that encompasses the team's ongoing support of youth, education and high-school sports as well as its long-standing community service programs.

Chargers Champions benefits students, schools and educators that are "Making the Difference" for San Diego's future. In each of the past three offseasons at the annual Chargers Champions All-Star Gala, 22 outstanding high-school juniors were awarded $7,500 scholarships and laptop computers. Since 2001, the Chargers Champions program has awarded 11 grants to schools as well as 11 grants and laptops to San Diego's most deserving educators. This annual commitment of nearly $400,000 in scholarships and grants is unmatched in the San Diego community.

Local students received a giant boost when the Spanos family and Chargers Champions supplied the initial funding to organize the first-ever freshman football and volleyball programs in the 16 San Diego City high schools in 2000. This major public-private partnership provides more than 1,000 extracurricular opportunities annually for students, opportunities that have proven to enhance academic achievement, self-discipline, self-esteem and school attendance.

San Diego County schools have also benefited financially from the Chargers' generosity. In 1998 the Chargers created the Touchdowns for Youth program to reward students with outstanding attendance. By using Chargers tickets as incentives for outstanding attendance, schools in San Diego County have realized an increase in state funding (which is based on "average daily attendance") of nearly $10 million.

Another huge economic benefit to the community came in 1998 when Dean and his father secured Super Bowl XXXVII (January 2003) for the City of San Diego. It will be the second time in five years that the City of San Diego enjoys the huge financial windfall that comes from hosting a Super Bowl.

Dean is a major contributor throughout the San Diego business and civic community. He is an emeritus member of the board of directors for the San Diego International Sports Council, an elite group of San Diego business executives whose purpose is to promote and enhance economic development through sports of all kinds in San Diego. Dean also served on the boards of the San Diego Economic Development Corporation, the Greater San Diego Chamber of Commerce as well as the San Diego Inner-City Games. He also has been a major contributor and supporter of Children's Hospital, American Cancer Society, Huntington's Disease Society of America and the United Way.

This year Dean earned the unique distinction of being a second-generation recipient of the prestigious Ellis Island Medal of Honor, accepting the award 16 years after his father Alex was one of a select group of Americans who received it for the first time in 1986. The award recognizes distinguished Americans for their commitment to freedom, diversity and opportunity.

In 2001, the San Diego Hall of Champions Sports Museum named Dean and Susie Spanos their Community Champions.

Dean's busy career in business and the National Football League hasn't hampered his status as one of the nation's most successful amateur golfers. An avid golfer since his college years, he has been on the winning team in four Pro-Am tournaments, including back-to-back wins in 1990 at the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic and the AT&T National Pro-Am at Pebble Beach, where he teamed with Hubert Green. He was on the winning team at the Hope Classic again in 1991. Spanos and Green won the Bing Crosby Pro-Am at Pebble Beach in 1985, where Dean was awarded the "Most Valuable Amateur" trophy for supplying the most help to his professional partner. Also in 1985, he was on the winning team in the Senior Players Reunion Pro-Am in Dallas with Billy Casper.

Dean Alexander Spanos was born May 26, 1950, in Stockton. He earned varsity letters as a member of the Lincoln High School football and golf teams in Stockton.

Dean received the Lincoln High Hall of Fame Award, which honors alumni whose contributions and accomplishments are representative of the school. He was recognized for his achievements in the areas of business and athletics. Dean continued his golfing career at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, California, from which he received a degree in business administration in 1972. He maintains close ties with his alma mater, having served as a Regent at the university.

Dean and his wife, Susie, reside in La Jolla, California. Susie received one of San Diego's most prestigious awards last year when she was honored as a "Woman of Dedication" by the Salvation Army. She also has been named the Woman of the Year by the San Diego Leukemia Society for her philanthropic work in the community. She is active in and on the board of many charitable organizations in San Diego. She has been a driving force in support of the San Diego Blood Bank and its umbilical cord blood program, helping the Chargers'

Son Alexander Gus (July 2, 1978) is a graduate of the business school at the University of Southern California and currently works in the Chargers' marketing department. As a freshman, A.G. attended Tufts University in Medford, Mass., where he was a member of the football team. He received six varsity letters as a two-sport athlete (basketball and football) at La Jolla Country Day School. Son John Dean (Nov. 7, 1979) recently graduated from Wake Forest University with a degree in business. He will be working as an intern in the NFL's Management Council office in New York during the 2002 season. In addition, he has spent seven years working in the Chargers' organization, mostly in the player personnel department, and one summer as an intern at the league office. While at The Bishop's School in La Jolla, he earned nine varsity letters in a variety of sports, including football, basketball and golf, and played on three championship teams.

MICHAEL A. SPANOS

Executive Vice President

Michael A. Spanos, 43, became Executive Vice President of the Chargers in 1995. In that capacity, he assists in the financial and management matters pertaining to the ball club. Michael, along with his father and Chairman of the Charger organization, Alex Spanos, and his brother Dean, President and Chief Executive Officer, has helped steer the direction of the team.

Michael is also Executive Vice President of the A.G. Spanos Companies for the past 19 years. As the person most responsible for the construction and development activities of the organization, Michael oversees all of the office divisions around the country. His responsibilities extend to the areas of property management, land acquisition, and future direction and growth of the company's construction activities. From the company headquarters in Stockton, Michael travels weekly across the country to monitor and manage building projects in several states.

Born in Stockton, California in 1959, he attended Lincoln High School and graduated from the University of the Pacific, where he earned a bachelor's degree in business administration. In 1989, Michael was appointed to the Board of Regents at the University of the Pacific, where he served for five years. He has also served as a trustee on the Board of Dameron Hospital where he represented his family's interest in quality health services. Michael continues to contribute both his time and resources to the development of several projects involving youth sports and education. He and his wife, Helen, reside with their five children in Stockton.

MARK FABIANI

Special Counsel to the President

Mark Fabiani joined the Chargers as Special Counsel to the President in April 2002. In his role with the club, Fabiani's primary function is to work with the San Diego community to explore opportunities for a new state-of-the-art football stadium in the San Diego region.

Fabiani's La Jolla-based company provides strategic advice and tactical execution to companies and individuals facing complex financial, marketing, communications and legal challenges.

In 2000, Fabiani served as the Deputy Campaign Manager for Communications and Strategy for former Vice President Al Gore's presidential campaign, in the closest presidential election in modern history. Fabiani was responsible for coordinating the campaign's communications and media strategies and tactics, including for the Vice President's post-election Florida vote count effort. Fabiani also served as the campaign's chief spokesperson, appearing daily on national television broadcasts.

Prior to serving under Gore, Fabiani held the position of Special Counsel to President Bill Clinton through the 1996 presidential campaign. Fabiani provided legal, communications and political counsel to the President and First Lady of the United States on allegations and investigations of Whitewater and other related matters. As part of his duties Fabiani produced and communicated the legal, legislative, and political responses to inquiries from the media, Capitol Hill and investigative agencies. In this role, Fabiani also served as the White House's principle spokesperson before the national media, appearing regularly on major news shows.

Fabiani's experience with complex problem resolution also includes four years of service as Deputy Mayor of Los Angeles and Chief of Staff to Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley. In that post Fabiani managed political strategy, media relations, policy analysis and an executive staff of 129 for the Mayor. Fabiani directed day-to-day interaction between the Mayor's office and the media, general managers of city departments, the City Council, and the city's principle private sector companies and public sector institutions. Fabiani also played a central role in preparing and negotiating the city's $3.9 billion annual budget.

Fabiani, who graduated Cum Laude from Harvard Law School in 1982, has also served in senior positions at the United States Department of Justice and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. As a Deputy Assistant Attorney General at the Justice Department, Fabiani was responsible for policy development for the Attorney General. As Deputy Assistant Secretary at HUD, Fabiani implemented the federal government's Empowerment Zone Initiative for urban revitalization.

Mark Domenic Fabiani was born May 31, 1957 in Ellwood City, Pennsylvania. He earned a bachelor's degree in Philosophy from the University of Redlands. Mark and wife, June, have two children — Joseph (March 20, 1996) and Isabella (April 30, 1999) — and reside in La Jolla.

CHARGERS

JOHN BUTLER

Executive Vice President - General Manager

18th NFL Season,
4th with Chargers (2nd as G.M.)

President Dean Spanos solidified the leadership and direction of the San Diego Chargers when he named John Butler the Chargers executive vice president-general manager on January 5, 2001.

In Butler's first season in San Diego, he demonstrated to Chargers fans why he has earned a reputation as one of the finest talent evaluators in the NFL whether through free agency or the draft. Butler's first free agent class in San Diego included veteran starting quarterback Doug Flutie, who passed for the most yards by a Chargers quarterback since 1985, and a pair of first-time Pro Bowlers in defensive end Marcus Wiles and cornerback Ryan McNeil. Last season, only four players made the Pro Bowl who came to their current team as free agents, and two of them were Wiles and McNeil. It was the first time since the advent of free agency in 1993 that the Chargers have had an unrestricted free agent make the Pro Bowl. Throughout his career, Butler has signed five players as free agents who have gone on to the Pro Bowl in their first year after being signed.

Soon after the free agency period, Butler made even more noise with his first draft as general manager of the Chargers. On the eve of the 2001 draft, Butler dealt the number one overall selection in the draft to the Atlanta Falcons. When the dust finally settled following the trade, Chargers fans would realize Butler had reaped a gold mine in return. The Chargers used Atlanta's pick to acquire their running back of the future in LaDainian Tomlinson, who set a new team rookie rushing record and became the first player in team history to surpass 1,600 combined yards. And as a condition of the trade, they obtained the services of one of the NFL's most-feared punt returners and fastest wide receivers in Tim Dwight. Butler also used the Falcons' third-round choice to select playmaker cornerback Tay Cody, who started 11 games as a rookie, and he used the Bolts second-round pick to draft the team's quarterback of the future, Drew Brees.

Butler's second draft with the Chargers has been widely hailed as one of the best in the league. The Chargers 2002 draft class featured University of Texas standout cornerback Quentin Jammer, who was selected in the first round with the fifth overall selection. Butler further showed his draft savvy by filling a major hole in the second round with the selection of Tony Fomon, a dominating offensive guard from Nebraska who many teams had slated to go in the first round. He also capitalized on last year's pre-draft blockbuster trade with Atlanta, using the Falcons' second-round choice for big-play wide receiver Reche Caldwell from the University of Florida.

A veteran of 17 NFL seasons, Butler is beginning his second year as general manager of the Chargers. He originally entered the NFL with the Chargers in 1985 as a staff scout, a position he held through the 1986 season. In 1987, Butler became Buffalo's Director of College Scouting and was elevated to Director of Player Personnel in 1989 where he oversaw the entire Buffalo scouting operation. In 1993, Butler was named the Bills executive vice president and general manager, serving in that capacity through the 2000 season.

The pervasive theme of Butler's resume is winning. During his tenure in Buffalo, the Bills went to the playoffs 10 times and had an astounding 140-83 (.628) record during his 14 seasons with the team, second only to San Francisco's 156-67 (.699) record during that period. Buffalo's 10 playoff appearances are one shy of the 11 appearances by Minnesota, San Francisco and Denver. The Bills went to the playoffs following five of his eight seasons as general manager (1993-2000) and had a 74-54 (.578) record, ninth overall in the NFL. Only Minnesota, San Francisco, Miami and Green Bay went to the playoffs more times (six) than the Bills during that stretch.

Prior to taking the reins in San Diego, Butler spent 14 seasons (1987-2000) with the Buffalo Bills. During his time with the Bills, Butler and his staff consistently assembled one of the league's most talented rosters. Eighteen of the Bills 23 draft picks from the 1998-2000 were still on the Bills roster after the 2000 season and 30 of the 53 players on the active roster were Buffalo draft choices.

"It's not only me," said Butler when speaking about his past success with the draft and free agency. "I've had a lot of great people surround me and go to work with me. It's just not one person that does something. It's an organization. It's your people. It's your scouts. It's working together and it's coaches. I've been very fortunate over the years to have those type of people that believe in the philosophy I believe in...how we want to approach things...how we want to get it done. I don't want to take credit for that. We have a philosophy and that philosophy is what I use."

Under Butler's guidance, the Bills excelled through the draft during the '90s. Seven of Buffalo's top nine selections from 1991-99 started for the Bills, while the eighth, cornerback Jeff Burris, left via free agency to become a starter for Indianapolis, and the ninth, cornerback Thomas Smith, also left through free agency to start for Chicago.

Butler's first-ever selection for Buffalo and his top choice in 1988 was running back Thurman Thomas, who was chosen in the second round after 27 other teams had passed on him. Buffalo's top choice in 1989 wasn't until the third round when the Bills selected wide receiver Don Beebe, who went on to perform on six Super Bowl teams. Butler then looked to his alma mater, the University of Illinois, for the Bills number one choice in 1991 — a cornerback-turned-safety named Henry Jones. Jones earned Pro Bowl honors in 1993, his first season as a starter. It also took John Fina, Buffalo's top choice in 1992, just one season to become a starter at left tackle. In 1993, Butler and his staff looked to the Atlantic Coast Conference to select cornerback Thomas Smith from the University of North Carolina. Cornerback Jeff Burris from Notre Dame was Buffalo's top selection in 1994 and set a Bills' record for most punt return yards in his rookie season.

From 1995-2000, Butler and his staff consistently found outstanding players in the first round, despite never selecting higher than 14th. Offensive lineman Ruben Brown from the University of Pittsburgh lived up to his 1995 first-round selection (14th overall) by being voted to the Pro Bowl in each of the past six seasons (1996-2001). In 1996, Butler selected wide receiver Eric Moulds with the 24th overall selection. Recognized as one of the top receivers in the league, Moulds earned Pro Bowl honors in 1998 after setting a franchise single-season record and leading the AFC with 1,368 receiving yards. He earned his second trip to the Pro Bowl in 2000 after ranking fourth in the AFC with 1,326 receiving yards.

Running back Antowain Smith, the team's top selection in 1997, finished his rookie year as the NFL's third-leading rookie rusher. Marcellus Wiley, the team's second-round selection in 1997, took over the Bills starting defensive end spot for the departed Bruce Smith in 2000 and finished with a team-high 10.5 sacks. Linebacker Sam Cowart was the Bills top selection in 1998 and led the team in tackles in 1999 and 2000. Cowart was named to his first Pro Bowl following the 2000 season after recording 130 tackles, 5.5 sacks and two interceptions.

Cornerback Antoine Winfield, Buffalo's top selection in 1999, led the Bills with 106 tackles in 2001. After choosing Winfield in the first round of the 1999 draft, the Bills selected wide receiver Peerless Price from the University of Tennessee in the second round. Over the past three years, Price has caught 138 passes for 2,050 yards and 13 touchdowns. Buffalo's first-round pick in 2000, defensive end Erik Flowers, has combined for 57 tackles and four sacks in his first two professional seasons.

It was in Buffalo that Butler earned praise for his ability to take advantage of free agency. One of his first free agent acquisitions was wide receiver Billy Brooks in 1993, who caught a team record 11 touchdown passes in 1995. The 1995 signing of linebacker Bryce Paup, the NFL's 1995 Defensive Most Valuable Player, and nose tackle Ted Washington, who went to two Pro Bowls, were particularly notable. In 1996, Butler acquired linebacker Chris Spielman from the Detroit Lions and in just his first year with the Bills, Spielman set a team record with 206 tackles. During the 1998 offseason, Butler signed Canadian Football League MVP Doug Flutie and then negotiated a trade with Jacksonville to acquire Rob Johnson, giving the Bills one of the best quarterback tandems in the league. Also during the 1998 offseason, Butler bolstered Buffalo's roster by signing fullback Sam Gash, who earned two Pro Bowl assignments, and offensive lineman Joe Panos from the Philadelphia Eagles.

Prior to entering the NFL, Butler was a member of the United States Football League's Chicago Blitz staff, serving in a number of capacities, including director of college scouting for three years. He also coached the tight ends and offensive line at various times, serving under head coaches George Allen and Marv Levy during his tenure with the Blitz. In fact, Butler has the unique distinction of serving with three head coaches who have each posted over 100 NFL career victories — Allen, Levy and Don Coryell.

"He knows personnel, he works hard, he builds morale, he gets the best out of everybody in the organization," said Levy. "He's a unique individual and, believe me, I don't respond this way very often. I think the world of the man."

Before his time in the USFL, Butler coached collegiately for three seasons (1979-81) under Randy Rodgers at the University of Evansville, Indiana.

John Butler was born August 13, 1946 in Chicago, Illinois and graduated from Urbana High School. He served in the Marine Corps for four years before enrolling at San Bernardino Junior College, where he played football for two seasons. He transferred to the University of Illinois where he played for one year before having his career cut short by a knee injury. John and his wife, Alice, have a daughter, Andrea (Jan. 26, 1985).

A.J. SMITH

Assistant General Manager - Director of Pro Personnel

18th NFL Season,
4th with Chargers (2nd as Asst. G.M.)

The San Diego Chargers filled a key position in the team's player personnel department when General Manager John Butler named A.J. Smith the team's assistant general manager and director of pro personnel on January 18, 2001.

Smith's duties with the Chargers include monitoring NFL transactions, evaluating pro talent, handling tryouts, free agent contracts and assisting Butler. This is Smith's second stint with San Diego.

Prior to joining the Chargers in 2001, Smith spent 14 seasons working for the Buffalo Bills. He originally joined the Bills as an area scout in 1987 and was named assistant director of collegiate scouting in 1989. In 1993, Smith was elevated to director of pro personnel.

Before joining the Bills, he served as the Chargers pro personnel director from 1985-86. Smith also held scouting positions with the USFL's Chicago Blitz (1982-83) and Pittsburgh Maulers (1984). He began his NFL career in 1977 as an unpaid, volunteer, part-time scout for the New York Giants under the direction of Jim Trimble. From there he moved on to become a part-time scout for the New England Patriots (1978-80) and Houston Oilers (1981).

Smith made his start in football as an assistant coach at Cranston West High School in Cranston, Rhode Island from 1971-76. He was the head coach of the Rhode Island Kings of the Eastern Football League in 1976 and an assistant coach at the University of Rhode Island in 1978.

Albert John Smith was born February 28, 1949. He is a graduate of Bishop Hendricken High School in Warwick, Rhode Island. He earned a degree in health and physical education from Kentucky Wesleyan College in 1971.

Smith played semi-pro football as a wide receiver with the Attleboro (Mass.) Kings of the Eastern Football League from 1972-74 and had a tryout with the Washington Redskins in 1974. Smith was inducted into the Minor/Semi-Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1990. He also taught health and physical education in the Providence (R.I.) junior high school system from 1971-85.

Smith and his wife, Susan, have two children, daughter, Andrea (Sept. 3, 1982) and son, Kyle (Oct. 15, 1984), and reside in the Sorrento Valley area of San Diego.

ED McGUIRE

Vice President of Football Operations

15th NFL Season,
5th with Chargers

After two seasons as the Chargers' Coordinator of Football Operations, Ed McGuire was promoted by team President Dean Spanos to Vice President of Football Operations during the 2000 offseason.

McGuire is in charge of all football operations for the Chargers. He oversees all player contract negotiations as well as the day-to-day business and administrative operations of the scouting department, coaching department, equipment and video departments, training staff, and strength and conditioning staff.

McGuire originally joined the Chargers in 1998 as Coordinator of Football Operations where he oversaw the day-to-day operations of the player personnel department and handled player contract negotiations. He also monitored the players' payroll in regards to the NFL's salary cap.

McGuire served as the senior manager of labor operations for the NFL's Management Council from 1996-98. Prior to that, he was the league's manager of player personnel from 1991-96. He originally joined the NFL in 1987 as a player personnel analyst. Before coming to the NFL, McGuire worked in the personnel department for the United States Football League from 1984-86.

During his tenure with the National Football League office, McGuire became a leading expert on the NFL's salary cap and Collective Bargaining Agreement, created in 1993 between the NFL and the NFL Players' Association.

"Ed's low-key personality belies one of the NFL's bright young minds," said NFL Executive Vice President of Labor Relations Harold Henderson. "He helped develop and administer the intricate details of the Collective Bargaining Agreement and the salary cap. The Chargers are fortunate to have Ed."

Born January 18, 1962, in Riverhead, New York, McGuire graduated with a degree in athletic administration in 1984 from St. John's University in Jamaica, New York. He played football and baseball at Riverhead High School.

McGuire and his wife, Jane, have two children, son Kevin (Aug. 8, 1993) and daughter, Shannon (May 9, 1997) and reside in Rancho Bernardo, California.

MARTY SCHOTTENHEIMER

Head Coach
26th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

When Chargers President Dean Spanos and General Manager John Butler began their search for a new head coach following the 2001 season, they had one requirement: "We're looking for a proven winner... someone who knows how to win."

The Chargers got just that when they officially introduced Marty Schottenheimer as the 13th head coach in team history on January 29, 2002.

"Winning is everything in our business. Winning is our bottom line," said Owner and Chairman of the Board Alex Spanos. "In Marty Schottenheimer, we hired a winner. We feel fortunate to get a coach with his winning resume. When he was in charge of the Chiefs, I used to hate playing against them. I can't tell you how happy I am that he's on our side."

"Marty Schottenheimer is no stranger to San Diego, and it will be nice to have him on our side of the field now," said Dean Spanos. "He's been a fierce competitor over the years. We started out trying to find somebody with experience at the NFL level who has been a winner, and Marty's record speaks for itself. We're really pleased that he's here."

"We feel very fortunate to be able to hire the kind of coach that we set out to get, and that's an experienced, winning coach," said Butler. "There just aren't very many coaches who have won as many games in the National Football League as Marty Schottenheimer has. It's a distinct privilege that he'll be leading the Chargers into the future."

With 153 regular-season wins in 15 and a half seasons as an NFL head coach, Schottenheimer ranks second among active coaches in career wins only to Atlanta's Dan Reeves, who has 178 wins in 21 seasons.

Schottenheimer's regular-season winning percentage of .621 ranks fourth among active coaches with two or more seasons in the NFL. Only St. Louis' Mike Martz (.750), Green Bay's Mike Sherman (.656) and Baltimore's Brian Billick (.625) have winning percentages higher than Schottenheimer's.

"We have one goal. That goal is to win a world championship here in San Diego," said Schottenheimer upon being introduced. "We're not afraid of talking about it because that's why all of us, John Butler and the Spanos family, are here. As Alex Spanos said — we are measured in one way — by winning."

"This is a great opportunity. There is only one first place in the National Football League in my view and that's the team that wins the world championship and everybody else is in second place. Our approach is going to be that we want to find the right people that will make the commitment and sacrifice that is necessary to be successful in the National Football League."

"I've never been inclined to talk about rebuilding programs," continued Schottenheimer. "Some in my midst would say you shouldn't approach it on that basis because the moment you start talking about winning a championship and winning it right now, some feel like you set yourself up. Listen, if you're not interested in winning a world championship, if that's not your goal, you ought to go into another business."

This will be Schottenheimer's fourth stint as an NFL head coach, having previously guided the Cleveland Browns (1984-88), Kansas City Chiefs (1989-98) and most recently the Washington Redskins (2001). Schottenheimer has compiled a record of 153-93-1 in regular season action.

Schottenheimer, 58, has led his teams to the playoffs 11 times, more than any other active NFL coach. Since 1960, only four coaches have done it more; Don Shula (19), Tom Landry (18), Chuck Noll (12) and Bud Grant (12). All four have been enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

His 153 regular-season wins are 10th on the NFL's all-time list and he's tied for fifth in league history with 11 playoff appearances.

From 1986-97 as head coach of the Browns and Chiefs, he led his teams to 12 straight winning seasons and 10 trips to the playoffs. He has led six of his teams to division titles, including the Browns in 1985, '86 and '87, and the Chiefs in 1993, '95 and '97. Including the playoffs, Schottenheimer has a combined record of 158-104-1 (.601) as an NFL head coach.

In his only season in Washington, Schottenheimer led the Redskins to an 8-8 record last year. After enduring an 0-5 start, including an opening day 30-3 loss to the Chargers in San Diego, the Redskins rebounded with eight wins in their final 11 games. In addition to being the Redskins' head coach, Schottenheimer also served as Washington's director of football operations.

"Marty is an outstanding football coach in the NFL," said Shula, who was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1997. "He's been a winner everywhere he's been, Cleveland, Kansas City and Washington. I think he may have done his best coaching in Washington, starting 0-5 and then winning eight out the next 11 games. He's as solid as can be and will surround himself with the best staff. He will get the job done in San Diego."

"Marty's a winner whose convictions on how to win in the NFL give him a focus and determination that is the equal of any coach or player in the league," said Baltimore Ravens Senior Vice President-Player Personnel Ozzie Newsome, who was a tight end for Schottenheimer in Cleveland during his Pro Football Hall of Fame playing career.

Prior to joining the Redskins, Schottenheimer spent two years (1999-2000) as an NFL analyst for ESPN.

From 1989-98, Schottenheimer spent 10 seasons as head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs. During his tenure, the Chiefs posted a 101-58-1 regular season record for a .634 winning percentage, which was the second highest in the NFL during that time span. Only San Francisco (.769) had a higher winning percentage than Schottenheimer's Chiefs. In his 10 seasons in Kansas City, Schottenheimer's teams averaged 10 wins per season and advanced to the playoffs seven times, making the Chiefs one of the AFC's most dominant teams of the '90s.

The Chiefs were particularly dominant at home under Schottenheimer, where their 62-18 (.775) record from 1989-98 was the third-best in the NFL behind San Francisco 67-13 (.838) and Denver 63-17 (.788). The Chiefs and 49ers were the only teams in the NFL to reach the playoffs seven times in the '90s and from 1989-97 the Chiefs finished either first or second in the AFC West, a nine-year stretch matched only by the Pittsburgh Steelers (1971-79) since the AFL-NFL merger in 1970.

"We spent 10 years in Kansas City, so we have some familiarity with this division," said Schottenheimer. "I've been away from it for three years, but through my time working with ESPN and during the time I spent in Washington, I have a familiarity with this group of people. It's a very competitive division, but on the other hand, I think that there is an opportunity available right now to get in here and compete and have an opportunity of winning."

"Marty's an outstanding football coach," said Carl Peterson, President/General Manager and Chief Executive Officer of the Kansas City Chiefs. "His record speaks for itself. I am disappointed that we're going to have to play against him twice a year."

Under Schottenheimer's guidance, the Chiefs posted the AFC's best records in 1995 and '97 at 13-3. Prior to that in 1990, he led the Chiefs to an 11-5 mark, the team's best record in 21 years, and into the postseason for just the second time since 1971 and the first time since 1986. In 1993, the Chiefs had their finest season since 1969 when Schottenheimer led the team to a record of 11-5, their first division title since 1971 and a berth in the AFC Championship Game.

In 1997, the Chiefs finished the regular season with an NFL regular-season best record of 13-3, giving Kansas City its third AFC West title in five years. Schottenheimer's Chiefs were consistently among the league's best in five crucial areas: winning percentage in the division, winning percentage at home, forcing turnovers, rushing offense and scoring defense.

Schottenheimer had a strong hold on the AFC West during his 10 seasons as the head coach in Kansas City, as evidenced by his 55-28 (.663) record within the division. His success included an outstanding mark of 18-3 (.857) against the Chargers' biggest rival, the Oakland Raiders. His record with Kansas City against the AFC West includes an impressive 16-4 (.800) ledger against the Seattle Seahawks, who will be moving to the NFC West in the realigned NFL in 2002, but face the Chargers in San Diego in the regular season finale for both teams.

The Chargers will benefit from having Schottenheimer on their side. He was 13-8 (.619) in games against San Diego while he was with Kansas City.

Strong defense has been one of the trademarks of Schottenheimer's teams. His teams have consistently ranked in the upper-half of the NFL in total defense, scoring defense and turnover ratio. Dating back to his first full season as a head coach in Cleveland in 1985, Schottenheimer's teams have been ranked in the league's Top 10 in total defense eight times and in scoring defense nine times, including the 1995 and '97 seasons when the Chiefs led the league in scoring defense.

His Kansas City teams were known for their ball-hawking defense as evidenced by the Chiefs' plus-99 turnover ratio under Schottenheimer's tutelage. (During that time period, the New York Giants ranked second in the league with a plus-77 turnover ratio, 22 fewer than the Chiefs.) In his 10 seasons with the Chiefs, Schottenheimer's teams ranked in the NFL's top five in turnover ratio seven times, including the 1990, '92 and '95 seasons when they led the entire league. Kansas City set an NFL record by recording a plus-10 turnover ratio in six consecutive seasons from 1990-95.

Prior to his successful stint in Kansas City, Schottenheimer spent four and a half seasons as the head coach of the Cleveland Browns from 1984 to 1988. During the four full seasons (1985-88) in which he was head coach of the Browns, Schottenheimer produced four playoff berths, three AFC Central titles, and two AFC Championship game appearances. In his first full season as head coach, he led the Browns to the AFC Central Division title. The following season, he earned consensus NFL Coach of the Year honors after leading his team to a 12-4 regular-season record, a second-consecutive division title and a trip to the AFC Championship game.

He led the Browns back to the AFC title game again in 1987, but for the second year in a row, his Browns were defeated by the Denver Broncos. Schottenheimer left the Browns after the 1988 season, finishing his career in Cleveland with a 44-27 (.620) regular-season record and a 2-4 (.333) mark in the playoffs.

Schottenheimer's coaching career started with the Portland Storm of the World Football League in 1974. He began that season as one of the team's linebackers, but a shoulder injury ended his playing career and he remained with the team as an assistant coach, tutoring the Storm's linebackers.

In 1975, he landed his first NFL coaching job as the linebackers coach for the New York Giants. He was brought on board by Bill Arnsparger, the Chargers' defensive coordinator during their Super Bowl season in 1994, who has returned to San Diego in 2002 as the team's Associate Head Coach-Defense. After two seasons (1975-76) as linebackers coach, Schottenheimer was named the Giants' defensive coordinator.

After one season (1977) as the Giants' defensive coordinator, Schottenheimer became the linebackers coach for the Detroit Lions for two seasons (1978-79). In 1980, he took over as the defensive coordinator for the Cleveland Browns. Schottenheimer became Cleveland's head coach midway through the 1984 season, taking over for Sam Rutigliano on Oct. 22, 1984 after the Browns had a 1-7 start. He went on to lead the Browns to a 4-4 record in the remaining eight games during his first half-season as an NFL head coach.

Schottenheimer began his professional football career on the playing field. After a career as an All-America linebacker at the University of Pittsburgh, he was selected in the fourth round of the 1965 NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts and in the seventh round of the AFL draft by the Buffalo Bills. He signed with the Bills, playing in Buffalo from 1965-68. As a rookie, Schottenheimer got his first taste of a professional football championship when the Bills won the AFL Championship with a 23-0 victory over the San Diego Chargers on Dec. 26, 1965.

After his stint with the Bills, he joined the Boston Patriots in 1969, playing two seasons before being traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1971. After spending the 1971 training camp with the Steelers, Schottenheimer was traded to the Colts, before retiring shortly thereafter.

Before starting his coaching career, he worked in real estate in both Miami and Denver between 1971 and 1974.

At the University of Pittsburgh, Schottenheimer was selected as a member of the school's All-Time Team, in addition to being named an All-America. He played in the 1965 College All-Star Game at Soldier Field in Chicago, where the Cleveland Browns defeated the All-Stars, 24-16. In that game, Schottenheimer played alongside Dick Butkus, Fred Biletnikoff, Roger Staubach, Bob Hayes and Bill Curry.

Schottenheimer's athletic career began at Ft. Cherry High School in McDonald, Pennsylvania where he was an honor student and a standout on the football and basketball teams. He was an All-Western Pennsylvania linebacker and the center on the school's state championship basketball team. After high school, he continued his career at the University of Pittsburgh, where he earned a degree in English.

Schottenheimer is a licensed pilot and flew with the Navy's Blue Angels in February of 1992 and the Air Force's Thunderbirds in July of 1997.

Born on September 23, 1943 in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania, Schottenheimer and his wife, Pat, have two children, Kristen (Feb. 17, 1970) and Brian (Oct. 16, 1973), and one grandchild, Brandon (April 20, 2001). Brian is a former University of Florida quarterback who was on Marty's coaching staffs with the Chiefs (1998) and Redskins (2001). Marty's brother, Kurt, also was on his staffs in Cleveland (1986-88), Kansas City (1989-2000) and Washington (2001) before joining the Detroit Lions as their defensive coordinator in 2002.

ASSISTANT COACHES

BILL ARNSPARGER

Associate Head Coach-Defense

26th NFL Season,
4th with Chargers

Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer added 41 years of coaching experience, including 25 in the National Football League, to his staff when he named Bill Arnsparger Associate Head Coach-Defense on February 15, 2002.

The coaching tandem of Arnsparger and Schottenheimer has come full circle. It was Arnsparger, as the head coach of the New York Giants, who gave Schottenheimer his first NFL coaching job when he appointed him to coach the Giants' linebackers in 1975.

Arnsparger, one of the most respected defensive coaches in the NFL, returns to the Chargers after spending two seasons (1999 and 2001) with the Washington Redskins as a defensive assistant.

Previously, Arnsparger spent three seasons (1992-94) as the Chargers' defensive coordinator when he transformed the Bolts into one of the league's top defensive units. In 1992, the Chargers finished with the number two ranked defense in the AFC and ranked fourth in the NFL. The Chargers led the NFL in 1993 with a plus-15 turnover ratio and finished fifth with 22 interceptions. San Diego was ninth in the NFL in points allowed in 1994, when the Chargers reached Super Bowl XXIX.

Arnsparger, 75, began his NFL career as a defensive assistant (1964-69) with the Baltimore Colts until he joined Don Shula's staff in Miami in 1970. Arnsparger left the Dolphins in 1974 to become head coach of the New York Giants, a post he held until midway through the 1976 season. After that, he rejoined Shula's staff in Miami and remained there until 1983.

In 1972, Arnsparger was the architect of the Dolphins' "No-Name Defense," that contributed to three Super Bowl appearances and the unprecedented 17-0 season. He later developed Miami's "Killer B's" defense in the early '80s, when the Dolphins reached Super Bowl XVI. His defenses ranked either first or second in the NFL for fewest points allowed in nine out of his 11 full seasons with Miami.

Arnsparger left the NFL in 1983 to become head coach at Louisiana State University where he guided the Tigers to an SEC championship, two Sugar Bowl appearances and a Liberty Bowl berth in three years (1984-86). He then held the position as Director of Athletics at the University of Florida for five years (1987-91).

Arnsparger began his coaching career at his alma mater, Miami of Ohio, in 1950. He then served as an assistant at Ohio State (1951-53), Kentucky (1954-61) and Tulane (1962-63) before joining the Colts in the NFL.

William Stephen Arnsparger was born Dec. 16, 1926, in Paris, Kentucky. He graduated with a degree in education and a master's in school administration from Miami of Ohio. Bill and his wife, Betty Jane, have a son, David (Aug. 6, 1965), and a daughter, Mary Susan (Feb. 29, 1968).

CAM CAMERON

Offensive Coordinator

4th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer named former Indiana University Head Coach Cam Cameron as the Chargers' new offensive coordinator on February 20, 2002.

This is Cameron's second stint in the NFL. From 1994-96 he was the quarterbacks' coach for the Washington Redskins under then Head Coach Norv Turner, who spent last year as the Chargers' offensive coordinator. Because of his previous association with Turner, Cameron is expected to keep the basic framework of Turner's offensive scheme in place with the Chargers.

"Are we going to do exactly what they've done before? No, but it's going to be similar," said Cameron. "This offense did some very good things a year ago and it is important that we build on that."

"I was very impressed with his understanding of offensive schemes, particularly the way he designs things to attack a defense," said Schottenheimer. "It was his knowledge and understanding of offense and particularly his ability to find a means to attack defenses, especially in the passing game. (His understanding of the Chargers' current offense) wasn't the ultimate thing that made the decision, but certainly the fact that we can make a seamless transition offensively will be good for our football team. The other thing that really impressed me is that I had a sense that there is a real spirit and a passion about what he does. I think that is very important. He brings a lot of energy."

"I was very fortunate to work for Bo Schembechler, and it's a great feeling to work for someone like Marty Schottenheimer, for a guy who has won in this league and a guy that knows how to win. I'm looking forward to it," said Cameron. "I've always respected Marty Schottenheimer. I'm glad to be a part of his coaching staff."

While the offense under Cameron will not be a carbon copy of last year's scheme, the Chargers' new offensive coordinator has a clear overall vision of what kind of offense he wants to run.

"Throughout the course of a season you would like to be able to look back and say that you were balanced, where you have the ability to run the ball on people at times and are able to throw the football when you need to," added Cameron. "We're going to do what our personnel allows us to do."

Cameron joined the Chargers after spending the past five seasons (1997-2001) as the head coach at Indiana University, where he had a record of 18-37. In 2001, the Hoosiers finished with a 5-6 record, including 4-4 in the Big Ten Conference, Cameron's best mark at the school. The 2001 ledger included impressive wins over Wisconsin, Michigan State and rival Purdue. Under Cameron's direction, the Hoosiers featured the nation's fourth-ranked rushing offense (269.5 yards per game) and were ranked 19th nationally in total offense (435.3 yards per game).

Cameron helped develop Indiana quarterback Antwaan Randle El, a first-team All-America selection by the Football Writers Association of America in 2001. Randle El, the NCAA Division I-A rushing leader among quarterbacks, finished his career as the only player in major college football history to score 40 touchdowns and pass for 40 touchdowns. Randle El finished sixth in the 2001 Heisman Trophy voting. Indiana's offense in 2001 also featured senior running back LeVron Williams, a unanimous first-team All-Big Ten selection.

In 2000, the Hoosiers were also ranked among the nation's offensive leaders, averaging 30.6 points and 439.5 yards of total offense per game. They led the Big Ten Conference with 266.4 yards per game rushing and the team's average of 5.8 yards per carry ranked second nationally behind the University of Nebraska.

Prior to his arrival at Indiana, Cameron spent three seasons as the quarterbacks coach with the Redskins, serving under Norv Turner. In Washington, Cameron helped the Redskins improve dramatically as the team went from a 3-13 record in his first season to 9-7 just two years later. Cameron was largely credited with the development of quarterback Gus Frerotte, who was selected to the Pro Bowl in 1997.

Before hooking up with Turner in Washington, Cameron spent 10 seasons (1984-93) as an assistant coach at the University of Michigan. He spent the first two years in Ann Arbor serving as a graduate assistant before being elevated in 1986 to coach the Wolverines' quarterbacks and wide receivers. During his 10 seasons at Michigan, the Wolverines captured six Big Ten Conference championships and played in 10 bowl games, including five Rose Bowls. While at Michigan, Cameron helped cultivate such NFL talents as Jim Harbaugh, Elvis Grbac, Desmond Howard, Derrick Alexander and Amani Toomer.

For Cameron, the move into coaching was a natural fit. His stepfather, Tom Harp, was the head coach at Cornell (1961-65), Duke (1966-70) and Indiana State (1973-77). Cameron and Harp have the unique distinction of each coaching a Heisman Trophy winner. Cameron coached Desmond Howard at Michigan and Harp was an assistant coach at West Point when Pete Dawkins claimed the trophy in 1958.

Before he moved into coaching, Cameron had a successful collegiate career as a two-sport letter winner in football and basketball at Indiana. He lettered two years at quarterback and three in basketball before a football knee injury in his senior year put an end to his playing career. He graduated from Indiana in 1983 with a degree in business.

Cam Cameron was born on February 6, 1961 in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. While his stepfather coached at Indiana State, Cameron was a prep standout at South High School in Terre Haute, Indiana. He was an All-America selection in football as a senior and earned all-state honors twice and all-county honors three times. He was named Vigo County's Athlete of the Year in 1978 and 1979. Cameron led his team to three consecutive state basketball finals and in 1979 was named the recipient of the school's prestigious Trester Award for mental attitude. In 1979, he was also named National Athlete of the Year by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Cameron and his wife, Missy, have four children, including three sons, Tommy (Feb. 13, 1994), Danny (Dec. 21, 1995) and Christopher (April 17, 1998), and daughter, Elizabeth (Oct. 28, 2000).

DALE LINDSEY

Defensive Coordinator

16th NFL Season,
6th with Chargers

A familiar face from the Chargers' successful defensive staff of the mid-1990s took over the Bolts' defense when Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer named Dale Lindsey defensive coordinator on February 7, 2002.

From 1992-96, Lindsey was the linebackers coach on the Chargers' defensive staff that helped guide the team to two AFC West titles (1992 and '94), three playoff appearances (1992, '94 and '95) and one AFC Championship (1994).

"I'm extremely proud that someone has given me an opportunity such as Marty who has a great, proven track record of turning teams around," said Lindsey. "It's also very joyous for my wife and me because we both love San Diego. We loved working for the Chargers when we were there once before, and to have a chance to live in what we think is the greatest city in the U.S., it's a win-win situation for us."

Lindsey's return to San Diego will reunite him with All-Pro linebacker Junior Seau. Lindsey took over the Chargers linebackers in Seau's third season with the team in 1992, helping the former first-round pick to develop into one of the league's most-dominant defenders.

"The two qualities that have been very apparent, both in my interview with Dale and with the research I've done, is that first, he is an excellent teacher," said Schottenheimer. "One individual that he worked with told me; 'He's the best coach I've ever seen working with young players.'"

"The second element is that he deals in detail, in very, very specific things," added Schottenheimer. "So I think the combination of those two things puts us in a position where we've added a quality performer to this staff."

"I would hope that people would see me as a teacher first. That's how I look at myself," said Lindsey. "When I left college, my plans were to be a teacher and a coach eventually. Then I got lucky and made a team in the NFL."

"I feel like that in this day and age you have to teach. You can't just throw something on the board and expect somebody to learn it. You have to be able to teach every guy in the room. You have to have patience. That's what the good teachers do."

Lindsey is bringing 27 years worth of coaching experience back with him to San Diego. Fifteen of those seasons have been in the National Football League, and including nine years of playing experience as a linebacker with the Cleveland Browns from 1965-73, Lindsey's tenure in the NFL has spanned 24 seasons.

That experience will be instrumental in determining the Chargers' defensive identity under Lindsey.

"You're going to see a defense that runs to the ball, finishes every play, is tough and physical, and can win in the fourth quarter," said Lindsey. "That is the biggest thing that good teams do. Just for example, this past year in Chicago, that's what our defense did. They weren't the greatest group of players talent-wise in the league. And they weren't the most experienced. But they worked hard and they did all the things that I mentioned. I think that's all you are looking for, players that are going to give you a good day's work."

Lindsey is rejoining the Chargers after spending the previous three seasons (1999-2001) as the linebackers coach for the Chicago Bears, who finished with a record of 13-3 on their way to earning their first NFC Central title last season. It was the Bears' first division title since 1990 and their first trip to the playoffs since 1994.

During his tenure in Chicago, Lindsey oversaw the development of one of the youngest starting linebacking corps in the NFL, including the NFL's 2000 Defensive Rookie of Year and Pro Bowler Brian Urlacher, who shattered the Bears' rookie record for sacks (eight) and tackles (165) in a season. It was the most stops by a Bears linebacker since 1993.

Last season, the Bears' defense was particularly stingy against the run, ranking first in the NFC and second in the entire NFL by limiting opponents to 82.1 rushing yards per game. Only Pittsburgh allowed fewer yards per game on the ground (74.7) in 2001. Three of Lindsey's players, Urlacher (117 tackles), Warrick Holdman (109) and Roosevelt Colvin (70) were among the team's top four tackles in 2001. One year earlier, three of his linebackers, Urlacher (165), Sean Harris (102) and Holdman (87), all finished among the Bears top five tacklers.

Before joining the Bears prior to the 1999

season, Lindsey spent two seasons (1997-98) as the linebackers coach for the Washington Redskins. Lindsey initially joined the Redskins after his successful five-year stint with the Chargers.

After retiring in 1973 from a nine-year (1965-73) playing career as a middle linebacker with the Cleveland Browns, Lindsey jumped right into the coaching ranks when he became the Browns linebackers coach in 1974. He landed in the World Football League in 1975 with the Portland Storm before spending two seasons (1977-78) as the head coach at Warren Central High School in Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Lindsey returned to the professional ranks in 1979, this time with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, coaching the team's linebackers through the 1982 season. His coaching career then took him into his fourth professional league when the United States Football League kicked off in 1983. He coached the linebackers for the Boston Breakers (1983) before taking over as the defensive coordinator for the New Jersey Generals for two seasons (1984-85).

Lindsey returned to the National Football League in 1986 and served as the Green Bay Packers linebackers coach through the 1987 season before following Head Coach Forrest Gregg to Southern Methodist University in 1988, serving as the Mustangs' defensive coordinator for two seasons (1988-89).

In 1990, the NFL came calling once again, and Lindsey became the defensive line coach for the New England Patriots. In 1991, he took over as linebackers coach for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers for one season before joining the Chargers in the same capacity in 1992.

Phillip Dale Lindsey was born on January 18, 1943 in Bedford, Indiana. He grew up in Bowling Green, Kentucky, where he participated in football, basketball and track at Bowling Green High School. His collegiate playing career took him to Western Kentucky, where he was a first-team Little All-America selection as a senior linebacker and was twice named All-Ohio Valley conference. Lindsey was inducted into the Western Kentucky Hall of Fame in 1993.

After his collegiate playing career, Lindsey was drafted by both the NFL's Cleveland Browns in the seventh round and the AFL's New York Jets (sixth round of the Red Shirt draft) in 1965, eventually signing with the Browns.

Dale and his wife, Eva, have five children, Blan (Sept. 6, 1963), Jennifer (March 6, 1965), Kim (July 19, 1967), Johnny (Sept. 25, 1973) and Derek (May 29, 1975).

TIM BREWSTER

Tight Ends

1st NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Tim Brewster, who has 14 years of college coaching experience, was named by Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer as the Chargers tight ends coach on Feb. 24, 2002.

Prior to joining the Chargers, Brewster spent four seasons (1998-2001) as the tight ends coach at the University of Texas. He joined the Longhorns staff from the University of North Carolina, where he served as tight ends coach for eight seasons (1989-97) and as a volunteer assistant for one season (1988).

Five of Brewster's pupils have gone on to have successful careers in the NFL, including former Longhorns tight end Derek Lewis (St. Louis Rams) and Tar Heels Freddie Jones (Chargers and Arizona Cardinals), Alge Crumpler (Atlanta Falcons), Greg DeLong (Minnesota Vikings and Baltimore Ravens) and Deems May (Chargers and Seattle Seahawks).

Before entering the collegiate coaching ranks full time, Brewster was the head coach at Central Catholic High School in Lafayette, Indiana from 1987-88. Brewster started his coaching career as the tight ends coach at Purdue in 1986.

Brewster was born on October 13, 1960 in Phillipsburg, New Jersey. He was a two-time All-Big Ten selection as a tight end at the University of Illinois and he graduated with a degree in political science in 1983. On the gridiron, he led the nation's tight ends in receiving in 1983 and captained the Fighting Illini to the 1984 Rose Bowl against UCLA. After his collegiate career concluded at Illinois, he went to training camp with the New York Giants (1984) and the Philadelphia Eagles (1985).

Brewster and his wife, Cathleen, have three sons, Eric (June 2, 1986), Clint (Sept. 19, 1988) and Nolan (April 11, 1990).

STEVE CROSBY

Special Teams

25th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer added 24 years of NFL experience, including 17 as a coach, to his staff when he named Steve Crosby as the Chargers special teams coach on February 1, 2002.

Prior to joining the Chargers, Crosby, 51, spent four seasons (1998-2001) at Vanderbilt University as offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. In the four seasons he was in charge of the Commodores' offense, the passing game improved each year, from 150.0 yards per game in 1998 to 240.6 yards per game in 2001.

Before his stint at Vanderbilt, Crosby spent two seasons (1996-97) as a scout for the Philadelphia Eagles.

During his 24 years in the NFL, Crosby has spent three seasons as a player, four years as a scout and 17 as a coach. His most recent NFL coaching stop was with Cleveland from 1991-95, where he served as the Browns running backs coach as well as their offensive coordinator (1994-95). In Cleveland, he worked for Head Coach Bill Belichick, who guided the New England Patriots to their first Super Bowl Championship following the 2001 season.

Prior to joining the Browns, Crosby spent one season (1990) coaching the special teams and tight ends for New England.

From 1987-89, Crosby was the running backs coach for the Atlanta Falcons, after spending one season (1986) in charge of the team's quarterbacks. He spent the 1985 season with Cleveland as the Browns running backs coach. Prior to that, he worked with Atlanta's quarterbacks and running backs from 1983-84.

Crosby began his career in professional football as a player, spending the 1974-76 seasons as a running back with the New York Giants.

After his playing days were over, Crosby spent two seasons (1977-78) as a scout for Don Shula's Miami Dolphins. From 1979 through 1982, he began his coaching career with the Dolphins, working with the special teams and linebackers, while also continuing his duties in the player personnel department. He was part of the staff that guided Miami to the 1983 Super Bowl.

During his career as an NFL assistant coach, Crosby has tutored numerous Pro Bowl players, including quarterbacks Steve Bartkowski and Vinny Testaverde, as well as running backs William Andrews, Earnest

Byner, Gerald Riggs and Kevin Mack.

Crosby was an All-American running back at Fort Hays State in Hays, Kansas during a collegiate playing career that spanned the 1970-73 seasons. As a senior, he rushed for 1,024 yards on 179 carries (5.7 avg.). He was twice named to the NAIA All-America team, and he was a three-time all-conference performer before being selected by the Giants in the 17th round of the 1974 NFL Draft.

Crosby was born on July 3, 1950 in Great Bend, Kansas and attended Pawnee Rock High School. He earned a bachelor's degree in physical education and a master's degree in athletic administration, both from Fort Hays State.

Steve and his wife, Lisa, have three children, including sons, Matthew (July 14, 1986) and Jeffrey (March 29, 1988), and daughter, Lauren (Jan. 5, 1993).

JERRY HOLMES

Defensive Backs

14th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Jerry Holmes joined the Chargers as defensive backs coach on February 7, 2002 after spending the previous three seasons in the same capacity with the Washington Redskins (2001) and Cleveland Browns (1999-2000).

As a coach, Holmes embodies the same characteristics that he demonstrated as a player in both the NFL and USFL, physical play and aggressive football. His prowess was demonstrated last season when the Redskins boasted the NFL's sixth-leading defense against the pass. The team's 23 interceptions were fifth-most in the league.

In Holmes' two seasons as defensive backs coach with Cleveland (1999-2000), the Browns defense ranked 11th and 12th in the league against the pass.

Prior to becoming an NFL assistant coach, Holmes spent four seasons (1995-98) as the defensive backs coach at his alma matter, West Virginia University. In 1996, the Mountaineers boasted the nation's top-ranked defense that included a No. 5 national ranking against the pass. He also spent three seasons (1992-94) as the linebackers coach and defensive coordinator at Hampton University. Previously, Holmes completed coaching internships with the Browns, Detroit Lions, the University of New Haven and Boston University.

As a player, Holmes professional career spanned 12 seasons as a cornerback and included stops with the NFL's Green Bay Packers (1990-91), Detroit Lions (1988-89) and New York Jets (1980-83, 86-87), as well as the USFL's New Jersey Generals (1985) and Pittsburgh Maulers (1984). His NFL totals included 25 interceptions, two of which he returned for touchdowns.

Holmes began his collegiate career at Chowan Junior College where he earned an associate degree in business administration before transferring to West Virginia. He lettered for two years at West Virginia and earned his degree in business administration. Holmes has completed course work toward earning a master's degree.

Jerry Holmes was born Dec. 22, 1957 in Newport News, Virginia and attended Bethel High School in Hampton, Virginia. Holmes and wife, Patricia Ann, have one daughter, Natasha Nicole (Aug. 31, 1996).

HUDSON HOUCK

Offensive Line

20th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Chargers Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer added 19 years of NFL experience to his staff when he named Hudson Houck offensive line coach on February 8, 2002.

Prior to joining the Chargers, Houck, 59, spent nine seasons (1993-2001) molding the Dallas Cowboys' offensive line into one of the top units in league history. During his tenure, the Cowboys allowed 237 sacks in 144 regular-season games (an average of 1.6 per game) and achieved top eight rankings in total offense four times. Dallas is one of only three teams in the NFL to have allowed fewer than 40 sacks in each of the last nine years and is the only team to have surrendered fewer than 20 sacks more than once (three times) in that span. Prior to Houck's arrival in Dallas, the Cowboys had allowed fewer than 30 sacks in a season only once in franchise history. Dallas accomplished that feat six times during his tenure.

From 1993-2000, Dallas led the league in fewest sacks allowed with 203 — Miami was second with 225. The Cowboys led the NFC in fewest sacks allowed in five of Houck's nine seasons.

Houck's addition as San Diego's offensive line coach could be good news for running back LaDainian Tomlinson, who finished his first NFL season with a team rookie record 1,236 rushing yards. During Houck's 18-year career as an NFL coach, his lines have helped running backs produce six NFL rushing titles and 17 1,000-yard rushing seasons. His lines have been instrumental in the career of future Hall of Fame running back Emmitt Smith. Dallas is the only team in the NFL to have produced a 1,000-yard rusher in each of the last eight seasons, including 2001, when Smith gained 1,021 yards on 261 carries. Smith moved into second place on the NFL's all-time rushing list in 2001, finishing the season with 16,187 career rushing yards, second in league history to Walter Payton (16,726).

During Houck's tenure in Dallas, six different offensive linemen were named to the Pro Bowl at least two times each: Larry Allen (seven trips), Nate Newton (five), Erik Williams (four), Ray Donaldson (two), Mark Stepnoski (two) and Mark Tuinei (two). In all, six linemen have made 22 trips to the Pro Bowl in the last nine years, a total matched by no other NFL team.

In 2001, the Cowboys finished third in the league with an average of 136.5 rushing yards per game. In comparison, the Chargers averaged 105.9 rushing yards per game last season. The Cowboys allowed just 34 sacks in 413 pass attempts and guard Larry Allen was named to his seventh-consecutive Pro Bowl.

Prior to joining the Cowboys, Houck spent the 1992 season coaching the offensive line for the Seattle Seahawks. His group opened the holes that allowed Chris Warren to rush for 4.6 yards per carry on his way to 1,017 yards, just the fifth 1,000-yard rushing season in team history and the first since 1988.

Before spending one season with the Seahawks, Houck spent nine years directing the offensive line for the Los Angeles Rams. From 1983-91, no team sent more offensive linemen to the Pro Bowl than the Rams. In all, five Rams linemen made 21 trips to Hawaii, led by Jackie Slater (seven trips) and Doug Smith (six).

The work of Houck's offensive line translated into a 1,000-yard rusher in seven of his nine seasons in Los Angeles, including four NFL rushing titles in five years from 1983-87. Running the ball wasn't the Rams' only weapon, as Jim Everett passed for more yards from 1989-91 than any other quarterback in the NFL. Because of the pass protection provided by the offensive line, Everett did not miss a start from 1988-91.

Houck began a 16-year collaboration with John Robinson in 1976 at his alma mater, the University of Southern California. During his tenure at USC, Houck served as the offensive line coach, guiding a group that would open holes for Heisman Trophy winners Charles White and Marcus Allen. While at USC, seven of Houck's linemen earned All-America honors and went on to play in the NFL: Marvin Powell (Jets), Pat Howell (Oilers), Brad Budde (Chiefs), Keith Van Horne (Bears), Roy Foster (Dolphins/49ers), Bruce Matthews (Oilers/Titans) and Don Mosebar (Raiders).

Houck graduated from USC after playing three seasons (1962-64) at center for the Trojans. He was on USC's 1962 national championship team. Houck began his coaching career as an assistant at Crescenta Valley High School in 1966. He served two years in the United States Army from 1967-68 before returning to Crescenta Valley in 1969. From 1970-71, he served his first stint as the freshman coach at USC before moving on to Stanford where he coached the offensive line from 1972-75.

Houck was born on January 7, 1943 in Los Angeles, California. He attended Eagle Rock High School in Los Angeles. During his coaching tenure with the Cowboys, he was a supporter of The Rise School of Dallas, a nonprofit organization providing educational services to children with Down's syndrome. He and his offensive linemen, in conjunction with The Rise School of Dallas, participated in the First Down for Down Syndrome fundraising program. Hudson has a son, Troy (June 15, 1965). His wife, Elsie, has two children, Scott (April 12, 1969) and Holly (April 6, 1972).

JAMES LOFTON

Wide Receivers

17th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

The Chargers added one of the most prolific pass catchers in NFL history to their coaching staff when Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer named James Lofton as the team's wide receivers coach on February 20, 2002. It is Lofton's first coaching assignment.

During an NFL career that spanned 16 seasons (1978-93), Lofton played in 233 games, caught 764 passes for 14,004 yards (18.3 avg.) and scored 75 touchdowns. His 764 career receptions rank 10th in league history, while his 14,004 receiving yards is second in NFL annals to only Jerry Rice (20,386).

Lofton, 45, originally entered the NFL in 1978 as a first-round draft pick (sixth overall) with the Green Bay Packers. He spent his first nine seasons (1978-86) in Green Bay before moving to Los Angeles to play for the Raiders during the 1987-88 seasons. In 1989, he signed with Buffalo, where he spent the next four seasons (1989-92).

It was during his time with the Bills that he got to know current Chargers General Manager John Butler. During Lofton's time with the Bills, he was part of three AFC Championship teams and played in three Super Bowls following the 1990, '91 and '92 seasons.

After his stint in Buffalo, he played in one game with the Los Angeles Rams and nine games with the Philadelphia Eagles before retiring after the 1993 season.

Lofton's finest NFL seasons came in 1983 and 1984 with the Packers. In 1983, he caught 58 passes for 1,300 yards and eight touchdowns and led the NFL with an average of 22.4 yards per catch. The following year, he caught 62 passes for 1,361 yards and seven scores for an average of 22.0 yards per catch, also tops in the NFL that season.

Lofton joined the Chargers after spending the past eight years in broadcasting. From 1994-96, he was an analyst for CNN's NFL Preview Show. In 1997, he spent a year as an analyst on NFL games for NBC. In 1998, he returned to CNN as a studio analyst for CNN's coverage of the NFL. Over the last three years (1998-2001), Lofton has worked as a game analyst on FOX Sports Net's broadcast of Big 12 football games while also doing NFL games for CBS Radio on Westwood One. From 1995-2001, Lofton worked as an analyst for the Carolina Panthers on the team's preseason telecasts.

James David Lofton was born on July 5, 1956 in Fort Ord, California. He attended

George Washington High School in Los Angeles before a standout career at Stanford University. His career receiving totals at Stanford included 68 catches for 1,216 yards (17.9 avg.). In 1977, he set the school single-season record with 12 touchdown catches. He was a three-year letter winner (1975-77) for the Cardinal in football. He also had an outstanding career in track and field at Stanford where he was a four-time All-American selection. In 1978, he won the NCAA Championship in the long jump. Lofton graduated from Stanford in 1978 with a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering.

Lofton has continued his track and field career by competing in Master's events over the past five years (1997-2001). In 1997, he won the Texas State Master's championship in the 200 and 400 meters and in the long jump. In 1999, he won the World Master's Games championship in the long jump, and in 2001, he won the National Master's long jump championship.

James and his wife, Beverly, have three children, including two sons, David (Jan. 28, 1984) and Daniel (July 2, 1987), and one daughter, Rachel (Sept. 12, 1990). David was an Academic All-State selection as a quarterback at Plano West High School in Plano, Texas and will be attending Stanford in 2002.

GREG MANUSKY

Linebackers

14th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Chargers Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer added linebackers coach Greg Manusky to his coaching staff on February 7, 2002. Manusky, who is in his second season as an NFL assistant coach, spent the 2001 season as the linebackers coach for the Washington Redskins under Schottenheimer.

With the Chargers, Manusky will have the opportunity to work with 11-time Pro Bowl linebacker Junior Seau.

Manusky entered the coaching ranks when he joined the Redskins staff in 2001 after concluding a successful 12-year playing career. His playing career included stops in Washington (1988-90), Minnesota (1991-93) and Kansas City (1994-99). Manusky, 6-1, 240 pounds, was known for being a hard-nosed workhorse and a demon on special teams. Those characteristics enabled him to play in 113 consecutive games at the end of his career, a streak which spanned more than seven seasons from the last game of the 1993 season until he retired from the Chiefs in 1999.

Manusky spent his first three professional seasons in Washington. During his stay in the Nation's capitol, the Redskins were a combined 27-21 and reached the second round of the playoffs in 1990. From Washington, Manusky went on to spend three seasons in Minnesota before joining forces with Schottenheimer and the Chiefs in 1994 where he blossomed into a special teams standout. In each of his six seasons in Kansas City, Manusky was either the team's leading tackler or was tied for the team lead in tackles on special teams.

After retiring from the NFL in 1999, Manusky spent the 2000 season as a volunteer at the Tampa Bay Buccaneers training camp where he worked with the linebackers and special teams units. He joined Schottenheimer's staff with the Redskins one year later.

As a collegian, Manusky was a four-year letterman and an All-Colonial League selection at Colgate University. As a senior, he was named the league's defensive player of the year. Manusky concluded his collegiate career at Colgate with 408 tackles before graduating with degrees in education and geology.

Prior to entering the collegiate ranks, Manusky was a prep standout at Dallas High School in his hometown of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania.

Gregory Manusky was born on August 12, 1966. Greg and his wife, Laurie, have two sons, Colton Paul (March 22, 1995) and Jake (Nov. 19, 1996), and one daughter, Logan May (May 11, 1999).

WAYNE NUNNELY

Defensive Line

8th NFL Season,
6th with Chargers

When Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer started assembling his coaching staff with the Chargers, he didn't have to look far for his first hire when he retained defensive line coach Wayne Nunnely on February 1, 2002.

Considered one of the top defensive line coaches in the NFL, Nunnely, 50, has spent the previous five seasons (1997-2001) as the Chargers' defensive line coach. He will be in his eighth season as a coach in the National Football League in 2002.

The Chargers' defensive line has been one of the NFL's stingiest against the run under Nunnely, leading the league in yards per carry allowed in three of the past four seasons. In 2001, the Chargers led the NFL by allowing opponents to rush for just 3.3 yards per carry. Previously the Chargers ranked second in the league in 2000 by allowing opponents just 3.0 yards per carry. In 1998-99, San Diego led the league in that category.

In 1998, San Diego's defense was the best in the league at stopping the run. The Chargers led the NFL in rushing yards allowed per game (71.3) and opponent yards per carry (2.7), the lowest average allowed by any team since 1951. The Chargers did not allow a 100-yard rusher in 1998, despite facing several of the NFL's top running backs, including 2,000-yard rusher Terrell Davis (69 and 74 yards) and 1,000-yard rushers Marshall Faulk, Eddie George, Ricky Watters, Antowain Smith, Duce Staley, Gary Brown and Adrian Murrell. In fact, none of the players listed rushed for more than 75 yards in a single game against the Chargers in 1998.

In 2001, the Chargers' defensive line added a new dimension with the acquisition of defensive end Marcellus Wiley. In his first season in San Diego, Wiley led the team with 13 sacks and earned his first trip to the Pro Bowl, while fellow linemen John Parrela and Raylee Johnson were named second and third alternates, respectively, to the NFL's all-star game. Wiley and Johnson, who had 9.5 sacks after returning to the field following a devastating knee injury that kept him off the field for the entire 2000 season, combined for one of the NFL's top pass-rushing defensive end tandems last season. Wiley and Johnson's 22.5 combined sacks was tied for tops in the AFC and was matched by only Baltimore's Peter Boulware (15) and Mike McCrary (7.5).

Before joining the Chargers as defensive line coach prior to the 1997 season, Nunnely spent two seasons (1995-96) in the same capacity with the New Orleans Saints. In his two years with New Orleans, the Saints' defense ranked in the top five in the NFL in sacks and sacks per play. He first worked for the Saints in their training camp in 1994 as part of the NFL's Minority Coaching Fellowship program.

Prior to joining New Orleans full-time, Nunnely spent nearly 20 years as an assistant coach, head coach and administrator on the collegiate level. He spent two seasons (1993-94) as the defensive line coach at UCLA where he helped the Bruins win the 1993 Pac-10 championship and earn a Rose Bowl appearance. He also spent two seasons (1991-92) as the running backs coach at USC.

Nunnely's first job as a coach was at Valley High School in Las Vegas, Nevada, in 1975. He began his collegiate coaching career as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, in 1976. His initial full-time job came at Cal Poly-Pomona, where he coached the running backs in 1977 and the defensive line in 1978. He moved to Cal State-Fullerton for one season (1979) where he coached the defensive line. He then went on to the University of the Pacific (1980-81), coaching running backs, before returning to UNLV (1982-85), where he served as running backs coach and helped the Rebels win their first PCAA and California Bowl championship in 1984.

In 1986, Nunnely became head coach at UNLV, a post he manned for four seasons. At the time of his appointment, he was the first African-American head coach on the West Coast and only the fifth in NCAA Division 1A history. In 1988, he and Cleve Bryant of Ohio University were the first African-American head coaches in the history of NCAA Division 1A football to coach against each other, with Nunnely's UNLV squad coming out on top, 26-18. In 1990, Nunnely served in administration at UNLV as the Director of Minority Student Affairs.

Nunnely played fullback and also lettered in track at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas for two seasons (1972-73), where he earned a bachelor's degree in physical education. The school's faculty named him Most Outstanding Male Physical Educator.

Wayne Benjamin Nunnely was born March 29, 1952 in Los Angeles, California. He played football, basketball and track at Monrovia High School in Monrovia, California. He and wife, Velda, have two sons, Channing (July 10, 1973) and Aaron (Oct. 27, 1986), and daughter, Amber (July 30, 1983). Wayne is the co-founder of "The Snapper," a device used by defensive line coaches to simulate the center snapping the ball.

BRIAN SCHOTTENHEIMER

Quarterbacks

4th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer added a familiar face to his staff when he named his son, Brian Schottenheimer, the Chargers quarterbacks coach on February 7, 2002.

Brian will be entering his fourth full season as an NFL coach. Previously, he was on his father's staffs in Washington and Kansas City after beginning his NFL coaching career with St. Louis in 1997.

A former quarterback at the University of Florida, Brian served as the Redskins quarterbacks coach in Washington last season. In Kansas City, he spent one season (1998) working as an offensive assistant/quality control for the Chiefs. His duties included analyzing and self-scouting the Chiefs' offense and evaluating video and computer data. He was also responsible for compiling research on Kansas City's offensive efficiency and tendencies.

In Brian's NFL coaching debut in 1997, he was an assistant to the offensive coaching staff of the St. Louis Rams, working closely with Head Coach Dick Vermeil and such respected offensive assistants as Jerry Rhome, Dick Coury, Jim Hanifan and Mike White.

Brian has five years of coaching experience, having also guided the tight ends at the University of Southern California in 2000 and the wide receivers at Syracuse University in 1999. While at Syracuse, he tutored wide receiver Quinton Spotwood, who finished fifth on the school's career receptions list. The Orangemen went 7-5 and defeated Kentucky in the Music City Bowl in Schottenheimer's one season of coaching at Syracuse.

During his three-year (1994-96) playing career at the University of Florida, Schottenheimer saw action in 20 games, completing 25 of 38 passes for 290 yards with two touchdowns and one rushing score. As a senior in 1996, he backed up to Heisman Trophy winner Danny Wuerffel on the Gators' NCAA National Championship squad that averaged 503.9 yards of offense and 46.6 points per game. Schottenheimer began his collegiate career at the University of Kansas in 1992 before transferring to Florida. He graduated with a bachelor's degree from the University of Florida in 1997.

Brian Schottenheimer was born on October 16, 1973 in Denver, Colorado. He attended Blue Valley High School in Overland Park, Kansas, where he led the school to a 12-0 record and the Kansas 5A State Championship as a senior. Schottenheimer and the former Gemmi Weathers were married in June 2002.

CLARENCE SHELMON

Running Backs

12th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Clarence Shelmon, a veteran of 27 years of coaching, including 11 in the NFL, joined Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer's staff as running backs coach on Feb. 24, 2002.

Shelmon will oversee the development of one of the most explosive young running backs in the NFL, LaDainian Tomlinson. Tomlinson is coming off an outstanding rookie campaign when he had the second-highest rushing total in Chargers history with 1,236 yards, which ranked ninth in the NFL and fifth in the AFC last year. Tomlinson rushed for 10 touchdowns, the most by a Chargers back since 1994, and was tied for second among NFL rookies with four 100-yard rushing games in 2001.

Prior to joining the Chargers, Shelmon spent the previous four seasons (1998-2001) with the Dallas Cowboys as running backs coach where he worked with Tomlinson's idol, Emmitt Smith. During Shelmon's four-season tenure, Smith accumulated 4,953 yards to move up to second place on the NFL's all-time rushing list with 16,187 yards, trailing only Walter Payton (16,726). Smith rushed for 1,000 yards or more in each of his four seasons under Shelmon. In 2001, he was the seventh leading rusher in the NFC with 1,021 yards.

Prior to joining the Cowboys, Shelmon was the running backs coach for the Seattle Seahawks from 1992-97, during which time the Seahawks finished among the NFL's top five rushing teams in four of his final five seasons. Shelmon helped running back Chris Warren, the Seahawks all-time leading rusher, become a four-time 1,000-yard rusher (1992-95) and earn three trips to the Pro Bowl.

Shelmon entered the NFL in 1991 as the running backs coach with the Los Angeles Rams before moving to Seattle.

Shelmon made the jump to the NFL after four seasons at the University of Southern California, including two as running backs coach (1987-88) and two more (1989-90) as the Trojans' running game coordinator. At USC, Shelmon aided in the development of standout running backs Aaron Emanuel, Ricky Ervins and Leroy Holt.

In 1989, Shelmon guided Ervins to the Pac-10 rushing title with 1,395 yards. Ervins also earned All-America honorable mention and All-Pac-10 honors. In 1988, Holt captured All-Pac-10 honors, while in 1987, tailback Steven Webster ran for 1,109 yards on his way to All-America honorable mention and All-Pac-10 accolades. During Shelmon's tenure, the Trojans made three consecutive Rose Bowl appearances, including a victory over Michigan in 1990.

Before joining the Trojans, Shelmon handled the running backs at Arizona for three seasons (1984-86). With the Wildcats, Shelmon helped develop running backs Vance Johnson, who later starred as a wide receiver for the Denver Broncos, and David Adams, who finished his career as the third leading rusher in Arizona history.

In all, eight of Shelmon's backs earned All-Pac-10 honors, including two conference rushing champions and one second place finisher.

Shelmon started his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Houston from 1975-

76. Following a year (1977) of coaching at Carroll High School in Corpus Christi, Texas, Shelmon spent three seasons at Army (1978-80), where he coached tight ends and running backs. He then moved to Indiana University for three seasons (1981-83) as running backs coach.

Shelmon was born on September 17, 1952 in Bossier City, Louisiana. He attended Airline High School and played collegiately at the University of Houston, where he lettered twice as a running back. He graduated with a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Houston. He also attended Long Island University where he worked toward a master's degree in guidance and counseling.

Shelmon plays an active role as a board member for the annual Gary "Big Hands" Johnson Drug, Alcohol and Tobacco Awareness Camp in Saginaw, Michigan. Johnson also is a native of Bossier City, was inducted into the Chargers Hall of Fame in 1999 in recognition of his outstanding playing career with San Diego from 1975-84.

In addition to his work with awareness camp, Shelmon and his wife, Nancy, have created a foundation in memory of his mother, Ruby Shelmon, which annually helps fund the college education of two high school seniors from his hometown.

Clarence's wife, Nancy, lives and works in Los Angeles.

JOE PASCALE

Special Projects

17th NFL Season,
6th with Chargers

Chargers President Dean Spanos announced on February 15, 2001 that former defensive coordinator Joe Pascale has been retained to work on special projects for the team.

Pascale, who coordinated the league's top-ranked defense in 1998, has been with the Chargers since becoming the team's defensive coordinator in 1997. He missed the majority of the 2001 season while recovering from three back surgeries. Pascale will continue his rehabilitation process while working for the team.

Pascale, a veteran of 35 years of coaching, is in his sixth season with the San Diego Chargers.

Pascale's years of coaching experience include 16 in the National Football League, two in the United States Football League, four in the Canadian Football League and 13 years in the collegiate ranks. During his career, he has coached every position on defense and has been a defensive coordinator in the NFL, CFL and in college.

Pascale and his staff guided one of the NFL's stingiest defenses against the run. In 2000, the Chargers allowed opponents just 3.0 yards per carry, ranking second in the league. In the two years prior, the Chargers led the NFL in that category. The Chargers also ranked fourth overall in the NFL in rushing yards allowed per game, holding opponents to an average of 88.9 yards.

In 1998, Pascale was the architect of the NFL's number-one ranked defense. San Diego's defense led the league in several defensive categories, including total yards allowed (4,208), total rushing yards allowed (1,140), yards allowed per game (263.0), rushing yards allowed per game (71.3), opponent yards per carry (2.7), opponent yards per play (4.2) and average yards allowed on first down (3.84).

Perhaps the most impressive statistic from the 1998 season was that the Chargers' defense held opponents to just 2.7 yards per rushing attempt, the lowest total by any NFL team since 1951. In 1998, San Diego's defense led the NFL by allowing just 1,140 total rushing yards, which was the fourth-best total since 1978.

In addition to leading the NFL in several defensive categories in 1998, Pascale's defense also ranked in the top three in other areas, including opponent completion percentage (.511, second in NFL), rushing first downs allowed (72, third), total first downs allowed (256, third) and opponents success rate on third down (30%, second).

The Chargers' defense did not allow a 100-yard rusher in 1998, having faced several of the NFL's top rushers. Terrell Davis, who led the NFL with 2,008 yards, was held to 69 and 74 yards in two meetings against the Chargers. The Chargers faced seven 1,000-yard rushers, and none rushed for more than 74 yards against the Bolts, including Marshall Faulk, Eddie George, Ricky Watters, Antowain Smith, Duce Staley, Gary Brown and Adrian Murrell.

San Diego's success against the run was coupled with the team's improved pass defense. Only Miami (.500) allowed a lower completion percentage by its opponents than San Diego (.511). The Chargers' defense notched 39 sacks in 1998, up from 27 in 1997, and the team's most since recording 43 in 1994.

Pascale was originally named the Chargers' defensive coordinator on January 27, 1997. Before joining the Chargers, he spent three seasons (1994-96) as the linebackers coach of the Cincinnati Bengals. In 1996, the Bengals' defense led the NFL in takeaways with 44, including a league-high 34 interceptions.

Before joining the Bengals, Pascale spent eight seasons (1986-93) on the defensive staff of the Phoenix Cardinals.

Before his stint with the Cardinals, Pascale coached two seasons (1984-85) for the New Jersey Generals of the United States Football League. Pascale spent four seasons coaching in the Canadian Football League, including two each with the Ottawa Rough Riders (1982-83) and Montreal Alouettes (1980-81). In each of his six seasons in the USFL and CFL, Pascale's teams made playoff appearances.

Pascale's coaching career began as an assistant coach at the University of Connecticut (1967-69). He then spent four seasons (1970-73) as an assistant at Rhode Island before working as an assistant at Idaho State for two seasons (1974-75). In 1976, he was the head coach at Idaho State. He spent his last three seasons (1977-79) in the collegiate ranks as an assistant coach at Princeton.

Pascale played linebacker, nose tackle and offensive guard at Connecticut for four seasons (1963-66). He also played defense on the school's lacrosse team. He earned bachelor's and master's degrees in education and completed an advanced graduate curriculum in education administration at Connecticut.

Joseph Vincent Pascale was born April 17, 1946 in New York City. He played two years of football both at Cardinal Hayes High School in the Bronx, New York, and Lakeland High School in Peekskill, N.Y.

Joe and his wife, Lucille, have a son, Joseph (March 22, 1977), and reside in Coronado, California.

Offensive
Assistant -
Quality Control

3rd NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Pete Carmichael, Jr. joined Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer's coaching staff on Feb. 24, 2002 as offensive assistant-quality control after spending the previous season in the same capacity with the Washington Redskins.

Prior to joining the Redskins, Carmichael spent one season (2000) as the tight ends coach and offensive assistant for the Cleveland Browns. He joined the Browns after five seasons (1995-99) as the quarterbacks coach at Louisiana Tech. During his tenure, nearly every school passing record at Louisiana Tech was broken.

Carmichael began his coaching career in 1994 at the University of New Hampshire as an offensive line coach, during which time the Wildcats won the Yankee Conference championship.

Pete Carmichael, Jr., was born on Oct. 6, 1971 in Framingham, Massachusetts. He attended Medway High in Medway, Massachusetts where he played football and baseball. He went on to a collegiate playing career in baseball and was a four-year letterman at Boston College. As a senior, he was the team's captain and Most Valuable Player, as well as an All-Big East selection. Carmichael graduated with a degree in mathematics from Boston College in 1994.

Pete and his wife, Tina, have a son, Pete (Dec. 7, 1999), and a daughter, Allison (March 15, 2001).

PAGANO

Defensive
Assistant -
Quality Control

7th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer filled the final position on his coaching staff on February 27, 2002 when he named John Pagano as the Chargers' defensive assistant-quality control.

Pagano joined the Chargers after spending the past four seasons (1998-2001) as a defensive assistant with the Indianapolis Colts. In his role as defensive assistant, Pagano helped coach the Colts' secondary while also assisting in all areas of defensive preparation. Prior to his stint in Indianapolis, he spent two years (1996-97) as a defensive assistant with the New Orleans Saints.

Pagano, 34, began his coaching career in 1989 as an assistant coach at his alma mater, Mesa State College in Grand Junction, Colorado. After one year at Mesa, he spent two seasons (1990-91) as an assistant coach at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas. In 1992, Pagano became an assistant coach at Overland High School in Aurora, Colorado, where he remained for two years. He returned to the collegiate ranks in 1994, serving as a graduate assistant coach at Louisiana Tech in 1994 and at the University of Mississippi in 1995 before getting his first coaching position on the professional level with New Orleans in 1996.

John Pagano was born on March 30, 1967 in Boulder, Colorado. He played linebacker at Mesa State College from 1985-88 before entering the coaching profession. John and his wife, Kimberly, have one son, Jagger (July 6, 2001).

DAVE REDDING

Strength and Conditioning

18th NFL Season,
1st with Chargers

Dave Redding, entering his 18th season in the National Football League, was put in charge of the Chargers' strength and conditioning program by Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer on February 7, 2002.

Prior to being in charge of Washington's strength and conditioning program last season, he worked in the same capacity with Cleveland (1982-88) and Kansas City (1989-97). Schottenheimer was the head coach for all three teams.

During his tenures at Kansas City and Washington, Redding redesigned both teams' weight rooms. His personalized conditioning program includes weightlifting while also stressing flexibility, running, plyometrics, speed enhancement and proper nutrition. In 1993, Redding received the Emrich/Riecke/Jones Award sponsored by U.S.A. Fitness, which was voted on by his NFL peers.

Before becoming Cleveland's first-ever strength and conditioning coach in 1982, Redding served as the strength coach at Missouri (1978-81) and Washington State (1977), where he also worked with the Cougars defensive ends. He began his coaching career in 1976 at his alma mater, Nebraska, as a graduate assistant for the Cornhuskers under Head Coach Tom Osborne.

During Marty Schottenheimer's two-year layoff from coaching spanning the 1999-2000 seasons, Redding was the national sports director for Advocare, a Dallas-based nutrition company.

Collegiately, Redding was a three-year letterman as a defensive end at the University of Nebraska during a playing career that spanned the 1972-75 seasons.

Redding was born on June 14, 1952 in Holdenville, Oklahoma. He earned a bachelor's degree from Nebraska in 1977. Redding has one daughter, Taylor Reta (March 30, 1988).

PLAYER PERSONNEL

BUDDY NIX

Director of Player Personnel

10th NFL Season,
2nd with Chargers

A veteran of nine seasons of evaluating NFL talent, Buddy Nix is in his second year as Chargers' Director of Player Personnel.

Nix spent the previous eight seasons (1993-2000) as a scout with the Buffalo Bills. Prior to working for the Bills, Nix was the head coach at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga from 1984-92. In his first season as head coach, Nix led UTC to the Southern Conference title.

Nix's coaching career began in 1961 as a graduate assistant at Alabama. He then went on to coaching jobs at Anniston (1962-64) and Eufaula (1964-67) High Schools in Alabama before moving to Jonesboro High (1967-69) in Georgia.

Nix returned to the college ranks in the fall of 1969 as the secondary coach at Carson-Newman College. In 1970, he was the defensive coordinator at Livingston University, and from 1972-75, he was the linebackers coach and defensive coordinator at Southern Mississippi.

From 1976-80, he coached the secondary, defensive line and linebackers at Auburn. In 1981, he moved to Louisiana State where he coached the offensive line for one year before becoming the defensive coordinator the following season. In 1982, LSU's defense was ranked No. 1 in the Southeastern Conference and No. 4 in the nation.

Nix was born December 6, 1939 in Carbon Hill, Alabama. He attended Talladega High School in Talladega, Alabama, before playing linebacker and fullback at Livingston University. He was selected for induction to the school's hall of fame in 1983.

Buddy and his wife, Diann, have three children, Steve (Feb. 13, 1965), Stan (June 26, 1967) and Stacey (Oct. 29, 1973).

JIMMY RAYE

Director of College Scouting

8th NFL Season,
7th with Chargers

Raye was named the Chargers' Director of College Scouting on June 8, 2000. He oversees and coordinates the team's college scouting efforts.

Raye is in his seventh season with the Chargers, having spent four years (1996-99) as a scout. He originally joined the Chargers' staff as a scout on June 1, 1996, after spending the 1995 season as an offensive assistant-quality control coach for the Kansas City Chiefs.

Raye's NFL career began in 1991 when he signed a free-agent contract with the Los Angeles Rams where he played in the final two games of the 1991 season after spending the first 14 games on the Rams' developmental squad. He attended training camps with the Chargers (1992) and Houston Oilers (1993) before spending the 1994 season as the wide receivers coach for Irvine High School in Irvine, California.

Prior to joining the Chiefs in April of 1995, Raye worked briefly for his former collegiate head coach Al Luginbill and the Amsterdam Admirals of the World League. Raye's father, Jimmy Raye II, is the offensive coordinator for the Washington Redskins.

Raye played wide receiver for San Diego State where he finished his collegiate career tied for eighth on the school's all-time receiving list with 111 catches.

James Arthur Raye III was born November 24, 1968 in Fayetteville, North Carolina. He earned All-South Coast League honors as a defensive back for the Irvine High Vaqueros in Irvine where he also played basketball and ran track. He earned a degree in public administration from San Diego State University.

3rd with Chargers

Langsdorf joined the Chargers as a full-time scout prior to the 2000 season. He is responsible for scouting the Northwest region and has been the team's representative to the National Scouting Combine.

Prior to joining the Chargers, Langsdorf spent 20 years as a coach and teacher at Linfield College in McMinnville, Oregon. In 1999, he was the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. In 1998 he coached the quarterbacks after spending the previous two seasons (1996-97) coaching the wide receivers. He spent the 1992-95 seasons as Linfield's head coach. Langsdorf spent his first 12 seasons (1980-91) at Linfield as the school's wide receivers coach.

Edward Vernon Langsdorf was born December 23, 1944 in Vallejo, California. He attended Glasgow High School in Glasgow, Montana, where he played football, basketball and ran track for the Scotties. He continued his football playing career as a defensive end and tight end for the Concordia College Cobbers in Moorhead, Minnesota. He graduated from Concordia with a degree in history in 1967. Langsdorf earned a master's degree in physical education from Washington State University in 1969 and a doctorate of education in physical education from Arizona State in 1979.

Ed and his wife, Jan, have a daughter, Lisa (June 19, 1970) and a son, Danny (June 28, 1972), who is the quarterbacks coach for the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League. The Langsdorfs reside in McMinnville, Oregon.

TOM McCONNAUGHEY

College Scout

6th NFL Season,
5th with Chargers

McConnaughey joined the Chargers as a full-time scout on June 19, 1998, after serving one year (1997) as an area scout for National Football Scouting, Inc.

McConnaughey was the head football coach at Federal Way High School in Federal Way, Washington, for nine seasons from 1988-96. Prior to his head coaching position, McConnaughey was an assistant coach at South Kitsap High School in Port Orchard, Washington, from 1986-88.

McConnaughey's professional playing experience includes two seasons (1983-84) as a wide receiver for the New Jersey Generals of the United States Football League. In two seasons with the Generals, he caught 59 passes for 916 yards and four touchdowns. His 42 receptions for 691 yards in 1983 led New Jersey. McConnaughey attended training camps with the New Orleans Saints (1981), New York Jets (1982) and Philadelphia Eagles (1984), before spending the 1985 season on Minnesota's "Reserve-Injured" list.

McConnaughey began his collegiate career as a wide receiver at Spokane Falls Community College from 1975-76. He played for the University of Oregon in 1977 and completed his collegiate career at the University of Central Arkansas from 1978-79. McConnaughey remained at Central Arkansas after his eligibility expired as an assistant coach from 1980-82. He also coached one season (1983) at Spokane Community College.

Tom Ross McConnaughey was born August 1, 1957 in Amarillo, Texas. He graduated from Central Arkansas with a bachelor's degree in physical education in 1980 and went on to earn his master's degree in physical education from Central Arkansas in 1982. He and his wife, Sheri, have two children, Donny (July 4, 1988), and Monica (Oct. 12, 1992), and reside in Federal Way, Washington.

DARRELL MOODY

Darrell Moody joined the Chargers as a full-time scout on June 15, 2002. He has 28 years of experience as a college coach. Moody is responsible for evaluating college players in the Southeastern region of the United States.

Moody joins the Chargers from Eastern Randolph High School in Ramseur, North Carolina where he was the offensive coordinator for the 2001 season. During the 1998-2000 seasons, Moody was an assistant coach at the University of North Carolina. He coached the wide receivers from 1998-99 and in 2000, he became the running backs coach and was responsible for coordinating the Tar Heels' recruiting efforts. Moody was also the offensive coordinator at North Carolina from 1988-95. In addition to his duties as offensive coordinator, Moody was also the quarterbacks coach (1988-89) and running backs coach (1990-95). From 1992-95, the Tar Heels played in four consecutive bowl games. In between stints at North Carolina, Moody was the offensive coordinator at Clemson in 1996 and the wide receivers coach at his alma mater, North Carolina State, in 1997.

A native of Asheboro, North Carolina, Moody was a quarterback at N.C. State from 1968-70, where he earned an undergraduate degree in economics and a master's degree in vocational education. Moody began his coaching career following graduation from the Raleigh, North Carolina campus, spending the 1971-72 seasons at Asheboro High School. He began his collegiate coaching career as a graduate assistant at N.C. State from 1973-74. In 1975, he was named quarterbacks and running backs coach at Southern Mississippi before returning to N.C. State as defensive backs coach in 1976. From 1977-79, he oversaw the Wolfpack's quarterbacks and running backs.

In 1980, Moody was named the running backs coach at Louisiana State University, where he remained until 1983. In 1984 he was named the assistant head coach at Appalachian State and from 1985-87, he served as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Tulane University, before being hired at North Carolina.

Darrell Lee Moody was born Sept. 4, 1948 in Asheboro. He and wife, Martha, live in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. The Moody's have two sons, Chris (June 10, 1975) and Michael (March 2, 1981).

PAUL SKANSI

College Scout

12th NFL Season,
3rd with Chargers

Paul Skansi joined the Chargers as a full-time scout on June 19, 2000.

A former NFL wide receiver, Skansi had been coaching college football prior to joining the Chargers. He entered the coaching ranks in 1994 as an assistant wide receivers coach at his alma mater, the University of Washington. In 1995, he was hired as the wide receivers coach at the University of Idaho under head coach Chris Tormey. In December, 1999, Tormey accepted the head coaching position at Nevada and Skansi soon followed. He was at Nevada from December, 1999, until he was hired by the Chargers.

Skansi's NFL career lasted for nine seasons. He was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in the fifth round of the 1983 draft. He spent the 1993 season with the Steelers and was released during training camp in 1994. Skansi joined the Seattle Seahawks and played eight years in Seattle, during which he recorded 166 receptions for 1,950 yards and 10 touchdowns. He left Seattle following the 1991 season and ended his playing career in 1992 with the Canadian Football League's Ottawa Rough Riders.

As a collegian, Skansi was an all-conference performer and an honorable mention All-America at Washington. He finished his college career as the Huskies' all-time leading receiver with 138 receptions for 1,723 yards. He earned a degree in sociology.

Paul Skansi was born January 11, 1961 in Tacoma, Washington. He and wife, Stephanie, have two daughters, Taylor (April 5, 1993) and Madison (Sept. 10, 1997), and reside in Poulsbo, Washington.

FOOTBALL STAFF

JAMES COLLINS

Head Athletic Trainer

15th NFL Season,
7th with Chargers
(4th as Head Trainer)

James Collins, a veteran of 14 seasons in the National Football League, was named the Chargers' head athletic trainer on January 28, 1999. Collins' NFL experience includes three years with Philadelphia (1996-98), five in Denver (1990-94) and six in San Diego (1986-89, 1999-2000).

Collins joined the Chargers after spending three seasons (1996-98) as the head athletic trainer of the Philadelphia Eagles. He spent the summer of 1995 with the World League's London Monarchs as head athletic trainer. Collins spent five years (1990-95) as an assistant athletic trainer with the Denver Broncos.

Collins' first athletic training experience in the NFL came with the Chargers when he joined the team as an intern during the 1986 season after receiving his degree in physical education from San Diego State University. In 1987, Collins was promoted to assistant trainer, a position he held with the Chargers until 1989. During his tenure in San Diego, Collins also served as an orthopedic technician and surgical assistant for two years with the OASIS Medical Group.

Collins also is a member of the National Athletic Trainer's Association and serves on the NFL's injury and safety panel.

From 1980-82, Collins was an aviation physiology technician in the United States Navy. He attended Morris Brown College in Atlanta, where he played basketball.

Collins was born January 4, 1957 in Lothian, Maryland. James and his wife, Patricia, have one son, James T. III, and live in Scripps Ranch.

KEN DERRETT

Vice President &
Chief Marketing Officer

Chargers President-Chief Executive Officer Dean Spanos named veteran sports executive Ken Derrett Vice President & Chief Marketing Officer on Sept. 24, 2001. Derrett is responsible for all marketing and sales functions for the team.

Derrett was the Senior Vice President for Global Marketing Partnerships for the National Basketball Association, a position he assumed in March of 1999. He joined the NBA in 1995 when NBA Canada was established, and he was named Managing Director of NBA Canada in 1996.

Previously, Derrett was Manager, Sports and Entertainment Properties at Labatt Breweries of Canada from 1988-95. He managed a variety of sports properties including the NFL, Toronto Blue Jays, Canadian Olympic Association, Hockey Canada, the Canadian Curling Association and the Commonwealth Games. In addition, Derrett managed several strategic relationships for the company including SkyDome, TSN and the Canadian Country Music Association.

Joining the Chargers was actually a return to the football industry for Derrett who worked for the Canadian Football League from 1978-88, where his duties included developing the annual business and operations plan for the Grey Cup championship.

Derrett is a native of Winnipeg, Manitoba and received his Bachelor of Commerce in sports administration from Laurentian University in Sudbury, Ontario. He and his wife, Denise, have two children, Amy (March 15, 1990) and Trevor (March 5, 1992), and reside in Del Mar.

RON GEORGE

Director of Player Development

Ron George was hired by the Chargers in July 2002 as Director of Player Development. In his role with the team, George is responsible for helping players prepare for life after football, including advice on matters concerning fiscal responsibility, budgeting, financial planning, investment opportunities and continuing education.

George arrived in San Diego after working for CSI Capital Management in Atlanta, Georgia where he was Vice President of Wealth Management since September 2001. A financial planner registered by the NFL Players Association, George was an investment counselor for CSI who recruited top collegiate and NFL athletes to the management firm.

Prior to entering the financial management field, George spent eight seasons as an NFL linebacker with the Kansas City Chiefs (1998-2000), Minnesota Vikings (1997-98) and Atlanta Falcons (1993-96). He retired from professional football following the 2000 season with career totals which included 206 tackles, three sacks and five fumble recoveries on defense and 97 tackles and a blocked field goal on special teams. A durable player who appeared in 125 career games, George finished his career appearing in 122 consecutive games dating back to the 1993 season.

During his playing career, George also participated in several internship programs. In 2002, he was an intern for Hall of Fame wide receiver and Oklahoma congressman Steve Largent where he researched legislative issues and participated in strategy sessions concerning committee platform. George also completed internships for CNN-Sports Illustrated in Atlanta in 2000, NFL Properties in New York in 1999, E-Z Serve Convenience Stores, Inc. in Atlanta from 1996-99 and Sprint Communications in Atlanta in 1994.

Ronald LaRoi George was born March 20, 1970 in Ann Arbor, Michigan. He earned a bachelor's degree in economics from Stanford University in 1992. George and wife, Julie, have one daughter, Grace (Dec.

6, 1999) and a son, Riley (July 26, 2001). The George's reside in San Diego.

BILL JOHNSTON

Director of Public Relations

Johnston is in his 13th season as the director of public relations and his 24th season with the team. He oversees all communications for the team, including media relations, publications and editorial content on the team's Web site. He also held the position of director of community relations for two years, 1988-89.

Johnston joined the Chargers in March, 1979, while attending San Diego State University. He earned a degree in journalism in 1981, and was named public relations assistant that year. He served as assistant director of public relations from 1984-87.

William Francis Johnston was born Dec. 9, 1957 in La Mesa, California, and attended Helix High School. He is on the board of directors of the Huntington's Disease Society of America, San Diego. Bill and his wife, Ramona, reside in Rancho San Diego with their son Jared (May 22, 1985) and daughter Hayley (July 15, 1988).

KIMBERLEY LAYTON

Director of Public Affairs &
Corporate/Community Relations

Layton was named director of public affairs and corporate/community relations June 16, 2000. She joined the Chargers after serving as the Chief of Staff for Mayor Susan Golding since 1998.

Layton works to expand the Chargers' outreach and impact in the San Diego community while enhancing the Chargers' corporate, business, educational and charitable relationships. She oversees the Chargers Champions community initiative that benefits San Diego's youth and education while continuing the team's ongoing community outreach efforts.

The San Diego native worked in state and local government for 12 years prior to joining the Chargers, first entering the political arena in 1988 when she went to work for State Assemblywoman Lucy Killea. She became Chief of Staff for Killea in 1989, a position she retained until 1995. In 1993, Layton took a brief leave of absence and entered the race for the open 3rd District City Council seat. In 1995, Layton was appointed Assistant Director for the Department of Intergovernmental Relations for the City of San Diego and in 1996 she was appointed as director of the department.

Kimberley Briggs Layton was born July 30, 1963 in San Diego. She is a graduate of San Diego High School and earned a degree in education at the University of California at Irvine. Kim and her husband, Farrell, reside in Santee.

DICK LEWIS

CHARGERS IN THE COMMUNITY

Local Youth Score with Chargers Champions

Chargers Champions, the dream of Alex and Dean Spanos, is in its third year benefiting youth, education and sports in San Diego County.

With a $3 million commitment countywide, Chargers Champions is dedicated to identifying and honoring those "making the difference" in their communities and in people's lives. Chargers Champions also encompasses the team's ongoing support of youth and high-school football, as well as its long-standing community service programs.

The Chargers Champions "Class of 2002," featuring 22 high-school juniors, 11 educators and 11 schools, was honored on May 30 at the third annual All-Star Gala at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Each student selected demonstrated leadership, service, citizenship and commitment to their school and community and received a college tuition scholarship of $7,500, as well as a laptop computer. All of the Chargers Champions will be recognized at Chargers' games during the 2002 season and on the team's radio and television broadcasts.

The 11 educators who were honored as Chargers Champions have made a difference in students' lives through innovation and creativity to better develop students. Each educator received $2,500 grants and laptop computers for their classrooms.

The Chargers also honored 11 outstanding San Diego County schools for their role in developing future leaders for San Diego. Each Chargers Champions school received an $11,000 grant. The Chargers will host "Chargers Days" at these schools and provide leadership speakers for the students.

"This is a great opportunity to recognize real champions and reward them for their hard work both in the classroom and in their communities," said Chargers

President Dean Spanos. "There are a lot of terrific schools, teachers and bright, young students out there, and it's exciting for us to recognize them. We're especially proud to see our first class of Chargers Champions students doing well in their new college environment and equally delighted that we helped play a role in assisting them to attend the school of their choice."

The 2002 Chargers Champions were selected by local business representatives, civic leaders and educators, including County Superintendent of Schools Rudy Castruita; President of the San Diego Regional Chamber of Commerce Jessie J. Knight Jr., President of the San Diego County United Way Jerry Sanders, and President of KFMB Ed Trimble.

Chargers Champions Supports Youth Sports

Under the auspices of Chargers Champions, the San Diego Chargers have continued to recognize and support youth and high-school football. Chargers Champions was responsible for the creation of freshman football and girls' volleyball for 14 San Diego City high schools two years ago.

"I salute the Chargers for their commitment to youth and education by providing students a chance for greater participation in athletics," said Alan Bersin, Superintendent of San Diego City Schools. "The Chargers are demonstrating, both with their backing of ninth-grade sports and their Chargers Champions scholarships, the benefits that come to our community when public and private entities work together for our common good."

The Chargers are also proud to sponsor the CIF Championship football games and the Alex Spanos' All-Star Classic played at Qualcomm Stadium each December.

The Alex Spanos' All-Star Classic is the longest standing high-school all-star game in California. It provides San Diego's premier senior high-school football players their own "Pro Bowl."

The High School Sports Association of San Diego gathers the county's best senior football players for a matchup between north and south schools. In addition to making the game possible through his contribution, Spanos donates a scholarship in the names of the game's most valuable offensive and defensive players to each school's respective athletic departments.

Youth Pop Warner players in San Diego County have also benefited from Chargers' support. In addition to various fund-raisers each year, thousands of Pop Warner players, cheerleaders and their parents have enjoyed the thrill of playing an exhibition game before a Chargers' game or at half-time in Qualcomm Stadium.

Chargers Honor High School Coach of the Week

Through the High School Coach of the Week program, the Chargers honor local high-school coaches for their outstanding work with kids in our community. During the season, one coach is named Coach of the Week and receives a $1,000 stipend for their school's football program and a certificate signed by Chargers Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer and NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue. At the end of the year, one coach is selected Coach of the Year and receives an additional $2,000 donation to his school's football program. All winners are invited to a Chargers' game, where they are introduced in a pregame ceremony.

Community Quarterback Award

Continuing the tradition of honoring those who make a difference in their community, Chargers Champions presents $25,000 in grants to outstanding volunteers through the Community Quarterback Award program. This recognition program was created by the Chargers and the NFL to reward volunteers who demonstrate leadership, dedication and a commitment to bettering the community in which they live.

The Chargers Champions Leadership

Copley (Children's Hospital) Pat Cunningham (Aseltine School), Jill Janssen (Voices for Children), Dr. Doug McElfresh (Copley Family YMCA), Peter Puzon (Boy Scouts) and Betty Peabody (Crime Stoppers).

From the 10 finalists, Gerald Davee was named the 2001 Community Quarterback winner and received an additional $10,000 for the Burn Institute. Rosemary White-Pope and Jeanne Teague were selected runners-ups and each received an additional $2,500 for their organizations.

Chargers Blood Drive Continues to Set Records

Chargers Champions also encompasses long-standing community service programs, such as the Chargers Annual Blood Drive.

The blood drive takes place in partnership with the San Diego Blood Bank, which helps keep an adequate blood supply in San Diego County during the holiday season. For 23 years, the team has hosted the largest single-location blood drive in the nation and collected more than 36,000 pints for the community.

Under the direction of Susie Spanos, the Chargers Blood Drive also supports the Cord Blood Donor Program. This program encourages pregnant women to donate their umbilical cord upon delivery. The blood in the cord is also used to save lives.

The Chargers Blood Drive began as a call to help Rolf Benirschke, a former place-kicker for the team, who required more than 50 pints of blood during surgery for ulcerative colitis.

Benirschke returns to the blood drive each year, along with current Chargers players, to greet and assist the donors, while their wives and girlfriends host and star in a fashion show.

The Annual Blood Drive concludes with a fashion show featuring Chargers players and their families. Defensive End Raylee Johnson and his family model evening wear.

The Chargers 23rd Annual Blood Drive, in a partnership with the San Diego Blood Bank, continues to set records.

Children's Hospital and the Chargers

Since he first arrived in San Diego, Alex Spanos and the San Diego Chargers have nurtured a relationship with Children's Hospital and Health Center.

From the creation of the Brooke Humphries Fund to the introduction of the Toss for Tots program in 1999, Children's Hospital remains a top recipient of the team's support.

The Brooke Humphries Fund was created to honor Stan Humphries, his daughter, Brooke, and his family for their contributions to the San Diego community. The "Brooke Humphries Field of Champions" is a specially designed area where more than 25,000 orthopedic outpatients are seen annually. It is located on the first floor of the Children's Way Patient Care Pavilion, near the hospital's front reception area. The fund supports various programs and specialized technology so that Children's Hospital can continue providing San Diego's children the medical care they deserve.

In 1999, the Chargers and Children's Hospital continued their partnership by creating the interactive "Toss for Tots" program. Charger fans can donate to Children's Hospital for each Chargers touchdown during

Chargers Host Local Taste of the NFL Celebrity Dinner

This past year the Chargers hosted and sponsored the first annual Taste of the NFL Celebrity Dinner at the On Broadway Event Center. It was a fun-filled evening of music, players, incredible auction items and amazing food. Every cent raised helped the hunger relief programs of the San Diego Food Bank. Chargers alum Willie Buchanon served as the event's chair and participating restaurants included Donovan's Steak & Chop House, Anthony's Star of the Sea, Candelas, de Medici, Laurel, Las Fajitas, Mare & Monti, Zen Café, Prado and Seau's the Restaurant. The Chargers are proud to partner with the San Diego Food Bank for this event, and to host the Holiday Food Drive Kickoff each year at Qualcomm Stadium.

Chargers Community Corner

For the past five seasons, San Diego Chargers President Dean Spanos and players have teamed up with area nonprofit agencies to send local youth to Chargers' games. The "Chargers Community Corner" program consists of more than 200 season tickets on the field level at Qualcomm Stadium given to various youth organizations in San Diego. Each child in the Community Corner receives a T-shirt and a coupon for a free hot dog and soda. Thanks to the generosity of Dean Spanos and the Charger players, thousands of San Diego children have experienced the thrill of Chargers football firsthand.

Players in the Community

Throughout the year, Charger players find ways to help out the community. Players often visit schools and libraries to read to children, mentor San Diego's youth in after-school programs, and visit hospitals and convalescent homes spending time with the sick and elderly.

Each October the Chargers pair up with Payless Shoe Source to distribute more than 1,000 pairs of shoes to children in grades K-6. The most deserving youth are selected throughout San Diego County by their schools and are teamed with individual players on the day of the event to pick out a new pair of shoes.

In November the Chargers purchase gift baskets of food for 150 families for Thanksgiving dinner. The Spanos family and the players purchase the food and distribute it to the deserving families, who come from all over the county.

Every Thursday evening, Chargers players, coaches and staff head downtown to deliver hot soup and sandwiches to San Diego's homeless population. The group also delivers blankets and clothing to the city's less fortunate.

Each December San Diego Chargers long snapper David Binn heads up the "Teddy Bear Drive to Children's Hospital." The event entails leading a caravan of more than 75 law enforcement vehicles filled with teddy bears and toys that are delivered to patients at Children's Hospital. The Chargers Bolt Patrol van leads the caravan from the Coronado Police Department to the hospital. Binn and Dean Spanos each donate $2,000 to the Coronado Police Officer's Association to help with the purchase of the gifts. The Teddy Bear Drive began 10 years ago. More than 5,000 bears and toys were donated last year.

Each spring the team joins the staff at St. Vincent de Paul Village to serve an Easter meal to the homeless. More than 1,000 people come for the meal, which is served by Chargers players and staff.

The Junior Seau Foundation

Established in 1992, the Junior Seau Foundation raises money and resources for programs that inspire young people to face life's challenges with enthusiasm, hope and dignity. The mission of the foundation is to educate and empower young people through the support of child abuse prevention, drug and alcohol awareness, and anti-juvenile delinquency programs.

The foundation awards scholarships to college-bound students who have demonstrated an aspiration to reach their dreams through higher education. It maintains commitments to the Boys and Girls Club of Oceanside and the Club 55 Teen Center, Steak 'n' Burger, San Diego Junior Theatre, High Five America's Midnight Basketball, Vista Hill Foundation's Family Recovery Center and the Child Abuse Prevention Foundation.

Throughout the year, the foundation hosts several fund-raisers, the largest of which is the Junior Seau Foundation TEAM Seau Dinner & Celebrity Golf Classic at La Costa Resort and Spa. The Legend's party, prior to the tournament, allows sponsors and their NFL counterparts to celebrate the team effort of helping to educate and empower San Diego youth.

Each fall the foundation kicks off its SACKS for San Diego program to help raise money for anti-juvenile delinquency and and drug and alcohol awareness programs. In December, the foundation enables 200 underprivileged children to buy holiday gifts for their loved ones at the Shop with a Jock event.

Through the team effort of Junior Seau, the San Diego community and caring individuals, the Junior Seau Foundation helps to make a real difference in the lives of young people in San Diego.

Doug Flutie Foundation for Autism

The Doug Flutie, Jr. Foundation for Autism was established by Chargers quarterback Doug Flutie and his wife, Laurie, in honor of their son, Doug, Jr., who was diagnosed with autism at the age of 3. The foundation's mission is to aid financially disadvantaged families who need assistance in caring for their autistic children, to fund education and research into the causes and consequences of childhood autism, and to serve as a clearinghouse and communications center for new programs and services developed for autistic children.

Doug and Laurie understand how fortunate they are to have the resources to provide their son with the educational opportunities, special equipment and tools necessary for Doug, Jr. to live a happy and rewarding life. They realize, however, that there are thousands of families with autistic children who struggle every day to pay for similar services. Their primary objective is to provide families with a place to turn when they are in need of support.

Doug and Laurie first began raising funds for autism in 1998 through a donor advised fund, under the management of the Giving Back Fund. In 2000, they established the Doug Flutie, Jr. Foundation for Autism, Inc., as an independent foundation to continue this work. Since 1998, the Fluties have helped raise over $3.5 million for autism through fund-raisers, individual and corporate donations, sales of Flutie Flakes, and the 10-10-220 campaign. The foundation awards grants annually to nonprofit organizations that provide services for children with autism and to organizations that conduct research on the causes and effects of autism. To date, the Fluties have granted close to $1.1 million in Southern California, New England, New York, New Jersey, and in Canada.

Quarterback Doug Flutie brings his family as well as local children to the zoo for a special visit.

81 STEPHEN ALEXANDER

Tight End
6-4, 250
5th NFL Season
1st with Chargers

Oklahoma
DOB: 11/7/75
Acquired: UFA (Washington) - '02
Hometown: Chickasha, Okla.

The Chargers acquired one of the best young tight ends in the NFL this offseason when they signed former Washington Redskin Stephen Alexander to a five-year deal. A Pro Bowler following the 2000 season who has 122 career catches for 1,302 yards and nine touchdowns, Alexander likes to charge hard both on and off the football field.

In his free time away from the game, Alexander is a motorcycle enthusiast who one day envisions building a motorcycle collection in his home. An avid rider since his days as a teenager growing up in Oklahoma, Alexander enjoys both off-road trail riding and cruising the nation's highways. He and his twin brother, Michael, grew up riding BMX bikes and off-road ATV's before learning to ride motorcycles. Alexander currently owns two motorcycles, a Kawasaki KX 250 dirt bike and a Ninja XZ12 street bike, and he has plans to purchase more, including a Harley-Davidson for he and his wife, Mandy, to take rides together.

When he's not revving his engine, Alexander enjoys playing golf and spending time with the family dog, Vinnie, a 120-pound Italian Mastiff, whose droopy ears and friendly demeanor have made him a favorite of all the kids in their Poway neighborhood.

Wide Receiver

2nd NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Texas Christian

DOB: 4/18/78

Acquired: Free Agent - '01

Hometown: Missouri City, Tex.

Batteaux, a former college quarterback and wide receiver, earned his way on to the playing field in 2001 after spending the better part of his first two professional seasons on the Chargers' practice squad. He was a college teammate of LaDainian Tomlinson, the Bolts' top pick in the 2001 NFL Draft, and in fact, Batteaux was an option quarterback who shared backfield duties with Tomlinson at TCU.

Batteaux enjoys playing basketball, riding jet skis, relaxing at the beach or playing tennis with his father, Robert, a former collegiate tennis and basketball player at Prairie View A&M.

Batteaux believes that he has a responsibility to reach out to students in his role as a professional athlete and he can often speak to students in San Diego and his native Houston, Texas. He speaks to them about the importance of staying in school and working toward going to college, setting goals and avoiding the dangers associated with drugs, values Batteaux says were instilled in him by his mother, Patricia.

2001: Caught three passes for 25 yards...played in five games...spent total of 10 weeks on team's practice squad. 2000: Spent 15 weeks on Chargers' practice squad.

COLLEGE: Converted option quarterback began career at Texas Christian as wide receiver...final career totals include 812 rushing yards, 762 passing yards, 483 receiving yards and 11 touchdowns...was reserve on TCU's Western Athletic Conference Pacific Division Championship basketball team in 1997...majored in finance.

PERSONAL: Born April 18, 1978 in Houston, Texas...played football, basketball and ran track at Elkins High School in Sugar Land, Texas...single and resides in San Diego.

42 ROGERS BECKETT

Safety
6-3, 205
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Marshall
DOB: 1/31/77
Acquired: Draft 2 - '00
Hometown: Apopka, Fla.

The Chargers top pick in the 2000 draft, Beckett entrenched himself as the team's starting free safety in just his second season in the NFL. He emerged last year to collect 93 tackles, the third-highest total on the squad, and he credits much of his success on the field to a renewed comfort level he developed away from the field. That comfort level came in large part came from the birth of his daughter, Astoria.

Beckett went through the loneliness that many NFL rookies go through in their first season, but the birth of Astoria and her arrival in San Diego, along with his girlfriend, gave Beckett the peace of mind that enabled him to begin to realize his full potential on the football field.

Beckett, who also credits his fifth-grade teacher at Phyllis Wheatley Elementary School, Mrs. Dallas, for steering him in the right direction as a youth, has a bright future ahead of him. He has already indicated that when his football career is finished, he would like to return to his hometown of Apopka, Florida, and work as a youth counselor and mentor.

2001: Finished season as team's third-leading tackler with 93 tackles...had first interception of season and second of career at Kansas City Dec. 23...led team with nine tackles and added pass defended in Chiefs contest...recorded season-high three passes defended against Philadelphia Dec. 9...had 10 tackles at Seattle Dec. 2...set career high with 13 tackles against Kansas City Nov. 4...had 11 stops at Denver Nov. 11...added one forced fumble, one fumble recovery and five passes defended...had 10 stops at New England Oct. 14.
2000: Moved into starting lineup for final three games of season and finished year with 39 tackles, one sack, one interception and two passes defended...played special teams in all 16 games and ranked third on team with 10 tackles on specialty units...recorded first-career sack Week 3 at Kansas City...intercepted first-career pass at Denver Nov. 19...established career high with 11 tackles in first-career NFL start at Baltimore Dec. 10...selected by Chargers in second round of 2000 NFL Draft with 43rd overall selection.

COLLEGE: Three-time All-Mid-American Conference selection...three-year starter at free safety for Marshall Thundering Herd...finished collegiate career with 311 tackles and 11 interceptions...student body vice-president for 1999-2000 academic year...as student body vice president coordinated Tri-State Youth Football Day for K-9 grade students in July 1999...member student-athlete advisory committee at Marshall...earned third team All-America honors from Sporting News as senior...team captain as senior...racked up two interceptions in Motor City Bowl, his final collegiate game against Brigham Young...earned degree in political science and working toward master's degree in public administration.

PERSONAL: Born Rogers Beckett January 31, 1977 in Apopka, Florida...All-Orange County selection at Apopka High School...has daughter, Astoria (June 8, 2001)...single and resides in San Diego.

2 DARREN BENNETT

Punter

6-5, 235

8th NFL Season

8th with Chargers

DOB: 1/9/65

Acquired: Free Agent - '94

Hometown: Perth, Australia

San Diego's import from "the land down under," Darren Bennett has firmly established himself as one of the NFL's premier punters. A two-time Pro Bowler, Bennett holds every team punting record, including most punts in a career, season and game, most punt yards in a career, season and game, and the highest punting average for a career, season and game.

In addition to his two Pro Bowl selections, Bennett has garnered a host of other honors, including being named the Chargers Special Teams Player of the Year in 2000, selected to the Chargers 40th Anniversary All-Time Team and named to the NFL's All-Decade Team for the 1990s.

A former star in Australian Rules Football, Bennett spent 12 seasons as one of the continent's top footballers, competing for the East Fremantle Sharks, the West Coast Eagles and the Melbourne Demons. Surprisingly the salaries for even the top players in the AFL didn't quite measure up to NFL standards and Bennett held a full-time job as a landscaper during his playing days in Australia.

Bennett got his first exposure to punting an NFL football during an Aussie Rules exhibition game played in Toronto. His Melbourne squad was playing a game at Toronto's SkyDome when Hank Ilesic, a former Chargers punter who was playing for the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League at the time, joined Bennett to punt a few footballs at halftime. Faring reasonably well, Bennett purchased a football of his own.

As Bennett tells the story, he kept the football in his car and as he drove back home in Australia, he and a mate would occasionally stop and practice their punting. A short time later, Bennett used two round-trip plane tickets that he won in a long-ball kicking contest for he and his new wife, Rosemary, to spend their honeymoon on the west coast of the United States. It was during their honeymoon that the Bennetts contacted the Chargers and arranged for a tryout.

It was an inauspicious debut for Bennett in his first attempted punt before the Chargers' brass at that tryout. The very first snap Bennett took from long snapper Sam Anno hit him square in the nose. Unfazed, Bennett regrouped and by the end of the audition, the Chargers had seen enough to make him an offer. It didn't take long for the Chargers to see a return on their investment. Bennett set a team record with a 44.7-yard average in his rookie season and was rewarded with his first trip to the Pro Bowl.

Now, seven seasons later, Bennett has posted a resume which includes 602 punts for 26,800 yards for an average of 44.5 yards per kick, an average which ranks third all-time among punters with at least 250 career attempts.

2001: Punted 73 times for 42.4-yard average...hit season-long 62-yard punts at Oakland Nov. 18 and at Denver Nov. 11...career average of 44.5-yards per punt ranks third all-time among punters with at least 250 career punts, trailing only Sammy Baugh (45.1 avg.) and Tommy Davis (44.7). 2000: Earned second-career Pro Bowl berth and was voted by teammates Chargers Special Teams Player of Year after leading NFL with team-record 46.2-yards per punt average...also set team record with 4,248 punting yards...selected to Chargers 40th Anniversary All-Time Team...punted 92 times, second most in team history...season totals included 92 punts for 4,248 yards, 46.2 average, 36.2 net, 10 touchbacks, 23 punts inside 20-yard line and long of 66 yards...added one tackle on special teams...averaged season-high 57.0 yards

DAVID BINN

Long Snapper

6-3, 250

9th NFL Season

9th with Chargers

California

DOB: 2/6/72

Acquired: Free Agent - '94

Hometown: San Mateo, Calif.

Heading into his ninth NFL season, David Binn has earned a reputation as being one of the top long snappers in the league. His pinpoint accuracy on snaps has helped punter Darren Bennett earn two trips to the Pro Bowl. As a reward for his last selection following the 2000 season, Bennett paid for Binn and his girlfriend, Tamar, to accompany the Bennetts to Honolulu for the NFL's All-Star Game.

During his NFL career, Binn has been one of the Chargers most active players in the community. In 1998, he started the David Binn Foundation to support environmental education and scholarship programs. The foundation supports many worthy causes, including the annual "Teddy Bear Drive to Children's Hospital" in which Binn joins forces with the Coronado Police Department to deliver stuffed holiday gifts to hospital patients. To raise funds for his foundation, Binn has also hosted an annual billiards tournament to further support the foundation and provide college scholarships for local high-school students.

DREW BREES

Quarterback

6-0, 221

2nd NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Purdue

DOB: 1/15/79

Acquired: Draft 2 - '01

Hometown: Austin, Tex.

Drew Brees sets sail on his second NFL season with an eye on the Chargers' starting quarterback position. Brees, who saw action in just one contest last season, will battle the incumbent Doug Flutie for the starting role. In his lone appearance of the 2001 season, Brees subbed for an injured Flutie and helped the Bolts erase a 19-0 deficit before eventually falling to the Chiefs, 25-20. He gained valuable experience in that game and is confident heading into the 2002 season.

Brees has had a busy first offseason as a professional athlete. In March, he and longtime girlfriend, Brittany Dudchenko, became engaged and the couple scheduled their wedding date for 2003. In between football and wedding plans, the couple spent some time traveling through Europe this offseason. For rest and relaxation, Brees and Flutie, along with fellow quarterback Dave Dickenson, can often be found on one of San Diego's many golf courses where Brees is always looking to improve on his eight handicap.

2001: Played in first career game against Kansas City Nov. 4...completed 15 of 27 passes for 221 yards with one touchdown...rallied team from 19-0 third quarter deficit and 20-yard touchdown pass to Freddie Jones gave team brief 20-19 lead late in game...was first career touchdown pass...also rushed twice for 18 yards...did not play in Weeks 1-7 and 9-16.

COLLEGE: Heisman Trophy finalist in 2000...left Purdue as Big Ten and school's all-time leader in passing yards (11,792), touchdown passes (90), total offensive yards (12,693), completion percentage (.611), completions (1,026) and attempts (1,678)...ranked fourth in NCAA record books for total offense, completions and attempts...led Boilermakers to 2000 Rose Bowl, school's first appearance in Pasadena for New Year's Day game since 1967...only player in conference history to throw for more than 500 yards in game twice in his career...also added seven 400-yard passing games and 16 300-yard efforts...tied former Wisconsin Badger Ron Dayne's conference record of eight Big Ten Player of the Week awards...as senior became first Purdue player since quarterback Mark Hermann (1980) to receive coveted Chicago Tribune's Silver Football given to Big Ten's Most Valuable Player...named Big Ten Conference Player of Year in 1998 and 2000...named all conference three consecutive years (1998-2000)...as senior named Academic All-America Player of Year, first Boilermaker since Bruce Brineman (1989) to earn national academic honors...earned All-Big Ten and All-District V academic honors...team most valuable player and recipient of school's Leonard Wilson Award for unselfishness and dedication...fourth in Heisman Trophy balloting following junior season...was first recipient of Socrates Award recognizing nation's finest athlete in terms of academics, athletics and community service...selected Purdue's Male Athlete of Year and chosen for school's Mortar Board in 1999...member of Purdue's Sigma Chi fraternity...earned degree in industrial management and manufacturing...graduated with 3.40 grade point average.

PERSONAL: Born Drew Christopher Brees January 15, 1979 in Austin, Texas...named Texas Class 5A Most Valuable Player in 1996 at Westlake High School in Austin,

Defensive Tackle

3rd NFL Season

3rd with Chargers

Auburn

DOB: 2/11/77

Acquired: Draft 4B - '00

Hometown: Mobile, Ala.

The Chargers were pleased with the progress of Leonardo Carson, an unexpected starter, who was thrust into action when fellow defensive tackle Jamal Williams suffered a season-ending knee injury in the third game of the 2001 season. Carson, who missed the majority of his rookie season in 2000 with a shoulder injury, became the starter for the team's final 13 games and finished the year with 35 tackles and three sacks.

Carson is a classic car enthusiast who can often be seen driving around his hometown of Mobile, Alabama in his restored 1964 Chevy Impala or his 1972 Pontiac Catalina. Restoring cars is a hobby that he picked up from his grandfather, Wilbert, and his father, Wilbert Jr. This past January, Carson entered his '64 Impala in the Showtime Wheels and Accessories Car Show in Mobile and captured first place in the show's antique division. It was a good start for his first car show.

Carson has a unique appreciation for the road. Carson's mother, Rose, fulfilled a lifelong dream by purchasing a tractor trailer rig and now makes her living driving an 18-wheeler around the country. Carson admits that he tried to talk his mom out of her dream job, fearing for her safety, but she insisted on pursuing a career behind the wheel and today she is as happy as ever out on the open road.

DOB: 10/26/78

Acquired: Draft 7B - '01

Hometown: Lithonia, Ga.

A seventh-round draft choice in 2001, safety Robert Carswell gained valuable experience as a rookie last season performing on special teams. Carswell also saw spot duty late in the season as a reserve safety. He begins his second NFL season looking for an expanded role in new defensive coordinator Dale Lindsey's defensive alignment.

During the offseason, Carswell likes to return home to Lithonia, Georgia to be close to family and friends. At home, he lends his NFL expertise as a volunteer coach for the defensive backs at his prep alma mater, Stone Mountain High School, where Robert's brother, James, is the assistant head coach.

Carswell's hobbies away from the gridiron include bowling and playing pool. He competes in a bowling league at the Fair Lanes Bowling Center in Lithonia with a few of his former high-school football teammates and carries a 205 average for his team. He also loves to shoot pool and says some of his best memories with the ball and cue are from when he and his former college roommate and current Washington Redskins wide receiver, Rod Gardner, battled on the tables. The college roommates have remained close friends and still get together whenever they can to renew their billiards rivalry.

2001: Played in all 16 games primarily on special teams where he tied for third on team with 10 tackles...recorded seven tackles as reserve safety.

STEVE CHRISTIE

Kicker

6-0, 195

13th NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

William & Mary

Hometown: Oakville, Ontario

Kicker Steve Christie is set to embark on his first full season with the Chargers. Signed late in the 2001 season after being out of football, Christie hit nine of 11 field-goal attempts for the Bolts. Before joining San Diego, he spent the last nine seasons of his NFL career in Buffalo where he became the Bills' all-time leader in career points and career field goals, while converting a team record 172 consecutive PATs.

An art history graduate from William & Mary College, Christie enjoys oil painting in his free time. An admittedly quiet and reserved individual, Christie believes that he is able to express himself through his art. It's a passion he's had since his youth. As a child, his parents frequently took Steve and his sister to art galleries and from that he developed an interest in drawing. As he got older, he began adding color to his work and discovered a newfound passion for painting. To date, Christie estimates that he has produced close to 100 paintings, some of which are available for purchase on his personal Web site, www.christieart.ca. A portion of the proceeds from the sales of his paintings help support Camp Good Days and Special Times, a summer camp in Rochester, New York, for kids suffering from cancer and other catastrophic diseases. In addition to proceeds from the sales of his artwork, Christie donates $300 to the camp for every field goal he makes. During the offseason, Steve and wife, Kelly, make their home in a log cabin in Ellicottville, New York, where Steve has an art studio and produces the majority of his work.

Always athletic as a youth, Christie's favorite sports growing up were soccer and hockey. At the age of 16, he played on the Canadian Junior World Cup soccer team, and following high school, he was offered the opportunity to play first division soccer in Scotland. His interest in soccer has not waned, and today Christie is a shareholder with the Glasgow Celtic football club in Glasgow, Scotland, regarded as one of the 10 most popular soccer teams in the world.

Back on the field, Christie is cool and confident when the game is on the line. He's kicked 13 game-winning field goals in the final minute of regulation or overtime. His seven overtime field goals rank second in NFL history, behind former Cincinnati Bengal Jim Breech. It's that kind of confidence that has earned him Special Teams Player of the Week honors seven times during his career, a figure that ranks second in league history.

TAY CODY

Cornerback

2nd NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Florida State

DOB: 10/6/77

Acquired: Draft 3 - '01

Hometown: Blakely, Ga.

A third-round draft choice in 2001, cornerback Tay Cody was thrown right to the wolves in his debut season. Expected to fill the role of "nickel" cornerback entering the regular season, Cody's role quickly changed when starter Alex Molden was lost for the majority of the season with knee and ankle injuries. Cody, however went about his business undaunted by the fact that week in, week out he was facing some of the league's top receivers one-on-one. Cody won more than his share of the battles and finished his rookie season with impressive totals that included 59 tackles and a pair of interceptions. Now, back for his second tour of duty with 14 games played and 11 starts under his belt, the Chargers are looking for a confident Tay Cody to help make the Chargers' defense one of the league's best.

At 5-9, Cody is one of the league's smallest cornerbacks and as a result has always had to work a little harder. Cody will tell you that he drew the inspiration to succeed from his mother, Lenette, a single parent, who worked two jobs while raising Tay and his three brothers and sisters. Cody, who is engaged to longtime girlfriend, Chara Moore, hopes that he can instill these same values in his two sons, Tay, Jr. and Wantae. Tay's dream is for them to both grow up and follow his lead as the first member of his family to earn a college degree.

2001: Concluded rookie campaign with 59 tackles and five passes defended...intercepted second pass of season vs. Kansas City Nov. 4...had first-career interception Week 2 at Dallas as starter in place of injured Alex Molden...had season-high nine tackles against Denver Oct. 21.

COLLEGE: Three-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection...finished collegiate career ranked seventh on school's interceptions list...earned All-America honors from American Football Coaches Association, College Football News and Football News as senior...graduated with degree in political science.

10th NFL Season

3rd with Chargers

Southern California

Acquired: UFA (Chicago) - '00

Hometown: Hawthorne, Calif.

Curtis Conway, a Southern California native, has found a home in San Diego. Through hard work, perseverance and a never-say-die attitude, Conway has become one of the top receivers in the National Football League.

It wouldn't be a reach by any stretch of the imagination to think how close Curtis Conway came to not fulfilling his potential as a first-rate NFL player. An only child, Conway was raised in a single-parent household on the mean streets of South Central Los Angeles. He barely knew his father, John H. Conway, and was raised by his mother, Anita Kidd, who gave birth to Curtis when she was just 15. Anita and Curtis' grandmother, Jurdine Kidd, raised the young man. To make ends meet, the women worked odd jobs and relied on the county's welfare checks. His childhood didn't get any easier when both his father and grandfather passed away within a week of one another when Conway was just 13.

Without a male role model, Conway fell victim to the many temptations of the neighborhood he called home, including associating with friends who were members of area street gangs. However, there was one constant that kept Conway on a path to success. Football. It was the most important thing to him and gave him a sense of purpose to continue to work hard in school.

Following an All-America prep career at Hawthorne High School, Conway thought he was ticketed to go to USC on a full scholarship. What he failed to realize was that his test scores prevented him from qualifying to join the Trojans. Devastated, Conway spent the next year working a job in construction while taking private classes to prepare him to pass the SAT. He also enrolled for a semester at El Camino Community College where he took a couple of classes that enabled him to get a head start once he enrolled at USC. It was a tough year for Conway and as he looks back, he calls it the turning point in his life.

After satisfactorily completing the SATs, the next order of business was to fulfill his potential on the football field. By the time his career at USC came to a conclusion, Conway had rewritten the school's record books and the Chicago Bears rewarded the young wide receiver by making him a first-round draft pick in the 1993 NFL Draft.

Now, about to embark on his 10th NFL season, Conway has amassed some impressive career totals, including 453 catches for 6,335 yards and 42 touchdowns. His totals include 18 career 100-yard receiving games, and he is coming off a career year, which included 1,125 receiving yards and 71 catches. He hasn't shown any signs of slowing down and Charger fans can look forward to another big year from the man teammates call "C-way."

90 ADRIAN DINGLE

Defensive End

6-3, 272

4th NFL Season

4th with Chargers

Clemson

DOB: 6/25/77

Acquired: Draft 5A - '99

Hometown: Holly Hill, S.C.

A fifth-round draft pick by the Chargers in 1999, Dingle has been a capable reserve in his first three seasons, and the coaches are looking for him to assume an expanded role as he begins his fourth season. Dingle has benefited from working with defensive line coach Wayne Nunnely, who believes that Dingle has the tools to become one of the league's better defensive ends. His career totals include 27 tackles and 3.5 sacks.

Away from the football field, Dingle is one of many Chargers players who enjoy restoring classic cars in his spare time. Today Dingle drives around San Diego in a restored 1965 blue convertible Pontiac Bonneville. He oversaw the restoration himself, including a new motor, paint job, chrome exterior, convertible top, rims and stereo. He would like to start a collection of classic cars, adding one to his repertoire each year. He already has plans for his next car, a 1963 or '64 Chevy Impala.

2001: Collected first sack of season at Denver Nov. 11...recorded 11 tackles. 2000: Finished season with 16 tackles, 2.5 sacks and two passes defended...played in 14 games and had one start...collected first-career sack in season opener at Oakland...also had sack against Denver Oct. 8...suffered torn ACL in left knee Week 14 at Baltimore and missed final two games. 1999: Spent first nine games on "Physically Unable to Perform" list due to right knee injury suffered in mini camp...signed to active roster Nov. 17...dressed, but did not play in games against Cleveland Dec. 5 and Denver on Jan. 2, 2000...Chargers fifth-round pick and 139th player chosen overall in 1999 NFL Draft.

COLLEGE: Broke single-season school record with 10.5 sacks...his 23 career sacks ranks third-best in school history ...ranks sixth on school's career charts with 45 tackles for loss...parks, recreation and tourism major.

85*TIM DWIGHT*Wide Receiver-Kick Returner*Iowa*5-9, 180*DOB: 7/13/75*5th NFL Season*Acquired: Trade (Atlanta) - '01*2nd with Chargers*Hometown: Iowa City, Iowa

It didn't take long for the San Diego Chargers to see a return on their investment in wide receiver and kick returner Tim Dwight. Obtained in a trade with the Atlanta Falcons on the eve of the 2001 NFL Draft, Dwight made an immediate impact in his first regular-season game with the Chargers. He returned the first punt he fielded in the season opener against the Washington Redskins 84 yards for a touchdown. He became the only player in the NFL to return a punt for a touchdown in each of the last three seasons and a punt or kickoff for a touchdown in each of the last four seasons. The return against the Redskins was the first of many big plays made by Dwight until he was sidelined midway through the season with a collapsed lung that derailed the balance of his first season in San Diego. Dwight's lung has healed, and the Chargers believed enough in his talents and big-play abilities to reward him with a five-year contract during the offseason.

One of the things the Chargers like about Dwight is that he's not afraid of living on the edge. He is an intense player both on and off the football field. Among his many extreme sports interests, aside from football, Dwight enjoys surfing, wakeboarding, bungee jumping, riding jet skis and motorcycles, whitewater rafting and learning to play his electric guitar.

Dwight, who makes his home in Pacific Beach, can often be seen riding his bike to the beach with one of his three surfboards in tow as he heads to Tourmaline Street, one of San Diego's premier longboarding spots. He recently purchased a condominium in Lake Tahoe, Nevada, where he plans to spend his offseasons, enjoying the fresh mountain air while perfecting his prowess as a snowboarder. His Lake Tahoe home will also be the perfect setting for one of his newest toys, a brand new 21-foot MasterCraft speedboat, which he plans to make use of during the offseason to perfect his wakeboarding skills.

59 DONNIE EDWARDS

Linebacker

6-2, 227

7th NFL Season

1st with Chargers

UCLA

Acquired: UFA (Kansas City) - '02

Hometown: Chula Vista, Calif.

The Chargers obtained the services of one of the most outstanding outside linebackers in the NFL when they tabbed former Kansas City Chief and Chula Vista native Donnie Edwards. A dominating all-around talent, Edwards averaged more than 148 tackles a season over the last five years as he became the first player in Chiefs history to surpass the 100-tackle mark in five straight years. An impact player who relishes in making the big play, Edwards has added 10 interceptions, 15 sacks and three touchdowns to his already impressive resume. He's also a durable player, having missed only one game due to injury since 1997, and he's started 57 straight games dating back to Nov. 1, 1998.

During his tenure in Kansas City, Edwards built a well-deserved reputation for his generosity in the community. He is the founder of the "Donnie Edwards Best Defense Foundation." Edwards has already indicated that he intends to continue his benevolence here in San Diego and one of the first items on his agenda is to oversee the construction of a brand-new weight room for his alma matter, Chula Vista High School.

Edwards, who grew up without spending much time with his own father, also has plans to continue his Dad's Day event in which he and other professional athletes took 20 kids from San Diego's National City Boys and Girls Club to Sea World, serving as fathers for a day in June, 2001. A big fan of aquatic wildlife, Edwards also hosted an event at Sea World in San Antonio, Texas, where he invited eight deserving students from alternative schools in the Kansas City area to enjoy a rare opportunity to record killer whale behavior, monitor the health of sea lions and prepare food for dolphins, penguins and sharks at the park.

Edwards was kept busy this offseason as he and new wife, Kathryn, were married June 14, 2002 in Northern California.

ED ELLIS

Guard-Tackle

6-7, 325

6th NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Buffalo

DOB: 10/13/75

Acquired: UFA (Washington) - '01

Hometown: Hamden, Conn.

Ellis proved to be a valuable addition to the Chargers last season, providing depth along the offensive line and inspirational play on special teams. He helped seal the Chargers victory against Buffalo with a blocked field goal and when he made his first start of the season at right tackle on Dec. 23, LaDainian Tomlinson rushed for a season-high 145 yards. Ellis now heads into this year's training camp looking to compete for even more playing time.

Ellis likes to take exotic vacations to foreign countries when he's not playing football. He has visited Spain, Germany and England in the past and plans to visit Egypt and venture through the rest of Africa in the future. While he's back home in Hamden, Connecticut, Ellis and his family have been helping his father, Randolph Ellis, Jr. start a ministry whose mission is to help the sick and less fortunate in their community. It has been a fulfilling venture for the entire family.

This past offseason, Ellis was kept busy with wedding bells. He and the former, Barbara Ann Johnson, were wed in June in Walpole, Massachusetts. His wife hails from Brockton, Massachusetts, the hometown of legendary boxer Rocky Marciano.

JASON FISK

Defensive Tackle

6-3, 295

8th NFL Season

1st with Chargers

Stanford

Acquired: UFA (Tennessee) - '02

Hometown: Davis, Calif.

An avid outdoorsman away from the gridiron, Jason Fisk signed with the Chargers as an unrestricted free agent on March 8. On the field, he is a stout defensive tackle whose tremendous strength and low center of gravity present problems in the trenches for opposing offensive linemen.

As mentioned Fisk is an avid outdoorsman and especially enjoys hunting and fishing. He has parlayed his love of the outdoors into his work with the T.J. Martell Foundation, an organization dedicated to raising funds for research for the cures of leukemia, cancer and AIDS. Last June, Fisk hosted a bass fishing tournament on Old Hickory Lake in Nashville to raise money for the foundation. Both of Fisk's grandparents died from cancer. His work with the T.J. Martell Foundation, along with his association with Habitat for Humanity and his willingness to donate his time to charity led to Fisk being named the Titans' Community Man of the Year in 2001. Jason is eager to continue his charitable endeavors here in San Diego.

On the field, Fisk has the unique distinction of being the NFL's winningest player from 1998-2000 as the teams he played for posted a combined 41-7 record, including 15-1 with Minnesota in 1998 and consecutive 13-3 records with Tennessee in 1999 and 2000. The Chargers believe he can be a dominant force along a defensive line loaded with talent.

2001: Posted 68 tackles, 2.5 sacks, one fumble recovery and scored first-career safety...selected as Titans' Community Man of Year...scored first-career safety after tackling Green Bay running back Ahman Green in end zone Dec. 16...had one-half sack at Oakland Dec. 22...tied career high with two sacks and led squad with nine tackles against Cleveland Dec. 30. 2000: Collected 76 tackles, 2.0 sacks, two forced fumbles and one pass

41 TERRELL FLETCHER

Running Back

5-8, 196

8th NFL Season

8th with Chargers

Wisconsin

DOB: 9/14/73

Acquired: Draft 2B - '95

Hometown: Hazelwood, Mo.

The Chargers most complete all-around player, running back Terrell Fletcher gives the Bolts a double-threat as a runner and receiver out of the backfield.

In seven NFL seasons, Fletcher has assembled an impressive resume featuring 1,743 rushing and 1,881 receiving yards. With 249 career receptions, he is the team's second-leading receiver among running backs, trailing only Ronnie Harmon, who amassed 376 receptions during his Chargers career. An unselfish player, Fletcher also plays on almost every coverage unit and has recorded 39 career special teams tackles.

As versatile a player as Fletcher is on the field, he is equally dedicated off it. One of the team's most active players in the community, Fletcher made several visits to San Diego's Santana High School in the wake of the campus shooting last March, which resulted in the death of two students. Fletcher also visited Littleton, Colorado's Columbine High School in 1999 following their much-publicized on-campus shooting.

Fletcher recently created the Destiny 'N Me Foundation, a youth organization which conducts school assemblies to assist students in making the transition from high school into college. He works closely with the students at his alma mater, Hazelwood East High School, near St. Louis, Missouri, where he started the Terrell Fletcher Scholarship Program. One male and one female student from the school will each receive a $2,500 college tuition scholarship from the foundation.

Aside from his work with the schools, Fletcher works closely with the American Lung Association's Asthma Awareness Program. Fletcher suffered from asthma as a child. For every Chargers' home game, he donates 10 tickets to the children from Camp Scamp, a summer camp designed specifically for kids who suffer from asthma.

Fletcher, along with director of security Dick Lewis, also helped start a program where Chargers players serve sandwiches and hot soup to San Diego's homeless every Thursday.

2001: Rushed 29 times for 107 yards and caught 23 passes for 184 yards...made season-high four catches vs. Kansas City Nov. 4, Buffalo Oct. 28 and Denver Oct. 21...season best 44 yards receiving against Bills...missed final three games of season with hamstring injury. 2000: Led squad with 384 yards rushing and three touchdowns...116 carries was second-most on squad...ranked fourth on team with 48 receptions and 355 yards receiving...caught one touchdown pass...had three tackles on special teams...set season highs with seven catches for 66 yards at Kansas City Sept. 17...had first rushing touchdown of season at St. Louis Oct. 1...had season-high 52 rushing yards versus Miami Nov. 12...scored second rushing touchdown versus San Francisco Dec. 3...tied season highs in receptions (seven) and receiving yards (66) and caught 25-yard touchdown pass at Carolina Dec. 17...recorded third rushing touchdown versus Pittsburgh Dec. 24. 1999: Fin-

DOUG FLUTIE

Quarterback

5-10, 180

9th NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Boston College

Acquired: UFA (Buffalo) - '01

Hometown: Natick, Mass.

Doug Flutie is feeling strong and confident as he soars into his second season with the San Diego Chargers, armed and ready to take on all challengers for the role of starting quarterback. Flutie made a compelling case for himself in his first season with the Bolts, setting a career high with 3,464 yards. It was the most by a Chargers quarterback since 1985. Flutie's season included four 300-yard passing games and he capped off the season with a single-game best 377 yards against Seattle. It was the second year in a row that Flutie closed out the season with a career performance against the Seahawks.

Flutie joined the Chargers after signing a six-year contract in March, 2001. He arrived in San Diego after spending three seasons with the Buffalo Bills. Prior to his stint in Buffalo, Flutie spent eight seasons in the Canadian Football League where he won three Grey Cup Championships and was the league's Most Outstanding Player an unprecedented six times.

The Canadian league's passing champion five times, Flutie has passed for 56,713 yards during his professional career, including 41,335 yards in the CFL. Flutie is one of just five players in professional football history to record 50,000 career passing yards, joining a list that includes Warren Moon (70,325 yards), Dan Marino (61,361), John Elway (51,475) and the CFL's Ron Lancaster (50,535).

Heading into the 2002 season, Flutie's NFL credentials are impressive. His totals include 1,058 completions of 1,925 attempts (.550), 13,249 passing yards, 76 touchdowns and 64 interceptions. He also has 294 career rushing attempts for 1,422 yards and six touchdowns. He has earned a record of 35-25 (.583) as a starting quarterback, including a mark of 21-7 (.750) in home games.

Flutie is an amazingly well-conditioned athlete who enjoys participating in a wide variety of sports. Baseball has always been one of his favorite sports and last May, he was invited to take batting practice with the San Diego Padres and throw out the ceremonial first pitch at a game against the Atlanta Braves. He has also taken batting practice with the Boston Red Sox and skated with the NHL's Boston Bruins. A basketball fanatic as well, Flutie can often be found running full court pickup games at the student recreation center at San Diego State.

Doug is also an accomplished drummer. He and his brother Darren, a CFL wide receiver who played with the Chargers in 1988, formed a rock band called "The Flutie Brothers." This past offseason, the band was invited to play in Las Vegas and at several venues in San Diego. Doug has also been invited to play drums on stage with several rock 'n' roll bands, including the Dave Matthews Band, Aerosmith, Bon Jovi and Lynyrd Skynyrd.

95*AL FONTENOT*Defensive End*6-4, 287*10th NFL Season*4th with Chargers*Baylor*DOB: 9/17/70*Acquired: UFA (Indianapolis) - '99*Hometown: Houston, Tex.

After spending the two previous seasons as the team's starting defensive end, Fontenot was asked to take on a new role in 2001 as a reserve pass rusher, and in doing so, he provided the team with valuable depth along the defensive line. Now heading into his 10th NFL season, Fontenot is the Chargers most experienced defensive lineman and his impressive career totals include 330 tackles and 26.5 sacks. In three seasons with the Chargers, Fontenot has added 10 sacks to his resume and last year he recorded the first interception of his career.

A self-proclaimed "gearhead" since he was a youth growing up around racetracks in his hometown of Baytown, Texas, Fontenot has an interesting hobby that he enjoys during the offseason. He is a driver and part owner for the Brooks, Emerson and Fontenot Drag Racing Team in Houston, Texas. Fontenot, along with his uncle, George Emerson, and longtime family friend, "Speedy" Brooks, race their cars on the Super-10 Circuit. The team currently owns three cars, a 1997 Oldsmobile Cutlass, a 1969 Chevy Camaro and a 1967 Chevy Nova. The racing team has its own Web site where you can check out their cars at www.BEFRacing.com.

82 TREVOR GAYLOR

Wide Receiver

3rd NFL Season

3rd with Chargers

Miami, Ohio

DOB: 11/3/77

Acquired: Draft 4A - '00

Hometown: Hazelwood, Mo.

In his first two seasons with the Chargers, wide receiver Trevor Gaylor has improved steadily. At 6-3, Gaylor has outstanding leaping ability and has impressed coaches with his athleticism and acrobatic catches. With 27 catches in his first two seasons, the Chargers are looking for Gaylor to have a breakout season in 2002.

As a prep at West High School in Hazelwood, Missouri, Gaylor had quite an introduction to varsity football. Inserted into the starting lineup after a teammate was injured, Gaylor caught four passes for 169 yards and four touchdowns in his first-ever varsity start. Needless to say, the other young man did not get his starting job back.

In football and in life, Gaylor has strived to pattern himself after his parents and their ability to overcome obstacles. His mother came from a large family and worked diligently to put herself through college to earn a master's degree. Trevor looks up to his father because he

Offensive Tackle
6-6, 302
2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Purdue
DOB: 7/17/78
Acquired: Draft 7A - '01
Hometown: Muncie, Ind.

With an assist from quarterback Drew Brees, the Chargers used their first pick in the seventh round of the 2001 NFL Draft to select Purdue offensive tackle Brandon Gorin. Brees, the Chargers second-round draft pick was in the "War Room" on day two of the draft when it came time for the Chargers to make their first selection of the seventh round. General Manager John Butler quizzed the quarterback about his thoughts on Gorin before making the selection. Brees, who was in San Diego for a press conference, gave his blessing and his assertion that Gorin may have been the most athletic of the Boilermakers offensive linemen. With that, the Chargers snatched the six-foot-six, 302-pound tackle off the draft board.

As much as he loves the game of football and makes his living at the sport, Gorin has another passion for the game of basketball. This offseason, Gorin coached a youth league team in his hometown of Muncie, Indiana, and when his playing days on the gridiron come to a close, he would like to pursue a career as a college basketball coach.

Gorin draws his inspiration to follow his dreams from his father, Mike, who has always been his biggest fan and supporter. He still remembers many of the messages his father has taught him over the years, and it's his inspiration that has helped him achieve his goal of playing in the NFL, and he'll follow that same advice as he enters the coaching field.

2001: Spent entire season on active roster but was inactive for all 16 games.

COLLEGE: Starting right tackle in 2001 Rose Bowl game versus Washington...three-year starter at right tackle...earned All-Big Ten Conference Academic honors as sophomore...shifted to offensive tackle after beginning career on defensive line...earned degree in industrial engineering.

PERSONAL: Born Brandon Michael Gorin July 17, 1978 in Muncie, Indiana...earned first team all-state honors at Southside High School in Muncie...also played on nationally-ranked basketball team and competed in track and field as discus thrower...earned academic all-state honors...named Muncie-Delaware County's 1996 Scholar Athlete of Year...ranked second in graduating class with 3.8 GPA...single and resides in San Diego.

BOB HALLEN

Guard

6-4, 295

5th NFL Season

1st with Chargers

Kent State

DOB: 3/9/75

Acquired: UFA (Atlanta) - '02

Hometown: Mentor, Ohio

The Chargers solidified their offensive line heading into the 2002 season with the signing of former Atlanta Falcons offensive guard Bob Hallen. A veteran of four NFL seasons, Hallen played in Super Bowl XXXIII against Denver in his rookie season. He's a versatile player who has played both guard and tackle during his professional career.

Away from the football field, Hallen finds relaxation in spending time with his family and riding his Honda Valkyrie motorcycle. Bob and his wife, Heather, have a daughter, Brianna, who turned a year old in May. Heather's great-great-great uncle is Dr. James Naismith, the man responsible for inventing the game of basketball. The couple also has a chocolate labrador retriever named Otis.

In the offseason, the Hallens return home to Cleveland, Ohio, where they are building their dream home on the outskirts of Cleveland Metropolitan Park. The house will have a basement where Bob has been hard at work building his personal home theater. While at home in the offseason, Hallen spends time giving back to his prep alma mater, Mentor High School. He donates about $1,000 each year to the school for them to make improvements to their weight room. He acknowledges that his parents are the ones who have inspired him to give back to the community. Hallen's parents both worked full time to provide and support him and his four brothers and sisters.

2000: Started five games and played in all 16 contests...saw action at left guard, right guard and left tackle...began season as starting left guard for first four games

2nd with Chargers

North Carolina State
DOB: 6/21/77
Acquired: Free Agent - '01
Hometown: Floral Park, N.Y.

Lloyd Harrison, a former third-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins, signed with the Chargers before the start of the 2001 regular season. He gained valuable experience in his first season with the Bolts and finished the year with 17 tackles.

A native of Kingston, Jamaica, Harrison collects music CDs and has an extensive collection of reggae music. In 2001, Harrison parlayed his love of music into an appearance as a background dancer in Da Brat's music video for the song "What Chu Like?" that also featured Chargers safety Jason Perry. Both players are represented by So So Def, an agency which manages several popular musicians as well as professional athletes.

Harrison has been very active in the community in his first year with the Chargers. He is a regular participant in a program to feed San Diego's homeless population and he is a volunteer mentor to students at San Diego's Hoover High School.

2001: Set career high with seven stops against Raiders Dec. 15...had 17 defensive tackles and one special teams tackle on season...recorded first-career sack at Philadelphia Dec. 9. 2000: Saw action against Tennessee Oct. 30 on special teams...also played against Arizona Dec. 24...inactive for 14 games.

Hometown: Chicago, Ill.

It is no fluke that many NFL receivers fear going over the middle when facing the Chargers' defense and strong safety Rodney Harrison. Regarded by many as the league's hardest hitting safety since Ronnie Lott, Harrison was selected to play in his second-career Pro Bowl following the 2001 season. The Chargers co-Defensive Player of the Year, Harrison also garnered a host of All-Pro honors from various national publications.

Harrison's selection as co-Defensive Player of the Year marked the fourth time that teammates have recognized him with the award, which he won outright in 1996, '97 and 2000. Harrison was also chosen among the franchise's all-time greats when he was selected to the Chargers 40th Anniversary All-Time Team during the 2000 season. These honors are well deserved for the hard-working Harrison whose career totals include 24 interceptions, 19.5 sacks and 671 tackles.

Many people don't know this, but Harrison made NFL history in 1997 when he became the first player to score touchdowns on a fumble return, interception return and kickoff return in the same season.

Rodney returns home to Chicago every offseason to be close to his best friend and mother, Barbara. A single parent who raised Rodney and his older brother and sister, Barbara is the one Rodney credits with instilling in him discipline, a work ethic and the tools necessary to succeed in life. When Harrison signed his first pro contract in 1994, one of the first things he did was purchase a washer & dryer and a refrigerator for his mom. Then he took it one step further in 1997, purchasing a brand new house for his mother in Markham, Illinois.

Putting to work some of the lessons he learned from his mother, Harrison established the "Hard Hitters" Foundation in 1999 to improve the quality of life and training for disadvantaged children. One of the signature events of the foundation is an annual Halloween party that Harrison hosts for more than 200 kids at San Diego's Jackie Robinson YMCA.

When he's not home with family, Harrison's hobbies include playing golf and billiards, working out and cruising the waters around San Diego in his 33-foot Sea Ray speedboat.

2001: Selected to second-career Pro Bowl...named Chargers co-Defensive Player of Year...team leader with 108 tackles

Steve Heiden moves into his fourth professional season with visions of a breakout year. A third-round pick in the 1999 NFL Draft, he has been used primarily as a blocking tight end. His career totals include 14 catches and a pair of touchdowns. A versatile performer, fans will also see Heiden performing on most of the Chargers special teams units. This offseason, Heiden showed his commitment to the team by staying in San Diego through the entire off-season to improve his conditioning and put in extra work with the team's new coaches.

One of Heiden's favorite hobbies is playing golf and in his free time, he often joins the team's quarterbacks for a round of 18, always looking to improve on his seven handicap.

28 RONNEY JENKINS

Running Back-Wide Receiver
3rd NFL Season
3rd with Chargers

Northern Arizona
DOB: 5/25/77
Acquired: Free Agent - '00
Hometown: Oxnard, Calif.

Ronney Jenkins' 2001 season was worthy of a Pro Bowl selection after he led the NFL with a 26.6-yard average on kickoff returns. Jenkins, who was named a first-alternate for the NFL's all-star game, set a team record with 1,541 kickoff return yards. He bettered his previous team record by 10 yards, doing so on nine fewer returns than it took him to set the previous record in 2000.

In the Chargers game at Oakland, Jenkins set a team record with 250 kickoff return yards, including a spectacular 93-yard touchdown return and a 67-yard return on the opening kickoff of the second half. His 93-yard return tied a career-long and equaled the sixth-longest in team history. It was his third career return for a touchdown and his second of the season, tying Andre Coleman's team record for most touchdown returns in a season.

Jenkins was named AFC Special Teams Player of the Month for October. During the month he had an 88-yard return for a touchdown on the opening kickoff against Denver, and against Buffalo, his 72-yard return late in the fourth quarter set up Doug Flutie's game-winning 13-yard touchdown run. During the month, Jenkins racked up 17 returns for 527 yards for an awesome 31.0-yard average. He began the month ranked eighth in the NFL in kickoff return yards and finished as the league leader.

Jenkins will head into the 2002 season ranked third on the Chargers' all-time kickoff return yardage list with 3,072 career return yards and it shouldn't take him long to break Andre Coleman's team record of 3,914 yards.

The new coaching staff will attempt to take advantage of Jenkins' many skills by playing him at wide receiver in addition to running back in 2002.

Setting records is nothing new for Jenkins. As a prep at Oxnard, California's Point Hueneme High School, Jenkins set a national high-school record when he rushed for 619 yards and seven touchdowns in a single game. This past summer, Jenkins returned to his alma mater to host a two-day football camp with proceeds from the camp going to the school's athletic programs. Aside from the camp, Jenkins has made several visits to the Oxnard campus to speak with students about life skills and the importance of staying in school. A youth leadership major in college, Jenkins would like to work with at-risk kids when his playing days come to a conclusion.

Jenkins admits that he gets his soft hand for dealing with youth from his grandmother, Jean Cobbs. During his formative years in junior high and high school, it was Cobbs who raised Jenkins and took him into her home to get him away from the gang-infested streets of Los Angeles and into an environment where he could succeed in athletics. Jenkins holds a special place in his heart for his grandmother who not only raised him, but also nine kids of her own while living on a fixed income.

An interesting medical fact about Jenkins is that he lives and plays football despite having only one kidney, the result of a bicycle accident when he was six years old.

99 RAYLEE JOHNSON

Defensive End

6-3, 272

10th NFL Season

10th with Chargers

Arkansas

DOB: 6/1/70

Acquired: Draft 4A - '93

Hometown: Fordyce, Ark.

Raylee Johnson, the victim of a devastating knee injury that cost him the entire 2000 season, came back strong in 2001 and had a season which earned him a selection as the team's Lineman of the Year along with being chosen as a third-alternate to the AFC Pro Bowl squad. Johnson racked up 9.5 sacks for the season and he and fellow defensive end Marcellus Wiley combined for 22.5 sacks, the most by any defensive end tandem in the AFC.

As much as the Chargers were excited to have Johnson back out on the field, they were just as excited to have his presence in the locker room where he is a favorite among teammates. About to set sail on his 10th professional season, Johnson boasts a career ledger that includes 35.5 sacks, 165 tackles and nine forced fumbles. He is one of just five players remaining from the squad that played in the Super Bowl following the 1994 season.

Johnson learned the value of hard work at an early age, which has helped him achieve his goals as a professional football player. He grew up in a large family that included five brothers and three sisters. For several years, the family lived in a one-bedroom house in Fordyce, Arkansas that had no electricity and no plumbing. With money tight, Johnson took his first job bagging groceries at the age of 10 and he hasn't stopped working since.

Today, Johnson is a true success and one of the top players at his trade. He now has his own family. Johnson enjoys taking his family on vacations and before the knee injury, he even took them to Steamboat Springs, Colorado, where the 6-foot-3 defensive end learned how to ride a snowboard. He does have plans to one day continue snowboarding, but for the time being those plans are on hold as he pursue's a bigger goal, to bring a Super Bowl championship to the fans of San Diego.

Texas Christian

Acquired: Free Agent - '01

Hometown: Glen Rose, Tex.

Michael Keathley gained valuable experience as a special teams performer in all 16 games last season. Keathley, who originally joined the team as a rookie free agent, also saw some reserve action on the offensive line in the team's season finale.

Keathley's interests include camping, fishing, playing the guitar and spending time with his family. It's his family, particularly his son Kalen, who inspires him to work hard at perfecting his trade on the football field, and as a sign of his love for his son, Keathley has Kalen's initials tattooed in giant letters on his right arm.

2001: Played on special teams in all 16 games...saw action as reserve left guard late in Seattle game Dec. 30.

Fullback

6-0, 245

6th NFL Season

4th with Chargers

Mississippi State

DOB: 9/19/72

Acquired: Free Agent - '99

Hometown: Naples, Fla.

The 2002 offseason has been one of the busiest ever for Fred and Sanquenette McCrary. In April, the couple shared the birth of their first son, Savion Lewis, and named him after Fred's late grandfather and mentor, Lewis Moore. The baby was born in Atlanta, Georgia, where the couple recently purchased a new home that also has kept them very busy. The custom-built home has a big nursery for the baby and Fred has installed his own personal touch with the media room in the basement, which he calls "Savion's Place." The media room includes a pool table, air hockey table and weight room.

It's been quite a turn-around for McCrary, who is about to begin his fourth season with the Chargers after nearly seeing his football career come to an end in 1998 when he was released by the New Orleans Saints. Unable to hook on with another NFL team after being released, McCrary needed to find work. He accepted a job as a corrections officer at the Orleans Parrish Prison, located outside New Orleans. It is a maximum security prison and McCrary worked the night shift, 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. in a ward filled with some of the toughest inmates in the Louisiana prison system. He was well-known among many inmates from his days with the Saints and given the nickname "Sarge." McCrary spent nearly a year working at the prison until he got the call from the Chargers to resume his NFL career.

In his first full season with the Bolts in 1999, McCrary was named Special Teams Player of the Year after leading the team in tackles. He has proved to be an adept pass catcher out of the backfield, recording 68 catches for 413 yards and three touchdowns for the Chargers. He has become one of the team's leaders both on and off the field and his sense of humor, which he says he inherited from his grandfather, has made him a favorite among teammates in the locker room.

2001: Had 13 catches for 71 yards ...rushed twice for three yards...added five stops on special teams. 2000: Caught 18 passes for 141 yards (7.8 avg.) and two scores...also rushed seven times for eight yards, his first carries with San Diego ...ranked second on team with 11 tackles on special teams...caught first touchdown pass of season at St. Louis Oct. 1...caught second touchdown pass of season, from eight yards out, versus Miami Nov. 12...tied career high with five carries versus Seattle Sept. 24...only other carries of season came versus Oakland on Oct. 29. 1999: Earned Emil Karas Memorial Award as Chargers Special Teams Player of Year ...led team with 15 tackles on special teams...set career receiving bests with 37 catches for 201 yards (5.4 avg.), long of 38 yards and first-career receiving touchdown...his 37 receptions ranked fifth on team and second among running backs behind Terrell Fletcher's 45...scored first-career receiving touchdown on 18-yard pass from Jim Harbaugh against Oakland Dec. 26...had career-long 38-yard reception in season finale at Denver Jan. 2, 2000. 1998: Released by New Orleans prior to season...did not play in 1998. 1997: Saw action in seven games with Saints...had eight carries for 15 yards and four receptions for 17 yards...first action with Saints came at Oakland Nov. 9...best rushing game was at Atlanta Nov. 23 when he had 13 yards on five carries...had best receiving day versus Falcons, catching two passes for 20 yards...returned two kickoffs for 26 yards on season, one for 15 yards versus St. Louis Dec. 7 and one for 11 yards at Kansas City...finished season tied for fifth on team with eight tackles on special teams...signed by New Orleans as free agent March 5, 1997. 1996: Released by Philadelphia on final roster cutdown August 25, 1996, and spent season out of football. 1995: Started four of 13 games played as rookie...finished season with three carries and one rushing touchdown...had nine receptions for 60 yards...all four starts came in place of injured Kevin Turner...had first-career touchdown run at Arizona Sept. 10...was inactive Games 14-16...also inactive for NFC Wild Card contest versus Detroit Dec. 30...did not play in playoff game at Dallas Jan. 7, 1996...finished regular season with six tackles on special teams

...sixth-round pick and 208th player chosen overall by Philadelphia in 1995 NFL Draft.

COLLEGE: Two-year starter had 248 yards and four touchdowns on 32 receptions, and 144 yards and one touchdown on 34 rushes...earned degree in criminology.

PERSONAL: Born Freddy Demetrius McCrary September 19, 1972 in Naples, Florida...gained more than 1,200 yards as senior at Naples High School...lettered in basketball and track...was honored as school's top athlete in 1991...McCrary enjoys fishing in his free time...owns bass boat in Florida and spends time with family fishing for bass and bluegill along famed Alligator Alley in Florida...spends free time fishing in San Diego at local lakes, including Lake Miramar and Poway Lake...Fred and wife, Sanquenette, have homes in San Diego and Atlanta.

A native of Kingston, Jamaica, McIntosh and his family moved to Pembroke Pines, Florida when he was four years old, but he would return to the island nation every summer to spend time with his grandparents and other family members.

Growing up between Jamaica and Florida, it is no surprise that McIntosh has a fascination with fish. The massive offensive tackle keeps himself busy year-round by taking care of his 300-gallon saltwater aquarium, which currently is home to three leopard sharks, a horn shark, a morey eel and several other exotic fish. He also owns a 120-gallon tank that houses more than 20 freshwater fish. As a child, McIntosh loved to raise animals and his personal petting zoo included dogs, turtles, birds and, of course, fish.

2001: Starting left tackle for first 14 games...did not play at Kansas City Dec. 23 due to flu...saw action as reserve in season finale versus Seattle. 2000: Saw action in three games as rookie on special teams...spent first 13 weeks on inactive list...saw first NFL game action versus Baltimore Dec. 10...entered NFL as San Diego's third-round choice and 83rd player chosen overall in 2000 NFL Draft.

DOB: 10/4/70

Hometown: Ft. Pierce, Fla.

Ryan McNeil can hardly wait for the 2002 season to get started. McNeil was selected to start in his first-career Pro Bowl last season after nearly breaking the Chargers' record for interceptions in a single season.

A 10-year NFL veteran, McNeil racked up eight interceptions last season, one shy of the team record and his own personal best. His eight interceptions tied for the second-most in team history and were the most since Dick Harris had eight in 1963. Ironically, it's another McNeil, cornerback Charlie McNeil, who set the Chargers' team record for interceptions in a season with nine in 1961. McNeil tied for second with Harris, Claude Gibson (1962) and Bob Zeman (1961), who each had eight interceptions.

McNeil was named the AFC's Defensive Player of the Month for September after collecting a league-leading five interceptions. He became the first player since Charley Warner (Buffalo, 1965) to open a season with five interceptions in his first three games and his five interceptions were the most ever by a Chargers player in a three-game span.

Since his arrival in the NFL as a second-round draft pick of the Detroit Lions in 1993, McNeil has been one of the league's most durable players, appearing in 119 consecutive games dating back to the 1994 season.

Off the field, McNeil has equally impressive credentials. He is the founder and president of McNeil Management, a consulting firm that helps both current and former professional athletes prepare for life after the game with offices in San Diego, Houston, Miami and Kansas City. This offseason, McNeil launched the Professional Business and Financial Network, an association exclusively for professional athletes focussed on business skills development and peer networking opportunities.

It is McNeil's penchant for the business world that earned him an invitation to participate in a financial literacy workshop this past May on Wall Street. McNeil was one of about 20 active and retired NFL players invited to attend the workshop where they learned about the role of the New York Stock Exchange in the global economy and received valuable insight about investment opportunities. The workshop was organized by Rev. Jesse Jackson's Rainbow Coalition and the NFL Players Association.

When it comes to community giving, McNeil is just as active as he is in the business world. He learned the importance of giving back to the community from his parents. With the help of his mother, Rose Haywood, McNeil oversees two charitable foundations based in his hometown of Ft. Pierce, Florida. The private Ryan D. McNeil Foundation annually awards five $1,000 college scholarships to deserving students in Florida. His public foundation, "The 47 Club," assists with a host of projects in and around his hometown, including a football camp he hosts over the Memorial Day Weekend at his alma matter, Ft. Pierce Westwood High School, and the purchase of a new hardwood basketball floor for the school's gymnasium. In addition, McNeil sponsors field trips for area youth to visit colleges and historical sites around the country.

2001: Selected to start for AFC Pro Bowl squad after originally being named first alternate...named Chargers' co-Defensive Player of Year...led team with eight interceptions and 16 passes defended...he finished season tied for fifth in NFL and ranked third in AFC in interceptions...team's fourth-leading tackler with 77 stops...intercepted eighth pass of season at Kansas City Dec. 23...collected seventh interception of season versus Oakland Nov. 18...had sixth interception vs. Denver Oct. 21...had season high and led team with 11 tackles against Broncos...tied career high with two interceptions against Cincinnati Sept. 30 and at Dallas Sept. 23...also had two vs. San Francisco Sept. 7, 1997 with Rams...had first interception of season in opener against Washington...named AFC Defensive Player of Month for September after collecting league leading five interceptions during month. 2000: Led Cowboys with 13 passes defended...also added two interceptions and one forced fumble...ranked fourth on team with career-high 101 tackles, most by Dallas cornerback since club began keeping individual tackle totals in 1979...started all 16 games at left Alex Molden is on a mission in 2002 to prove to Chargers fans that the Bolts made the right decision when they signed the veteran cornerback to a six-year contract last season. Molden, whose 2001 season was cut short by knee and ankle injuries, finished the year with just 19 tackles and one interception. He is healthy again and he's eager to get back on the field for a fresh start in lightning bolts.

Molden, a first-round pick of the New Orleans Saints in 1996, has an impressive resume, which includes 225 tackles, nine interceptions, six sacks and 52 passes defended.

Molden enjoys bowling, reading and playing chess in his free time. A staunch supporter of the Boys and Girls Clubs, Molden donated $5,000 to clubs in New Orleans and his hometown of Colorado Springs, Colorado. This season, he will donate $1,000 to the Boys and Girls Clubs of San Diego County for every interception he records.

6-0, 200

4th NFL Season

4th with Chargers

North Carolina State

DOB: 8/1/76

Acquired: Draft 4 - '99

Hometown: Paterson, N.J.

After missing most of the 2000 season due to a freak season-ending knee injury, Jason Perry returned to the field in 2001 and had a solid season, collecting the first two interceptions of his career. He even scored his first career touchdown on his first interception of the season against Buffalo.

Perry has always enjoyed music, and in his free time, he lends his talents as a lead vocalist in the band "Time Out," a rhythm and blues band featuring members of the Chargers security staff. A fan of the club scene and hip-hop music, Perry and teammate Lloyd Harrison made an appearance in 2001 as dancers in the popular music video "What Chu Like?" by female hip-hop artist Da Brat that also featured male rhythm and blues singer, Tyrese.

Among his many outdoor interests, Perry enjoys spending time riding jet skis at San Diego's Fiesta Island and he stays in excellent shape in-line skating along the city's many beaches and bike paths.

52 CARLOS POLK

Linebacker

2nd NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Nebraska

DOB: 2/22/77

Acquired: Draft 4 - '01

Hometown: Rockford, Ill.

Hard-nosed linebacker Carlos Polk faces a tough test this season when he looks to return to the field following an injury-shortened rookie season. Polk, the Chargers fourth-round pick in the 2001 NFL Draft, was establishing himself as one of the team's top special teams performers before suffering a shoulder injury that sidelined him for the team's final seven games. This year, a healthy Polk will challenge the incumbent Orlando Ruff for the team's starting middle linebacker slot.

Polk's father, John Moore, is the man he credits with being the biggest influence in his life. Moore, a construction worker by trade, commuted to and from Chicago, leaving the house at 4 a.m. and often times returning home after 9 p.m., yet he made time for Carlos and his brothers and sisters when he was home. It is from his father that Polk inherited his tireless work ethic and family values.

One common bond that brought Carlos and his father together was their love of working on cars, especially classic cars. Polk's first car in high school was a Pontiac Firebird that he and his dad spent their weekends working on before Carlos was old enough to drive. Over

CORY RAYMER

Center

6-3, 300

8th NFL Season

1st with Chargers

Wisconsin

Acquired: UFA (Washington) - '02

Hometown: Fond du Lac, Wisc.

The Chargers addressed one of their most pressing offseason needs when they signed center Cory Raymer from the Washington Redskins to a five-year deal on March 7, 2002. A veteran of seven seasons, all in Washington, Raymer is the type of tough, steady player that good NFL offensive lines rely on at center.

Raymer learned all he needed to know about toughness last year in the wake of the nation's tragedies on Sept. 11. As a member of the Washington Redskins, Raymer and his family lived in Sterling, Virginia, an estimated 20 miles from where the Pentagon is located. Following the attacks, Raymer and many of the Redskins players visited the Pentagon to help build up the morale among rescue workers. It turned out to be an uplifting experience for the players as well to see all the volunteers working so diligently.

Raymer, who grew up in Wisconsin, is an avid outdoorsman and his favorite activities include fishing and hunting with his yellow labrador, Tucker. One of Raymer's best friends is the captain of a deep-sea fishing boat in North Carolina and Corey is a regular on the boat during the offseason. His biggest catch to date is a 185-pound Big Eye Tuna. Raymer also loves motorcycles and has owned a Harley Davidson "Fat Boy" since 1997. He and current Chargers teammate Stephen Alexander, who owns a couple of motorcycles, were neighbors when they both played in Washington and spent many afternoons in the late fall and spring riding their bikes along the highways of Virginia.

2001: Started all 16 games at center for Washington. 2000: Suffered torn ACL in training camp on Aug. 14...returned to practice after being inactive for first four games of season...reinjured knee in practice on Sept. 28 and was placed on "Reserve-Injured" list for remainder of season. 1999: Started all 16 games...also started playoff games...was fixture on offensive line, which helped propel NFL's second-ranked offense...line yielded just 31 sacks compared to franchise record 61 in 1998 ...Raymer and rest of offensive line earned game balls after Redskins' offense amassed 395 total yards in 50-21 rout over Giants in Week 2. 1998: Started all 16 games for first time in his career...played in all but one of Redskins' 1,029 offensive plays. 1997: Played in six games with three starts...took over starting role at center when Jeff Uhlenhake was sidelined for final three games of season. 1996: Played in six total games and started first five games of season...played every snap until injuring his knee against New York Jets Sept. 29...returned for three plays versus Indianapolis Oct. 27...two days later, suffered season-ending injuries in a serious car accident while returning from fishing trip...suffered bruised kidney, fractured vertebra and badly sprained left shoulder when his vehicle turned over after he tried avoiding car that crossed into his path. 1995: Broke his ankle in scrimmage versus Pittsburgh in first week of training camp ...didn't play until making first NFL start and playing entire game versus Seattle in Week 11...finished season with two starts in three games.

COLLEGE: Unanimous first-team All-America selection...became first Badgers center since former Pittsburgh Steelers great Mike Webster to earn All-Big Ten honors...one of 12 nominees for 1994 Lombardi Award, which goes to college football's top lineman...earned degree in letters and sciences.

PERSONAL: Born March 3, 1973 in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin...USA Today All-America Honorable Mention as defensive tackle at Goodrich High School in Fond du Lac...consensus first-team All-State pick ...broke his thumb as freshman and begged his parents to let him remove cast and play...before season's final game, his parents relented and he shed cast for one day to play...grew up Dallas Cowboys fan despite living in heart of Green Bay Packers country...hobbies include riding motorcycles, including his Suzuki GSXR...Cory's sister, Lisa, is special education teacher who brought her students to Badgers games when he played there...Raymer escorted young visitors around Wisconsin locker rooms after games...he once wrote second-grade paper of his intention to be football player...Raymer and his wife, Heidi, have two sons, Dylan (Nov. 22, 1999) and Mason (Dec. 31, 2001)...and reside in San Diego.

6-3, 205

5th NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Louisiana State

DOB: 5/19/76

Acquired: RFA (San Francisco) - '01

Hometown: Lafayette, La.

As Wade Richey heads into his second season with the Chargers, he is slated to handle kickoffs while battling veteran Steve Christie for the team's field goal chores. He will benefit from working under the tutelage of veteran special teams coach Steve Crosby.

Richey, who possesses booming leg strength, has racked up an impressive 75 touchbacks during his career, including a league-best 18 last season, and he is a threat on long field-goal attempts. He owns an impressive .721 career field goal percentage.

Richey once shaved the big toe on his kicking foot in high school because he thought it would make his foot lighter and give him even more strength in his leg. When he's not looking for ways to improve his field goals and kickoffs, Richey enjoys woodworking and making small pieces of furniture. It's a trade he learned from his aunt and uncle who own their own

ORLANDO RUFF

Linebacker

6-3, 250

4th NFL Season

4th with Chargers

Furman

Acquired: Free Agent - '99

Hometown: Winnsboro, S.C.

As he begins his fourth professional season, Orlando Ruff has fought off a host of challengers and taken firm grasp of the team's starting middle linebacker position. An undrafted rookie from Furman University, Ruff took over the position two years ago from veteran Eric Hill, and last year, Ruff outlasted proven veteran John Holecek to secure his spot on the interior. Under the watchful eye of fellow linebacker Junior Seau, Ruff has quickly developed into one of the league's top middle linebackers.

This past offseason, Ruff began yoga classes to help him develop additional mental and physical strength. He studies the form of yoga known as Bikram at a local studio.

Away from the football field, Ruff is a seasoned world traveler. His father, Larry, is a retired Master Sergeant in the Air Force and when Orlando was a child, the family lived in Japan for four years while his father was stationed at the Misawa Air Force Base. As an adult, Ruff has continued his world travels, visiting Italy, Haiti and Puerto Rico.

Ruff also has a passion for the theater and estimates that he has seen 40-50 plays, including several Broadway productions.

33 DAVIS SANCHEZ

Cornerback

5-10, 190

2nd NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Oregon

DOB: 8/7/74

Acquired: Free Agent - '01

Hometown: Vancouver, B.C.

A former standout in the Canadian Football League who became the first Canadian cornerback in league history to lead the league in interceptions, Sanchez is looking to have that same impact in his second NFL season. Last year, he started two games for the Chargers and became only the second Canadian-born player to start a game for the Chargers. The other was cornerback Mark Montreuil, who started one game for the Bolts in 1997.

Sanchez's arrival to the NFL is unique in that he never played football in high school and he played just a little more than one season of college football. Sanchez was an outstanding prep basketball player, and that was his primary focus following high school. He spent a year playing basketball at Capilano College in North Vancouver, and then took a year off and worked in a warehouse while he played in an adult football league. Feeling a need to realize his potential in football, Sanchez walked on to the football team at Butte Junior College in 1996, earned a starting job, and finished the year as a first-team JC All-America and the California Junior College Defensive Player of the Year. After an injury-shortened career at the University of Oregon, it was off to the CFL for Sanchez, who made his mark with the Montreal Alouettes before making the jump to the NFL last season.

2001: Had 14 tackles on defense and five on special teams...had season-high five tackles at Seattle Dec. 2 and at Philadelphia Dec. 9...made first-career start for injured Tay Cody at Philadelphia.

CANADIAN FOOTBALL LEAGUE: 2000: Earned All-Canadian Football League honors for Montreal Alouettes...named East Division's Most Outstanding Canadian Player and selected to Eastern All-Star squad...led CFL with nine interceptions, 163 interception return yards and two interception returns for touchdowns. 1999: Played 17 games for Montreal racking up three interceptions.

COLLEGE: Played eight games for University of Oregon as junior...sat out senior season with broken leg...earned first-team JC All-America honors and California Defensive Player of Year honors as sophomore at Butte Junior College...played basketball as freshman at Capilano College in North Vancouver, B.C.

PERSONAL: Born August 7, 1974 in Vancouver, British Columbia...prepped at North Delta High School in B.C...single and resides in San Diego.

55 JUNIOR SEAU

Linebacker

6-3, 255

13th NFL Season

13th with Chargers

Southern California

DOB: 1/19/69

Acquired: Draft 1 - '90

Hometown: Oceanside, Calif.

An incredible combination of speed, strength and desire, Junior Seau is considered by many as the best linebacker in football today and one of the best in NFL history. He's coming off a 2001 season in which he was voted to a team-record 11th-consecutive Pro Bowl, the second-most consecutive appearances by a player in the NFL since 1970. Only former Tampa Bay guard Randall McDaniel played in more than Seau, appearing in 12 consecutive Pro Bowls between 1989-2000.

Throughout his career, Seau has managed to post some incredible statistics. While playing in 187 games during his 12-year career he has racked up 1,396 tackles, 45.5 sacks and 14 interceptions. He's been the team leader in tackles in eight of his 12 seasons, averaging 116 tackles a year. The Chargers' top pick and the fifth player selected overall in the 1990 NFL Draft, Seau has led the team in tackles in 84 of the 187 career games he's played in and has recorded 10 or more tackles in a game 47 times.

Among his many honors, Seau has been named the Chargers' Most Valuable Player for the past five seasons, and in 2000, he was named to the Chargers 40th Anniversary All-Time Team, the Pro Football Hall of Fame's All-Decade Team for the '90s and selected as the NFL Alumni Association's Linebacker of the Year.

As great a player as Seau is on the field, he is equal to the task off the field. He is a loving father, an astute businessman and a community leader. When he's not hard at work behind the scenes at SEAU's the Restaurant in Mission Valley, Seau enjoys spending time with his three children: Sydney, Jake and Hunter.

Junior also oversees the efforts of the Junior Seau Foundation, an organization he established in 1992. Through his work with the foundation, Seau has awarded more than 200 scholarships to college-bound students, and every December, he leads the holiday charge, taking more than 200 underprivileged kids on a shopping spree to buy gifts for friends and family through the "Shop with a Jock" program. The foundation's largest fund-raiser also happens to be one of the premier events in Southern California, the Junior Seau Celebrity Golf Classic. The annual event, which also features the Team Seau Dinner and Legends Party, takes place at the La Costa Resort and Spa and is attended by many active and retired players from the NFL.

In his free time, Junior is a gym rat and golf enthusiast. He is one of the founding fathers of the team's "Breakfast Club," a group of players who wake up early and work out five days a week at 6:45 a.m. at the team's training facility throughout the season. He is also a member of the La Jolla Country Club where he's an 11-handicap.

96 stops...tied team high with seven stops against Seattle Dec. 30...had team-leading eight tackles against Oakland Dec. 15...led squad with 11 stops against Cardinals Nov.

Washington
DOB: 2/19/78
Acquired: Draft 5A - '01
Hometown: Agoura, Calif.

In his first professional season, Elliot Silvers gained valuable experience learning the nuances of the game from recently-retired offensive line coach Joe Bugel. Silvers will further benefit in his second year from working with one of the top offensive line coaches in the game today: Hudson Houck.

Silvers, who has a keen interest in business and would like to open a restaurant one day, has read many books about business and finance, real estate, politics and current events. He is also a very big fan of the rock 'n roll band, The Doors. Silvers has an extensive collection of the band's memorabilia, including all of their released albums, poetry books, and several books featuring biographies on members of the band. In a college survey of three people he would most like to have dinner with, Silvers' first choice was the former lead vocalist of the band: Jim Morrison.

2001: Was active but did not play at Kansas City Dec. 23...was inactive for Games 1-14 & 16.

COLLEGE: All-Pac-10 first team selection as senior...recipient of John P. Angel Club Outstanding Offensive Lineman Award ...started in 2001 Rose Bowl victory over Running back LaDainian Tomlinson capped off an outstanding rookie campaign by being selected as an alternate to the Pro Bowl and first or second on all Rookie-of-the-Year ballots. He earned the postseason recognition after recording the second-highest rushing total in team history with 1,236 yards. He came up just 114 yards shy of Natrone Means' team record of 1,350 yards. With 1,236 yards rushing, Tomlinson finished the season ranked ninth in the NFL and fifth in the AFC.

In the 2001 season finale against Seattle, Tomlinson set a team record for total yards from scrimmage in a single season. Tomlinson finished his first NFL campaign with 1,603 total yards, including 1,236 rushing yards and 367 receiving yards. He bettered Lance Alworth's total of 1,590 yards set in 1965, though Alworth posted his total in 14 games. Tomlinson is the first player in team history to collect more than 1,600 yards in a single season. His 1,603 total yards from scrimmage ranked ninth in the NFL and fourth in the AFC.

Tomlinson was a workhorse, carrying the football 339 times in 2001, the second-most carries by a back in team history.

On Dec. 23 at Kansas City, Tomlinson became the team's all-time leading rookie rusher. He rushed for 145 yards against the Chiefs, raising his season total at the time to 1,198 yards. Don Woods, who rushed for 1,162 yards in 1974, previously held the team's rookie record, and he is the only other rookie in team history to reach the 1,000 yard plateau. Tomlinson became the team's first 1,000-yard rusher since Means posted 1,350 yards in 1994. It is only the 10th time in team history that a running back has recorded a 1,000-yard season.

On Dec. 2 at Seattle, Tomlinson scored his 10th rushing touchdown of the season, becoming the team's all-time leader among rookies. His 10 rushing touchdowns were the most since Natrone Means had 12 in 1994 and is tied for the fifth highest single-season total in team history. The team record for rushing touchdowns in a season is 19, set by Chuck Muncie in 1981. Means is tied for second with Muncie (1983) and Clarence Williams, who also rushed for 12 touchdowns in 1979. Tim Spencer also scored 10 rushing touchdowns in 1985. Tomlinson's 10 touchdowns were tied for 11th-most in the NFL and seventh-most in the AFC.

He and Chicago's Anthony Thomas finished the season tied for second among NFL rookies with four 100-yard rushing games. Indianapolis' Dominic Rhodes led all rookies with five 100-yard games.

Tomlinson has stayed grounded despite his early NFL success. He is extremely close with his mother, Loreane, and one of the first things he did after signing his contract was to purchase a new home for her in the family's hometown of Waco, Texas. He also purchased a pair of vacant buildings in the Dallas area, one which would house his mother's real estate company, Eagle Lending, and the other for his sister, Londria, to be used for her to run a day-care center. Tomlinson has also hosted a youth football camp in Texas. Last year, he and Cleveland Browns wide receiver Kwame Cavil hosted the camp in Austin, Texas, and this year the pair hosted the camp, which attracted nearly 300 kids, in Waco.

This past offseason, Tomlinson fulfilled a dream he'd had since he was a child when he purchased a restored 1964 Chevy Impala nicknamed "The G Ride." The car is a cherry-red convertible and it came with a hydraulic lift kit for Tomlinson to go "bumping" around town.

87 TAMARICK VANOVER

Wide Receiver
6-0, 220
6th NFL Season
1st with Chargers

Florida State
DOB: 2/25/74
Acquired: Free Agent - '02
Hometown: Tallahassee, Fla.

The Chargers added to their arsenal one of the most dangerous return men ever to play in the NFL when they signed former Kansas City Chief Tamarick (Tuh-MAR-ick) Vanover to a one-year contract on May 6. Vanover left Kansas City as the Chiefs' record holder in kickoff returns, kickoff return yards and kickoff return touchdowns. He also tied the team's career mark for touchdowns on punt returns while ranking second in club history for career punt returns and yardage. The Chiefs were 8-2 in games when Vanover scored a touchdown and his big play ability is a testament to why he has been named AFC Player of the Week six times in his career.

Out of football for the past two seasons, Vanover is eager to make the most of a second chance to compete in the NFL. With a strong supporting cast of family and friends, Vanover has worked hard to get back into shape and has earned that chance to perform on sports premier stage. During his time away from the game, Vanover sponsored an adult flag football team in Lake City, Florida, where he was both player and coach.

JOSH WHITMAN

Tight End
6-4, 245
2nd NFL Season
2nd with Chargers

Illinois
DOB: 8/15/78
Acquired: Free Agent - '01
Hometown: Lafayette, Ind.

Signed to the active roster midway through the 2001 season, Josh Whitman gained valuable experience as a blocking tight end and a contributor on special teams.

An only child growing up in the Midwest, Whitman has been a huge baseball fan since he was a child, and he is an avid student of the game. He recalls that some of his best times as a youth were when he and his father, Mark, would attend baseball's Spring Training in Arizona and Florida. Father and son would fly down and then drive to all the different team's training sites. It comes as no surprise where Whitman learned so much about the game. In his spare time he likes to read books about the history of baseball. He and his father own a collection of baseball cards that numbers in excess of 10,000 and their collection features such Hall of Famers as Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and Hank Aaron.

2001: Played in four games with one start as blocking tight end...signed to active roster from practice squad Oct. 26...went to training camp with Buffalo and was released prior to start of regular season...signed by Chargers to practice squad Oct. 9.

COLLEGE: Finished four-year career at Illinois with 52 catches, 552 yards and seven touchdowns...earned honorable mention all-conference honors as senior...earned College Football Foundation Scholar-Athlete Award and team's Bruce Cape Award for dedication and courage...outstanding student who graduated in three and a half years from Illinois' nationally ranked college of business...had 3.99 grade point average in finance.

PERSONAL: Born Joshua Harmon Whitman on August 5, 1978 in Lafayette, Indiana...first-team all-state selection as senior at William Henry Harrison High School in West Lafayette, Indiana...nominated for state's Mr. Football Award...also four-year letter winner in basketball...finished career as school's third all-time leading scorer...valedictorian of his class and member of National Honor Society...married, Jamin, and couple resides in San Diego.

75 MARCELLUS WILEY

Defensive End

6-4, 275

6th NFL Season

2nd with Chargers

Columbia

DOB: 11/30/74

Acquired: UFA (Buffalo) - '01

Hometown: Los Angeles, Calif.

Marcellus Wiley became an instant fan favorite in just his first year in San Diego, setting a career high with 13 sacks and being voted to start in his first Pro Bowl. Wiley's "Buck the Bolt" dance following each sack became very popular among the fans. He and fellow defensive end Raylee Johnson combined for 22.5 sacks, the most by any defensive line tandem in the AFC.

This past year, Wiley wasted no time in becoming one of the Chargers most active participants in the San Diego community. He visited numerous schools to speak to kids, and he also started a line of clothing called "WildStyle 75," with proceeds from sales benefiting underprivileged youth throughout Southern California.

Wiley has a tremendous passion for music and even had a personal recording studio built into his Cardiff, California home. One of his weekly projects during the season is to record a CD, which is played at Qualcomm Stadium during warm-ups prior to each Chargers' home game. Wiley, whose nickname is "Dat Dude" is frequently seen displaying his non-football talents as a deejay at various clubs in both San Diego and Los Angeles. He also recently started his own production company, Dat Dude Entertainment.

Wiley is also a huge fan of the musical group OutKast. Last year, he told a national magazine that when he retires from the NFL, one of his dreams is to buy a Winnebago, get a leather jacket with sketches of the band's members airbrushed on the back and follow the musicians as they toured around the country.

Coming out of high school in Los Angeles, Wiley surprised people when he decided to attend the Ivy League's Columbia University in New York, spurning interest from Pac-10 schools UCLA and Cal-Berkeley. Wiley helped deliver a winner to a school that suffered through a 44-game losing streak in the mid-1980s. In his senior season, he led the Lions to an 8-2 record, the school's best since 1945.

2001: Selected to play in first-career Pro Bowl...named to Pro Football Weekly's All-AFC Team...led team with career-high 13 sacks and five forced fumbles...recorded sack and forced fumble against Seahawks Dec. 30...tied career high with two sacks versus Oakland Dec. 15...collected 1.5 sacks versus Arizona Nov. 25...had one at Denver Nov. 11...had 1.5 sacks versus Kansas City Nov. 4...tied career high with two sacks vs. Buffalo Oct. 28...forced fumble of quarterback Rob Johnson, which Chargers converted into field goal...recorded 47 tackles and two passes defended...was inactive Weeks 1-2 with foot injury and played rest of season with screws in foot to protect injury...dating back to Oct. 19, 2000, has 19 sacks in last 20 games played...had at least one sack in every game this season but Oakland contest Nov. 18, Seattle game Dec. 2, Philly game Dec. 9 and Kansas City game Dec. 23. 2000: Led Bills with career-high 10.5 sacks and ranked fourth on team with career-best 104 tackles...became fourth Buffalo player in team history to record more than 10 sacks in one season, joining Bruce Smith (12 times), Bryce Paup (once) and Phil Hansen (once)...added 23 quarterback pressures, three forced fumbles and one fumble recovery...started 15 games while playing in all 16...recorded two sacks at San Diego Oct. 15...delivered two sacks at Kansas City Nov. 19, added two more at Tampa Bay Nov. 26 and 1.5 versus Miami Dec. 3, becoming first Buffalo player with three consecutive multi-sack games since Bruce Smith in 1996...racked up career-high 17 tackles against New England Dec. 17. 1999: Played in all 16 games and earned one start...notched 43 tackles, five sacks, first-career interception and 22 quarterback pressures...collected season-high seven tackles at Seattle Oct. 24...had his biggest play of season versus New York Giants Dec. 12 when he picked off deflected Kerry Collins pass and returned it 52 yards to set up Bills touchdown early in fourth quarter...earned lone start of season Jan. 2, 2000, replacing injured Phil Hansen against Indianapolis. 1998: Enjoyed solid campaign with 45 tackles and four sacks...ranked second on team with 27 quarterback pressures...played in all 16 contests with three starts...started season opener at San Diego in place of injured Bruce Smith and recorded then-career high 10 tackles...registered first-career sack against San Francisco's Steve Young Oct. 4...recorded second and third career sacks against New England Nov. 29 and Cincinnati Dec. 6...started in place of Phil Hansen in regular-season finale at New Orleans Dec. 27 and recorded one sack...made first-career playoff appearance, again starting for Hansen in Wild Card contest at Miami Jan. 2, 1999, responding with postseason career-high 11 tackles and one sack. 1997: Saw action in all 16 games as reserve defensive lineman and on special teams...finished season with 24 tackles...had season-high five tackles twice against Patriots, at New England Oct. 12 and versus New England Nov. 9...had kickoff return for 12 yards on short kick at Miami Nov. 17...forced first-career fumble with hit on Curtis Martin versus New England Nov. 9...had fumble recovery in season finale at Green Bay Dec. 20 and returned it 40 yards to set up touchdown...entered NFL as Bills second-round pick and was 52nd player chosen overall in 1997 draft.

COLLEGE: Outstanding defensive end and tailback at Columbia University...helped team that went 2-8 in his freshman year finish 8-2 in his senior season...first-team All-America and All-Ivy League pick...sat out entire 1995 season on leave of absence, during which time he concentrated on his studies and worked in center for homeless and troubled youth...first team all-conference pick in 1994...named Sports Illustrated's National Defensive Player of Week for performance in 1994 win over Cornell...earned degree in sociology.

PERSONAL: Born Marcellus Vernon Wiley on Nov. 30, 1974 in Compton, California...all-conference selection at Saint Monica High in Los Angeles...also competed in track...has daughter Morocco Alise (Feb. 24, 1999) and resides in Cardiff, California.

76 JAMAL WILLIAMS

Defensive Tackle

6-3, 305

5th NFL Season

5th with Chargers

Oklahoma State

DOB: 4/28/76

Acquired: Draft 2 (Supp.) - '98

Hometown: Washington D.C.

The Chargers are looking for Jamal Williams, one of the team's most powerful defensive tackles, to rebound from a knee injury that cost him the majority of the 2001 season.

It comes as no surprise that Williams is widely regarded as one of the most physically imposing defensive tackles in the NFL. He comes from a family in which he was the second oldest of seven boys all raised by his mother, Harriet, a single parent, who works as a correctional officer at a juvenile facility in Louisville, Kentucky.

Williams, who attended Oklahoma State University, is a fan of country music and his favorite artist is a fellow alum from OSU, Garth Brooks. Williams owns many of Brooks' CDs and has seen him perform live. Williams wife, Sureddie, has musical talents of her own and is currently working in a recording studio on a gospel CD.

His other interests include collecting comic books and fishing. Williams has more than 2,500 comic books in his collection. His favorites are The Incredible Hulk and The X-Men.

2001: Started first three games at defensive tackle before being placed on "Reserve-Injured" list Oct. 3 with left knee injury...had two tackles and one fumble recovery. 2000: One of six players on defense to start all 16 games...set new career high and ranked second among defensive linemen with 53 tackles...also recorded one sack, one forced fumble and one pass defended...had at least one tackle in every game...had career-high six tackles in four games, including versus New Orleans Sept. 10, versus Denver Oct. 8, at Seattle Nov. 5 and versus Kansas City Nov. 26...lone sack of season came at Denver Nov. 19. 1999: Finished season with 26 tackles, one sack and two passes defended...played in all 16 contests with two starts at defensive tackle...started at Minnesota Nov. 28 and versus Cleveland Dec. 5...had lone sack in season finale at

Rookie NFL Season

1st with Chargers

Oregon

DOB: 3/15/79

Acquired: Draft 4 - '02

Hometown: Dublin, Calif.

The Chargers secured an outstanding young tight end with the selection of Oregon's Justin Pelle in the fourth round of the 2002 NFL Draft with the 103rd overall choice. Pelle continued Oregon's long line of standout tight ends who have been integral parts of the Ducks' offense. He possesses good size and speed, which allowed him to be a major factor in the Ducks' passing and running games. He was a master at understanding the squad's offense and it aided his ability to find seams in the opponent's secondary. Pelle was a four-time All-Pac-10 Conference Academic Team selection who overcame injury problems early in his career to leave the Eugene, Oregon campus with 63 receptions for 944 yards (15.1 avg.) and 14 touchdowns while appearing in 42 contests.

12 SETH BURFORD

Quarterback

Rookie NFL Season

1st with Chargers

Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo

DOB: 3/11/79

Acquired: Draft 7 - '02

Hometown: Oakdale, Calif.

With the team's final pick in the 2002 NFL Draft, the Chargers selected quarterback Seth Burford from Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo with the 216th overall choice. Built like a fullback, Burford was the vocal leader of the Mustangs offense who relished getting the ball in crucial situations and punished defenders that dared to get in his way when running with the football. He was one of the strongest members of the team with a 405-pound bench press, 500-pound squat and 325-pound power clean. A versatile athlete, he also saw action as the team's punter. Burford leaves Cal Poly as the school's all-time passing leader with 4,282 yards and he's ranked second in school annals with 36 career touchdowns. He completed 287 of 517 passes and gained an additional 580 yards with 14 scores on 234 carries. Burford also punted 32 times for 1,228 yards for the Mustangs. He began his collegiate career at Idaho State where he spent two seasons, hitting 131 of 259 attempts for 1,641 yards and nine touchdowns. He added 126 yards and three scores on 104 carries in 17 games for the Bengals. All told, Burford played in 37 games during his collegiate career, gaining 5,923 yards with 45 touchdowns through the air and an additional 706 yards with 17 scores on the ground.

COLLEGE: Earned Division I-AA All-Independent accolades...received honorable mention All-America honors from Football Gazette...passed for career-high 390 yards against Sacramento State during senior season...was fifth-highest single game total in school history...also threw four touchdown passes vs. Sac. St., one shy of his school record of five, set vs. Montana State in 2000...95-yard touchdown pass in Sac. St. game was longest in school history...set school single-season records with 2,672 yards passing and 23 touchdowns as junior...redshirted in 1999 after transferring from Idaho State where he spent freshman and sophomore seasons...majored in business finance.

PERSONAL: Born March 11, 1979 in Oakdale, Calif....earned league MVP honors at Oakdale High School in Oakdale...engaged to Cal Poly graduate, Jill Santucci.

2001 GAME SUMMARIES

San Diego Chargers 30, Washington Redskins 3 Sunday, September 9, 2001 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers got off to a fast start and a 1-0 record with a 30-3 opening day victory over the Washington Redskins before a crowd of 60,629 at Qualcomm Stadium. The Chargers were led offensively by running back LaDainian Tomlinson who carried a workman-like 36 times for 113 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Tomlinson became just the 20th player in league history since the NFL-AFL merger in 1970 to rush for more than 100 yards in his first-career game. Doug Flutie, making his first-career start for the Chargers, completed 10 of 18 passes for 129 yards, while improving his record as a starter to 31-14 overall and 19-3 in home games. Tim Dwight, also playing in his first-career game for the Chargers, had an 84-yard punt return for a touchdown. For Dwight, it was his third-career punt return for a touchdown. The 84-yard effort tied for the sixth-longest punt return in team history and it was the Chargers' first punt return for a touchdown since Eric Metcalf had an 83-yarder in 1997. The Chargers' defense, led by linebackers Junior Seau and Orlando Ruff, held the Redskins to 161 yards of total offense. Ruff racked up a team-high eight tackles and collected his first-career sack. Cornerbacks Alex Molder and Ryan McNeil each collected an interception in their first game with the Chargers.

San Diego Chargers 32, Dallas Cowboys 21

Sunday, September 23, 2001 - Texas Stadium (Irving, TX)

The Chargers improved to 2-0 for the first time since 1998 on the heels of an emotional 32-21 win over the Dallas Cowboys before 63,340 fans at Texas Stadium. The Bolts were led to victory offensively by quarterback Doug Flutie, who passed for over 300 yards for the fifth time in his career (regular season) and defensively by cornerback Ryan McNeil, who tied his career-high with two interceptions. Kicker Wade Richey converted four of five field-goal attempts and the Chargers earned their first road win since Jan. 2, 2000 at Denver. The Chargers racked up 475 yards of total offense, their highest total since Oct. 19, 1986 at Kansas City (512 yards), while holding the Cowboys to 289 yards. Offensively, the Chargers got big contributions from tight end Freddie Jones and wide receivers Jeff Graham and Curtis Conway. Jones, who scored the Chargers' first touchdown of the game on an 11-yard pass from Flutie, moved into ninth place on the team's all-time receptions list and finished the afternoon with five catches for 51 yards. Graham led the team with six catches for 94 yards, while Conway's seven-yard touchdown catch late in the first quarter put the Chargers ahead 14-0. Rookie LaDainian Tomlinson, playing in just his second-career game before a capacity crowd in his hometown, carried 27 times for 90 yards. Wide receiver Tim Dwight also had a nice afternoon, scoring his first rushing touchdown of the season and the second of his career on a 16-yard reverse. It was the longest run of his career. Earlier in the game, Dwight also set a career-long with a 78-yard catch and run that helped set up a Richey field goal. Defensively, cornerback Tay Cody had an interception while starting his first professional game in place of an injured Alex Molden. Strong safety Rodney Harrison anchored another solid defensive effort, pacing the team with eight tackles, while defensive tackle John Parrella collected his first sack of the season.

San Diego Chargers 28, Cincinnati Bengals 14

Sunday, September 30, 2001 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers improved to 3-0 with a hard-fought 28-14 win over the Cincinnati Bengals before an enthusiastic crowd of 56,048 at Qualcomm Stadium. Rookie running back LaDainian Tomlinson paved the way to victory for the Bolts, rushing for 107 yards and a career-high three touchdowns. Doug Flutie completed 12 of 19 for 133 yards and one touchdown. The Chargers took a 7-0 lead in the second quarter when Flutie threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Curtis Conway. Junior Seau collected his first interception of the season to set up the touchdown drive. Cincinnati responded late in the half with an eight-yard touchdown pass from Jon Kitna to Chad Johnson and the teams went to the locker room tied 7-7 at halftime. In the third quarter, Tomlinson scored two touchdowns (four and two yards) and the Bolts took a 21-7 lead. Early in the fourth quarter, Tomlinson scored his third touchdown of the game on a three-yard run and the Chargers took a commanding 28-7 lead. The Bengals added a late touchdown on a seven-yard pass from Kitna to Peter Warrick, but that was all they could muster and the Chargers held on for the 28-14 win. Defensively, the Chargers were led by cornerback Ryan McNeil and safety Rodney Harrison. McNeil tied his career-high with two interceptions and Harrison racked up a team-high nine tackles. Defensive end Marcellus Wiley made his first start of the season after missing the first two games with a foot injury and collected his first sack. Fellow defensive end Raylee Johnson also picked up his first sack.

Cleveland Browns 20, San Diego Chargers 16
Sunday, October 7, 2001 - Cleveland Browns Stadium (Cleveland, OH)

The Chargers suffered their first loss of the season, a 20-16 setback to the Cleveland Browns, despite another 100-yard effort from running back LaDainian Tomlinson. A crowd of 73,018 in Cleveland was treated to an exciting game as the Browns overcame a 16-10 fourth quarter deficit to pull out the win. Trailing 10-3 at halftime, the Chargers opened the second half with a three-play, 86-yard drive, capped off by a two-yard touchdown run from Tomlinson that tied the game at 10-10. On the drive, Tomlinson had a career-long 54-yard run, the Chargers longest running play since Jermaine Fazande had a 54-yarder at Denver Jan. 2, 2000. In the fourth quarter, Wade Richey kicked two field goals and the Chargers took a 16-10 lead. However, Cleveland answered late in the game with a 27-yard field goal from Phil Dawson and a 19-yard touchdown pass from Tim Couch to Kevin Johnson to defeat the Chargers. Tomlinson's final totals included 19 carries for 102 yards and the touchdown. Jeff Graham was the Chargers leading receiver with five catches for 49 yards. Defensively, strong safety Rodney Harrison led the team with 10 tackles. As a team, the Chargers collected a season-high four sacks, including one each from Marcellus Wiley, Raylee Johnson, Gerald Dixon and Al Fontenot.

New England Patriots 29, San Diego Chargers 26 OT Sunday, October 14, 2001 - Foxboro Stadium (Foxboro, MA)

The Chargers saw their record slip to 3-2 following a disappointing 29-26 overtime loss to the New England Patriots before a crowd of 59,093 at Foxboro Stadium. For the second week in a row, the Chargers saw a fourth quarter lead evaporate. Leading 26-16 late in the fourth quarter, the Chargers allowed New England a 23-yard field goal from Adam Vinatieri and a three-yard touchdown pass from Tom Brady to Jermaine Wiggins to tie the game at 26-26 and send it to overtime. The Chargers attempted a late field goal in regulation, but Wade Richey's 59-yard attempt fell short. The Chargers won the coin toss and received the football to open the overtime period. The Bolts' offense went three-and-out on their possession, and after a punt, New England drove 51 yards in six plays and Vinatieri kicked a game-winning 44-yard field goal. LaDainian Tomlinson was the Chargers leading rusher with 74 yards and a touchdown on 24 carries. Curtis Conway had the Chargers' first 100-yard receiving game of the season, catching four passes for 117 yards. Steve Heiden caught his first touchdown pass of the season, a three-yarder from Doug Flutie in the fourth quarter. The Chargers also scored a touchdown when fullback Derrick Harris forced an aborted punt by Patriots punter Lee Johnson, which resulted in a fumble by Johnson and a six-yard touchdown return for Harris. Flutie finished the afternoon completing 20 of 32 for 270 yards and a fumble in defeat. Defensively, the Chargers were paced again by strong safety Rodney Harrison, who racked up a game-high 13 tackles. Raylee Johnson had a season-high two sacks and Marcellus Wiley had one.

San Diego Chargers 27, Denver Broncos 10

Sunday, October 21, 2001 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers improved to 4-2 overall and 1-0 in the AFC West with a 27-10 victory over the Denver Broncos before a crowd of 67,521 at Qualcomm Stadium. The Chargers took advantage of three Broncos turnovers, converting them into 14 points, en route to posting their first home victory over Denver since Dec. 22, 1996. San Diego got big contributions on special teams and offense from Ronney Jenkins, Wade Richey and Jeff Graham to pave the way to victory. Jenkins, the Chargers kickoff return specialist, set the tone early, returning the game's opening kickoff 88 yards for a touchdown and a 7-0 Chargers lead. In the second quarter, Richey kicked two field goals, including a season-long 51-yarder, and the Bolts took a 13-7 lead to the locker room at halftime. In the third quarter, Denver closed the gap to 13-10, but the Chargers capitalized on a fumble by Denver's Mike Anderson, converting it into a 17-yard touchdown pass from Doug Flutie to Graham, which increased the Chargers' lead to 20-10. Rookie linebacker Zeke Moreno, who was subbing for an injured Junior Seau, forced the fumble that led to the Chargers' touchdown. In the fourth quarter, defensive lineman Al Fontenot hauled in his first-career interception off a tipped pass by Marcellus Wiley, and five plays later, Graham caught his second touchdown pass of the game, this one from 20 yards, to put the game out of reach. Graham finished the afternoon with a team-high seven catches for 107 yards and the two touchdowns. It was his first 100-yard effort of the season and the touchdowns were his first of the year. Flutie was efficient, completing 21 of 32 pass attempts for 280 yards with two touchdowns and an interception. Defensively, Ryan McNeil snatched his NFL and team-leading sixth interception of the season and paced the squad with 11 tackles. The Bolts tied a season-high with four sacks, including one each from Moreno, Wiley, Rodney Harrison and Maa Tanuvasa.

San Diego Chargers 27, Buffalo Bills 24

Sunday, October 28, 2001 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers improved to 5-2 with an emotional 27-24 win over the Buffalo Bills before a crowd of 63,698 at Qualcomm Stadium. Doug Flutie scored the game-winning touchdown on a 13-yard run with 1:10 left in the game to seal the victory for the Bolts. The Chargers had big plays on offense, defense and special teams to contribute to the win. San Diego got out to a quick 10-0 lead in the first quarter behind a 37-yard Wade Richey field goal and a one-yard touchdown pass from Doug Flutie to Freddie Jones. In that first quarter, the Chargers controlled the ball for 12:36. In the second quarter, San Diego increased its lead to 13-0 when Richey added a 25-yard field goal. That score was the result of a turnover when Marcellus Wiley sacked quarterback Rob Johnson, forcing a fumble. The Chargers recovered the fumble and scored the ensuing field goal. Buffalo managed to chip away at the Chargers lead with a touchdown and field goal and the Bills went to the locker room at halftime leading just 13-10. In the fourth quarter of a see-saw battle, the Chargers extended the lead to 20-10 in explosive fashion when safety Jason Perry returned an interception 31 yards for a touchdown. It was Perry's first-career interception. The big lead didn't last long, though. On the first play of the Bills' ensuing possession, Johnson connected with wide receiver Peerless Price for a 61-yard touchdown and Buffalo was right back in the game, 20-17. Then, on the Bills' next possession after San Diego missed a field goal, Johnson led a 12-play, 68-yard drive and the Bills scored on a three-yard touchdown run by Travis Henry to take a 24-20 lead with 1:30 remaining in the game. Ronney Jenkins responded, taking the kickoff 72 yards to the Buffalo 28-yard line. An unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against the Bills moved the ball to the 13-yard line. One play later, Flutie escaped a sack and found a seam, rushing 13 yards for the game-winning touchdown. The Bills had one last chance to tie the game with 15 seconds left, but Ed Ellis blocked Jaime Arians' 44-yard field-goal attempt and the Chargers held on for the win. Flutie finished the game completing 21 of 33 pass attempts for 254 yards with one touchdown pass and the game-winner on the ground. Wide receiver Curtis Conway tied his career-high with nine catches while collecting his second 100-yard game of the season with 120 yards. Defensively, the Chargers were led by Rodney Harrison's eight tackles. The team got two sacks by Marcellus Wiley and one each from Raylee Johnson and Junior Seau.

Kansas City Chiefs 25, San Diego Chargers 20

Sunday, November 4, 2001 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers closed out the first half of the 2001 season with a tough 25-20 loss to the Kansas City Chiefs before a crowd of 58,789 at Qualcomm Stadium. The game marked the regular season debut of rookie quarterback Draw Brees, who entered the game in the second quarter after Doug Flutie was forced from the contest with a concussion. Brees brought the Chargers back from 19-0 third quarter deficit, but a late touchdown by Kansas City's Tony Richardson, his second of the game, proved to be the difference. Trailing 19-0 midway through the third quarter, the Chargers got on the scoreboard with a 48-yard field goal by Wade Richey to cut Kansas City's lead to 19-3. The drive was set up by an interception by rookie cornerback Tay Cody. His second of the season, off a pass that was tipped at the line of scrimmage by defensive end Marcellus Wiley. On the Chargers' next possession, Brees engineered a six-play, 89-yard drive that was capped off by an eight-yard touchdown run by LaDainian Tomlinson that brought San Diego to within nine points. On the drive, Brees completed all four of his pass attempts for 75 yards. On the Bolts' first drive of the fourth quarter, Richey hit a 35-yard field goal to make the score 19-13. After a Kansas City punt, Brees led another scoring drive, this one covering nine plays and 89 yards before a 20-yard touchdown pass to tight end Freddie Jones gave the Chargers a 20-19 lead. It was Brees' first-career touchdown pass. During the drive, he completed five of eight passes for 93 yards and the touchdown. After Richardson's touchdown gave Kansas City a 25-20 lead, Brees had one last opportunity, but the drive fell short as time elapsed. Brees finished the afternoon completing 15 of 27 pass attempts for 221 yards and the touchdown. Defensively, the Chargers were led by safety Rogers Beckett, who set a career-high with 13 tackles.

Denver Broncos 26, San Diego Chargers 16 Sunday, November 11, 2001 - Invesco Field at Mile High (Denver, CO)

The Chargers saw their record dip to 5-4 on the heels of a 26-16 loss to the Denver Broncos before a crowd of 74,951 in Invesco Field. The Chargers put up a valiant fight after falling behind early, but were not able to overcome a 20-0 halftime deficit. Quarterback Doug Flutie, who returned to the starting lineup after suffering a concussion the previous week, struggled through one of the worst outings of his NFL career, throwing a career-high four interceptions. Trailing 23-3 at the end of the third quarter, San Diego got big plays from wide receiver Curtis Conway and defensive end Raylee Johnson to get the team back in the game. On the first play of the fourth quarter, Conway caught a 72-yard touchdown pass from Flutie. For Conway, it was the fourth-longest reception of his career and his longest catch since a 76-yard touchdown catch against Houston on Oct. 22, 1995 with Chicago. His touchdown cut the Broncos lead to 26-10. On Denver's next series, quarterback Brian Griese fumbled after being sacked by linebacker Gerald Dixon. Johnson scooped up the fumble and raced 45 yards for his first-career touchdown, which cut the Denver lead to 26-16 following a failed two-point conversion attempt. The Chargers had several more opportunities late in the game, but Flutie was intercepted on three of the team's final four drives and Denver held on for the victory. Conway finished the game with three catches for 111 yards, his third 100-yard game of the season. Defensively, safety Rogers Beckett paced the team with 11 tackles.

Oakland Raiders 34, San Diego Chargers 24
Sunday, November 18, 2001 - Network Associates Coliseum (Oakland, CA)

The Chargers saw their record level off at 5-5 following a 34-24 defeat to the Oakland Raiders before a crowd of 61,960 at the Network Associates Coliseum. It was a close and exciting game throughout, which featured three ties and some outstanding individual performances by players on both teams. For the Chargers, kickoff return specialist Ronney Jenkins set a team record with 250 kickoff return yards, including a 93-yarder for a touchdown. Wide receiver Curtis Conway scored a 67-yard touchdown on a reverse on the Bolts first play from scrimmage. For the Raiders, future Hall of Fame wide receiver Jerry Rice caught eight passes for 131 yards and three touchdowns. The fireworks started early as Oakland jumped out to a 14-7 first quarter lead. Tim Brown and Rice each had touchdown catches for the Raiders and the Chargers got their points from Conway's touchdown. The Chargers came out fast in the third quarter as Jenkins returned the opening kickoff 67 yards to set up a 26-yard Wade Richey field goal that cut the Raiders lead to 14-10. After a Sebastian Janikowski 24-yard field goal pushed the lead back to seven points, Jenkins returned the ensuing kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown to tie the game at 17-17. It was Jenkins' third-career kickoff return for a touchdown and tied his longest return. The Raiders responded, however, on their next possession as Rice caught the second of his three touchdowns and Oakland reclaimed the lead, 24-17. The Chargers answered right back though when LaDainian Tomlinson capped off a nine-play, 63-yard touchdown drive with a one-yard run to tie the game at 24-24. After the teams traded possessions, Rice scored his third touchdown of the game with just under three minutes to play and Oakland retook the lead at 31-24. The Chargers had a chance for a drive late in the game, but a fumble by quarterback Doug Flutie was recovered by the Raiders and Janikowski put the game out of reach with a 25-yard field goal. Defensively for the Bolts, cornerback Ryan McNeil collected his team-leading seventh interception of the season and defensive end Raylee Johnson tied his career high with three sacks.

Arizona Cardinals 20, San Diego Chargers 17

Sunday, November 25, 2001 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers suffered their fourth consecutive defeat, dropping a 20-17 decision to the Arizona Cardinals in front of a crowd of 49,398 at Qualcomm Stadium. The Chargers fought to the very end in a see-saw contest, scoring two fourth quarter touchdowns, but Bill Gramatica's 42-yard field goal with one second left in the game sealed the Cardinals victory. Chargers quarterback Doug Flutie completed 33 of 44 passes for 308 yards and two touchdowns without throwing an interception. Rookie running back LaDainian Tomlinson had an outstanding afternoon, catching a career-high 13 passes while totaling 147 combined yards from scrimmage. The Chargers trailed the Cardinals 10-3 in the third quarter when safety Jason Perry intercepted a Jake Plummer pass at the Chargers' one-yard line. On the ensuing drive, Flutie led the Chargers down the field 99 yards in 14 plays and his six-yard touchdown pass to Curtis Conway tied the game at 10-10. During the drive, Flutie completed all 11 of his passes for 111 yards. After an Arizona touchdown gave the Cardinals a 17-10 lead late in the fourth quarter, Flutie again responded by leading an eight-play, 72-yard drive that ended with a 28-yard touchdown pass to Jeff Graham to tie the game at 17-17 with just under two minutes remaining. Arizona got the ball one last time in regulation and Plummer led the Cards down the field and into position before Gramatica kicked the game winner. Defensively for San Diego, linebacker Gerald Dixon had his first interception of the season. Junior Seau led the team with a season-high 11 tackles.

Seattle Seahawks 13, San Diego Chargers 10 OT
Sunday, December 2, 2001 - Husky Stadium (Seattle, WA)

The Chargers dropped their fifth-straight decision and fell to 5-7 on the season after a 13-10 overtime loss to the Seattle Seahawks before a crowd of 55,466 at Husky Stadium. Trailing 7-3 at the half, the Chargers took a 10-7 lead in the third quarter when LaDainian Tomlinson scored his 10th touchdown of the season from one yard out. Seattle's Ryan Lindell answered with a 43-yard field goal on the Seahawks' next possession to tie the game at 10-10. Seattle had two chances to win the game in the fourth quarter, but Lindell missed field goals from 43 and 48 yards, and the game went into overtime. Seattle won the coin toss to begin the extra period and the Seahawks drove 62 yards in 11 plays to the Chargers six-yard line from where Lindell kicked a game-winning 24-yard field goal.

Philadelphia Eagles 24, San Diego Chargers 14

Sunday, December 9, 2001 - Veterans Stadium (Philadelphia, PA)

The Chargers suffered their sixth-consecutive defeat, falling 24-14 to the Philadelphia Eagles before a capacity crowd of 65,438 at Veterans Stadium. The Eagles capitalized by scoring 10 points on four Chargers turnovers, including a 49-yard fumble return for a touchdown by Brian Dawkins, in earning the victory. The Eagles jumped out quickly to a 7-0 lead on their first possession of the game when Donovan McNabb threw a one-yard touchdown pass to Chad Lewis. The Chargers answered on their ensuing possession with a 61-yard touchdown pass from Doug Flutie to Jeff Graham to tie the game at 7-7. Dawkins' touchdown return of a LaDainian Tomlinson fumble gave the Eagles the lead back at 14-7 after one quarter. In the second quarter, Philadelphia increased their lead to 21-7 when Duce Staley caught an eight-yard touchdown pass from McNabb. Just before halftime, the Chargers trimmed the deficit to seven points when Flutie and Graham hooked up again, this time from 10 yards and San Diego trailed at the half 21-14. Both defenses took control of the game in the second half and a Flutie fumble deep in San Diego territory in the middle of the fourth quarter proved costly as the Eagles converted it into a 37-yard field goal by David Akers for the final margin of victory. Flutie finished the game with 307 yards passing for his third 300-yard game of the season. Tomlinson rushed for 51 yards against the Eagles and in the process became just the second rookie rusher in team history to rush for more than 1,000 yards. Rodney Harrison recorded his first interception of the season to go along with a sack and a forced fumble. Harrison also led the Chargers with six tackles and a season-high five passes defensed.

Oakland Raiders 13, San Diego Chargers 6
Saturday, December 15, 2001 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers dropped their seventh-straight game, losing a heartbreaker, 13-6, to the Oakland Raiders before a sellout crowd of 67,349, the third-largest crowd ever to witness a Chargers game at Qualcomm Stadium. Oakland took advantage of three interceptions by Doug Flutie and converted them into 10 points while earning the victory. The teams were evenly matched in the first half and went to the locker room tied 3-3. In the third quarter, Oakland took advantage of an interception and Rich Gannon found Jerry Rice on a 40-yard touchdown pass and the Raiders took a 10-3 lead. In the fourth quarter, the Chargers closed the deficit to 10-6 on a 31-yard field goal by Steve Christie. On Oakland's next possession, strong safety Rodney Harrison intercepted a pass from Gannon and the Chargers drove to the Raiders two-yard line on the ensuing possession before Flutie threw his third interception of the game, this one to William Thomas. Oakland converted the turnover into a field goal and took a 13-6 lead with just over one minute to go. San Diego got one last possession, but was unable to convert on four downs deep in Oakland territory as the Raiders held on for the victory. Junior Seau paced the Chargers' defense with eight tackles and Marcellus Wiley tied his career-high with two sacks. Rodney Harrison's interception was his second of the season and second in as many weeks.

Kansas City Chiefs 20, San Diego Chargers 17

Sunday, December 23, 2001 - Arrowhead Stadium (Kansas City, MO)

The Chargers suffered their eighth-consecutive defeat, falling 20-17 to the Chiefs in a hard-fought battle before an announced crowd of 76,131 at Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium. The Chargers received a big effort from LaDainian Tomlinson, who rushed for 145 yards and in the process set a new team rookie rushing record with 1,198 yards. San Diego fell behind 7-0 in the first quarter, but they answered the Chiefs score with one of their own when Doug Flutie and Freddie Jones hooked up on a three-yard touchdown pass and the score was tied at 7-7. Early in the third quarter, Kansas City took a 10-7 lead on a 33-yard field goal by Todd Peterson. Later in the quarter though, Flutie capped off a 10-play, 71-yard drive with a four-yard touchdown pass to Curtis Conway and the Chargers took their first lead of the game, 14-10. In the fourth quarter, Kansas City trimmed the lead to one point with another Peterson field goal, this one from 41 yards. Steve Christie hit a 27-yard field goal later in the quarter for the Chargers but an interception by Ryan McNeil, which pushed the lead back to four points at 17-13. On Kansas City's ensuing drive, the Chiefs moved the ball deep into Chargers' territory when defensive tackle Leonardo Carson intercepted a pass, which would have all but sealed the game for San Diego and ended the team's seven-game losing streak. However, on the play, the Chargers were flagged for a roughing the passer penalty which negated the interception and allowed the drive to continue. Three plays later, fullback Tony Richardson scored a one-yard touchdown for the Chiefs and they held on for the 20-17 victory.

Seattle Seahawks 25, San Diego Chargers 22
Sunday, December 30, 2001 - Qualcomm Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers season came to an end with yet another disappointing loss as Seattle's Rian Lindell kicked a 54-yard field goal as time expired to give the Chargers their ninth-straight defeat. A crowd of 51,412 was on hand to witness Doug Flutie pass for a career-high 377 yards, Curtis Conway set career-bests with 11 catches and 156 yards, and LaDainian Tomlinson set a single season team record for total yards from scrimmage with 1,603 yards. San Diego got off to a fast start and led 13-0 after a four-yard touchdown catch by Conway and a pair of Steve Christie field goals. Seattle responded in the second quarter as Darrell Jackson caught touchdown passes of 43 and 48 yards and Seattle reclaimed the lead 14-13 at the halt. In the third quarter, Christie kicked his third field goal of the game and the Chargers took back the lead at 16-14. On Seattle's next drive, James Williams caught a 37-yard touchdown pass from Trent Dilfer and with a successful two-point conversion, the Seahawks went back on top by a 22-16 score. The Chargers put together two impressive drives in the fourth quarter, both of which resulted in field goals by Christie and they tied the game at 22-22 with just 16 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter. The game appeared to be headed for overtime, but Seattle's Charlie Rogers returned the kickoff 64 yards to the Chargers' 36-yard line. The Seahawks immediately sent their field goal unit onto the field and Lindell kicked the game winner. Delensively for the Chargers, Rodney Harrison and Junior Seau each had a team-leading seven tackles. The Bolts got sacks from Marcellus Wiley, John Parrella, Raylee Johnson and Harrison.

History of the Chargers Uniform

- 1960 The helmet was white with a gold bolt outlined in black. The player number was listed in black on each side of the helmet. The face mask was gray. The home jersey was Collegiate blue with white numbers outlined in gold. The jersey had numbers on the sleeves with the same color scheme. There was a white strip on each shoulder encasing a gold bolt outlined in white. The away jersey was white with Collegiate blue numbers outlined in gold and had numbers on the sleeves with the same color scheme. The shoulder cuffs had a Collegiate blue strip encasing a gold bolt outlined in white. The pants were white with a gold lightning bolt outlined in blue running down each leg.
- 1961-65 No change
- 1966 The pants changed to gold with a white-blue-stripe down each leg instead of a bolt.
- 1967-73 No change
- 1974 The helmet changed color to Royal blue with a white bolt outlined in Royal and white. The face mask was gold. The home jersey became Royal blue with gold numbers outlined in blue and white. The sleeves had similar numbers. A gold bolt outlined in Royal blue on a white strip adorned the shoulder. The away jersey was white with Royal blue numbers outlined in gold. The jersey had similar numbers on the sleeves. The shoulders had a Royal blue strip encasing a gold bolt outlined in blue and white. The pants remained the same.
- 1975-78 No change
- 1979 The bolt is placed back on the pants. The white bolt is outlined in blue.
- 1980-83 No change
- 1984 The white bolt on the pants is placed inside a blue strip.
- 1985 The home jersey changed to Navy blue with gold numbers outlined in Navy and white with similar numbers on the sleeves. The shoulders were gold bolts outlined in Navy inside a white strip. The away jersey was white with Navy blue numbers outlined in white and gold with similar numbers on the sleeve. The shoulders were gold bolts with a Navy and gold outline inside a Navy strip. The pants were white with a gold bolt outlined in Navy and white inside a Navy strip.
- 1986-87 No change
- 1988 The bolt in the helmet and on the shoulder changes from gold to white outlined in Navy and gold. The white strip on the Navy jersey shoulder is removed, leaving only a white bolt outlined in Navy and gold. The bolt on the pants is removed and replaced by a Navy strip outlined in white and gold.
- 1989 No change
- 1990 The away pants changed to Navy with a white strip outlined in Navy and gold stripes on both sides of the white stripe.
- 1991 No change
- 1992-02 The white bolt, outlined in Navy and gold, is placed back on the pants.

POSTSEASON HISTORY

1995 AFC Wild Card Playoff Game

Indianapolis Colts 35, San Diego Chargers 20

Sunday, December 31, 1995 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Colts came into San Diego for a New Year's Eve showdown and knocked the defending AFC Champions out of the playoffs in the Wild Card round with a 35-20 win over San Diego at Jack Murphy Stadium. The Chargers outgained Indianapolis in total yardage, 429 to 333, but the Colts chalked up 178 yards rushing, including 147 yards and two touchdowns by rookie running back Zack Crockett, on their way to the win. The game was a seesaw battle that included six lead changes, however Indianapolis scored two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to seal the win. Chargers quarterback Stan Humphries finished the day with 292 yards passing and two touchdowns, but four interceptions proved costly in the defeat.

Super Bowl XXIX

San Francisco 49ers 49, San Diego Chargers 26

Sunday, January 29, 1995 - Joe Robbie Stadium (Miami, FL)

The Chargers were no match for the high-powered San Francisco offense as the 49ers scored early and often en route to handing San Diego a 19-26 defeat. San Francisco quarterback Steve Young passed for four first-half touchdowns, including two to Ricky Watters and one each to Jerry Rice and William Floyd as the 49ers jumped out to a 28-10 lead at halftime. The barrage continued in the second half as Young connected with Rice for two more scores and Watters added a nine-yard touchdown run. Young finished with 325 yards and six touchdown passes while completing 24 of 36 attempts, and Rice caught 10 passes for 149 yards and three touchdowns. Young also added 49 yards on five rushes and was named the game's MVP. The Chargers' offense was forced to play catch-up most of the game, and as a result, quarterback Stan Humphries passed 49 times, completing 24 for 275 yards, one touchdown and two interceptions. Running back Natrone Means became the youngest player in Super Bowl history to score a touchdown when the 22-year-old dived over the 49ers' defense for a one-yard scoring plunge in the first quarter. Chargers rookie Andre Coleman led a Super Bowl record for the longest kickoff return when he went 98 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. Following the kickoff return, Humphries passed to Mark Seay for the first two-point conversion in Super Bowl history. Following a 30-yard Humphries to Tony Martin touchdown pass late in the fourth quarter, Humphries completed his second two-point conversion of the game, this time to Alfred Purnu. Linebackers Dennis Gibson and Junior Seau led the Chargers with 11 tackles a piece, and Seau added one sack. Defensive end Raylee Johnson paced the Chargers with two sacks.

1994 AFC Championship Game San Diego Chargers 17, Pittsburgh Steelers 13 Sunday, January 15, 1995 - Three Rivers Stadium (Pittsburgh, PA)

The Chargers advanced to the Super Bowl for the first time in franchise history with a stunning 17-13 upset victory over the heavily-favored Pittsburgh Steelers in Three Rivers Stadium. San Diego started the game slowly and Pittsburgh led the Bolts 10-3 at the end of the first half, while outgaining San Diego in total yardage, 229 to 46. The Steelers opened the scoring in the second half with a 23-yard Gary Anderson field goal to extend the lead to 13-3. Later in the quarter, Stan Humphries connected with Al Pupunu on a 43-yard touchdown strike to close the gap to 13-10. The score remained as such until late in the fourth quarter when Humphries threw another 43-yard touchdown pass, this one to Tony Martin, and the Bolts claimed their first lead of the game at 17-13. Pittsburgh took the ensuing kickoff and drove to the Chargers' nine-yard line with two minutes left in the game, but San Diego's defense stopped the Steelers on downs, including a dramatic pass defended on fourth down by linebacker Dennis Gibson.

1994 AFC Divisonal Playoff Game

San Diego Chargers 22, Miami Dolphins 21

Sunday, January 8, 1995 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers advanced to the AFC Championship Game with a 22-21 victory over the Miami Dolphins in front of a San Diego-record home crowd of 63,381 fans. The win moved the Chargers to the AFC title round for only the third time in team history and the first time since 1982. Dan Marino threw three first-half touchdown passes and the Dolphins led 21-6 at the half. San Diego's offense came alive and dominated the third quarter. The Chargers took the opening drive of the second half and marched 15 plays to the Dolphins' one-yard line before losing the ball on downs. But on Miami's first play from scrimmage, Reuben Davis stopped Bernie Parmalee in the end zone for a safety to make the score 21-8. San Diego took the ensuing kick and Natrone Means finished a 54-yard drive with a 24-yard scoring run, breaking several tackles along the way and the Dolphin lead was trimmed to 21-15. The teams traded possessions through the fourth quarter before Stan Humphries drove the team 61 yards in 10 plays and hit Mark Seay for the game-winning, eight-yard scoring pass. Trailing 22-21 with 35 seconds left in game, Marino moved the Dolphins to San Diego's 30-yard line and positioned Pete Stoyanovich for a 48-yard field goal attempt which sailed wide right. San Diego dominated the game's time of possession, controlling the ball 39:20 compared to Miami's 20:40. The main factor was San Diego's running game, which rolled up 202 of the team's 466 total yards. Means rushed for a personal best 139 yards on 24 carries and scored one touchdown. Humphries completed 20 of 26 attempts in the second half.

1992 AFC Divisonal Playoff Game Miami Dolphins 31, San Diego Chargers 0 Sunday, January 10, 1993 - Joe Robbie Stadium (Miami, FL)

The Chargers history-making season ended with a 31-0 loss to the Miami Dolphins in Joe Robbie Stadium. Intermittent downpours and a soggy field slowed both teams early as each squad was forced to punt on their first four series. The second quarter proved disastrous for San Diego. Stan Humphries was intercepted three times with each leading to a Dolphins touchdown and a 21-0 halftime lead for Miami. San Diego also suffered a fumbled snap on a punt attempt in the period. The Chargers could not get on track in the second half either, as Miami chalked up 10 more points and forced two more San Diego turnovers. The Chargers' defense was on the field most of the game (37:08). Junior Seau recorded a personal-best 19 tackles in the game. The Dolphins special teams put the Chargers in poor field position on several occasions, including punts, which pinned San Diego's offense back on its own five-, six-, four- and 15-yard lines.

1992 AFC Wild Card Playoff Game

San Diego Chargers 17, Kansas City Chiefs 0

Saturday, January 2, 1993 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

San Diego defeated the Kansas City Chiefs, 17-0, in the AFC Wild Card playoffs in San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium. It marked the first shutout in the history of Wild Card games. It was also the first shutout by the Chargers over Kansas City and the first time the Chiefs were shut out in a non-strike game since 1985. The two defensive powerhouses battled to a scoreless half. The Chargers gained 130 total yards to the Chiefs' 122 yards in the half, but were sacked four times for 47 yards in losses. San Diego hit the scoreboard first when Marion Butts dashed up the middle a career-long 54 yards for a touchdown. On the Chiefs first play of their next possession, a tipped pass by Blaise Winter was intercepted by Leslie O'Neal to set up a 34-yard John Carney field goal. Up 10-0 in the fourth quarter, the Chargers put together an 11-play, 91-yard drive and culminated the series with a five-yard scoring plunge by Steve Hendrickson. The Chargers gained 192 yards on the ground, the second-most productive effort of the 1992 season. The defense harassed the Chiefs passing game into two interceptions and sacked Dave Krieg seven times to tie a season high. Burt Grossman had 2.5 sacks and O'Neal and Shawn Lee each had two.

1982 AFC Super Bowl Tournament
Miami Dolphins 34, San Diego Chargers 13
Sunday, January 16, 1983 - Orange Bowl (Miami, FL)

San Diego and Miami met for the second-straight year in the playoffs with the Dolphins turning the outcome around, winning 34-13. The game matched San Diego, with the league's top offensive averaging 450.4 yards a game, versus Miami and the NFL's top defense, allowing 256.9 yards a game. Miami took a 24-0 lead in the second quarter as San Diego did the year before in the first quarter. San Diego tightened the score on a 28-yard touchdown pass from Dan Fouts to Charlie Joiner and a one-yard touchdown run by Chuck Muncie, but it wasn't enough as the Dolphins marched on to victory.

1982 AFC Super Bowl Tournament

Sunday, January 9, 1983 - Three Rivers Stadium (Pittsburgh, PA)

The Chargers, the fifth-seeded AFC team in the Super Bowl Tournament, played the opening round of the playoffs on the road for the first time, facing the AFC's fourth-seeded team, Pittsburgh. Trailing 14-3 with 4:54 remaining in the first quarter, the Chargers took a 17-14 lead into the locker room at halftime on the strength of an 18-yard James Brooks touchdown run and a 10-yard scoring pass from Dan Fouts to Eric Sievers. With 14:10 remaining in the game, Fouts threw an eight-yard touchdown strike on fourth down to Kellen Winslow to move San Diego within four points at 28-24. With 3:59 left to play, San Diego mounted its winning drive, an eight-play, 64-yard march that climaxed when Fouts hit Winslow on a screen pass that Winslow carried 12 yards to victory. The workhorse of the Chargers' offense was Chuck Muncie, who gained 126 yards on 25 attempts. It was Muncie's third-straight 100 yard performance and second-straight against league's number one rated run defense. Fouts threw for 333 yards against the Steelers, his fifth career 300-yard effort in the playoffs.

1981 AFC Championship Game
Cincinnati Bengals 27, San Diego Chargers 7
Sunday, January 10, 1982 - Riverfront Stadium (Cincinnati, OH)

The Chargers lost to Cincinnati in the AFC Championship game on the coldest day in NFL history. Temperature in Cincinnati dipped to nine-degrees-below-zero with the wind-chill factor measuring 59-below-zero. Cincinnati won the coin toss and elected to kick off, forcing San Diego to go into the wind in the first quarter. The Bengals moved ahead 10-0 before the teams switched directions in the second period and the Chargers scored on their first possession on a 33-yard screen pass from Dan Fouts to Kellen Winslow and Cincinnati led 17-7 at halftime. The Chargers were the statistical leaders in the first half, but three turnovers within the Bengals' 33-yard line proved the difference. San Diego turned the ball over to start the third quarter leading to another Cincinnati score and a three-yard touchdown pass from Ken Anderson to Don Bass culminated an 8:08 drive in the final period to clinch the Bengals victory. Wes Chandler led all receivers with six catches for 79 yards and Chuck Muncie led all rushers with 23 carries and 94 yards.

1981 AFC Divisional Playoff Game

San Diego Chargers 41, Miami Dolphins 38

Saturday, January 2, 1982 - Orange Bowl (Miami, FL)

The Chargers traveled to Miami's Orange Bowl to face AFC East Division champion Miami and won an epic struggle, 41-38, on a 29-yard Rolf Benirschke field goal at the 13:52 mark of the first overtime period. San Diego jumped out to an early 24-0 lead, only to have the Dolphins close the gap under the direction of substitute quarterback Don Strock. The score was 24-17 at halftime and in the second half the Dolphins knotted the score at 24 and again at 31 before assuming their first lead, 38-31, on a 12-yard run by Tony Nathan. The Chargers took a Dolphin turnover and converted it into a 10-play, 82-yard drive, climaxed by a nine-yard pass from Dan Fouts to James Brooks with 58 seconds remaining in regulation. A Dolphin 43-yard field goal try with four seconds remaining was blocked by Kellen Winslow, forcing the game into the overtime period. In overtime, both teams had the opportunity to clinch victory on field-goal attempts. Benirschke missed a 27-yard attempt and Uwe Von Schamann had his attempt blocked by Leroy Jones. The Chargers' game-winning drive was highlighted by receptions of 20 and 29 yards by Wes Chandler and Charlie Joiner, respectively. Dan Fouts' passing performance resulted in records for completions, attempts, and yards in a division playoff and Winslow's 13 receptions broke the division playoff record of 10 receptions, set by Pittsburgh's John Stallworth in 1978. Chandler had a 56-yard punt return for a touchdown for the Chargers, the first punt return for a touchdown in an AFC divisional playoff game. The Chargers broke 15 divisional playoff team records and tied two others.

1980 AFC Championship Game Oakland Raiders 34, San Diego Chargers 27

Sunday, January 11, 1981 - Jack Murphy Stadium (San Diego, CA)

Oakland took a 28-7 lead in the first half and then held off a late San Diego bid to beat the Chargers for the American Football Conference championship. On the third play from scrimmage, Raiders quarterback Jim Plunkett had a pass bounce off the hands of his intended receiver, Kenny King, and into the grasp of Raymond Chester, who took the pass in for a 65-yard score. San Diego's initial drive was halted when John Jefferson slipped on the wet turf and Dan Fouts' pass zipped into the hands of defender Lester Hayes. The Chargers tied the score minutes later on a 48-yard pass from Fouts to Charlie Joiner. Oakland retaliated with a 78-yard scoring drive, aided by a Plunkett pass to Cliff Branch for 48 yards and a pass interference penalty. By the end of the first quarter, Oakland led 21-7, and the two quarterbacks had combined for 314 yards passing. Oakland later scored on a three-yard run by Mark Van Eeghen, making the score 28-7. San Diego scored near the end of the first half on an eight-yard pass from Fouts to Joiner. Rolf Benirschke kicked a 26-yard field goal and Chuck Muncie scored from six yards to narrow Oakland's lead to 28-24 in the third quarter. Oakland then marched 68 and 37 yards to set up two Chris Bahr field goals while running 10:38 off the clock. Trailing 34-24, Fouts took the Chargers 72 yards in 12 plays, getting a field goal from Benirschke that left them one touchdown behind with 6:52 to play, but Oakland controlled the ball for the final 6:52 and held on for the victory.

1980 AFC Divisional Playoff Game

San Diego Chargers 20, Buffalo Bills 14

Saturday, January 3, 1981 - San Diego Stadium (San Diego, CA)

Quarterback Dan Fouts connected with Ron Smith on a 50-yard touchdown pass with 2:08 remaining in the fourth quarter. Fouts completed the pass on a third-down-and-10 situation with the Chargers trailing 14-13. The Chargers advanced to the American Football Conference championship against Oakland. Fouts completed 22 of 37 passes for 314 yards and two touchdowns. This was the 20th time in Fouts' career he passed for more than 300 yards in a game. The Chargers' defense held Buffalo to 97 yards rushing. The 50-yard, game-winning touchdown pass was the longest reception of Smith's career. He had caught four passes for 48 yards during the 1980 regular season. The Chargers trailed at halftime, 14-13. Momentum changed after halftime, the Chargers going 70 yards in four plays for a touchdown on the first series. Chuck Muncie ran for 18 yards, then Charlie Joiner caught a 45-yard pass, the next play resulted in a two-yard loss and then Joiner capped off the drive with a nine-yard scoring reception, making the score 14-10. A 22-yard field goal by Rolf Benirschke narrowed the gap to 14-13 in the fourth period. The Chargers started their final drive at the Buffalo 31-yard line with 3:59 to play. Two passes, two yards to Mike Thomas and 17 yards to John Jefferson got the ball to the 50-yard line.

1979 AFC Divisional Playoff Game
Houston Oilers 17, San Diego Chargers 14
Saturday, December 29, 1979 - San Diego Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The Chargers 1979 season, featuring one of the best teams in franchise history, ended in disappointment as the Bolts fell to the Houston Oilers, 17-14, in a Divisional Playoff game at San Diego Stadium. The Chargers were rolling early and took a 7-0 lead on Clarence Williams' one-yard touchdown on the Bolts first offensive possession of the game. Houston scored 10 unanswered points in the second quarter and led at the half, 10-7. On the opening drive of the third quarter, San Diego reclaimed the lead when Lydell Mitchell capped off a six-play, 65-yard drive with an eight-yard touchdown for a 14-10 lead. Houston came back later in the quarter as Mike Renfro caught a 47-yard touchdown pass from Gifford Nielsen and the Oilers staked out to a 17-14 lead. The Chargers tried to fight back in the fourth quarter, but two Dan Fouts interceptions proved costly and Houston upset the Chargers and eliminated them from the playoffs.

1965 AFL Championship Game

Buffalo Bills 23, San Diego Chargers 0

Sunday, December 26, 1965 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

It was the same two teams that met in the 1964 Championship game with the scene shifting from the East to the West Coast. But there obviously was no hometown advantage for the San Diego Chargers. Coach Lou Saban's Buffalo Bills found the 59-degree weather much to their liking in San Diego's Balboa Stadium, rolling to a 23-0 victory before 30,361 downhearted fans. San Diego's offensive unit was unable to generate any type of serious attack after the first quarter and the Jack Kemp-led Bills broke loose in the second period. Kemp teamed with end Ernie Warlick for the initial score, an 18-yard pass play capping a 60-yard drive. Just 2:20 later, the Bills struck again on a 74-yard punt return by Butch Byrd and at halftime, Buffalo was ahead 14-0. In the second half, the Chargers were able to contain Buffalo's ground game and Kemp's passing, but couldn't stop the talented toe of placekicker Pete Gogolak. His soccer-style kicks connected twice in the third quarter from 11 and 39 yards and once more in the final period from 32 yards.

1964 AFL Championship Game Buffalo Bills 20, San Diego Chargers 7

Sunday, December 26, 1964 - War Memorial Stadium (Buffalo, NY)

Lou Saban sent his Buffalo Bills out for a post-Christmas gift after three lean years and one near miss in the American Football League. The Bills found what they were looking for and wrapped up the defending champion San Diego Chargers, 20-7, for the AFL Championship before 40,242 howling hometown fans. The Chargers started out as if they meant to repeat their 51-10 conquest of the Boston Patriots in the 1963 title game. They boomed from their own 20 in four plays with the payoff a 26-yard strike from retiring quarterback Tobin Rote to tight end Dave Kocourek. Keith Lincoln's PAT at 2:16 of the first period was the last time San Diego got on the scoreboard. Disaster soon struck the visitors when Lincoln was forced out of action with a broken rib on "the tackle heard around the world" by Buffalo linebacker Mike Stratton. Coupled with the absence of Lance Alworth, the injury to Lincoln left the Chargers offense impotent. Buffalo forged to a 13-7 half-time lead on field goals from 12 and 17 yards by rookie ace Pete Gogolak and a four-yard touchdown run by halfback Wray Carlton. The Bills tallied again in the final quarter on a sneak by quarterback Jack Kemp.

1963 AFL Championship Game

San Diego Chargers 51, Boston Patriots 10

Sunday, January 5, 1964 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

Before 30,127 in Balboa Stadium and 30 million more on national television, Keith Lincoln ran, caught and passed like no other athlete ever has in a professional title match as the Californians crumbled the Boston Patriots, 51-10. The Chargers' offense produced 610 yards. Lincoln accounted for 349 of them in virtuoso performance that included a touchdown sprint of 67 yards, a touchdown reception of 25 yards, 206 yards gained rushing, 123 gained pass receiving and 20 gained passing. Lincoln's heroics were mightily abated by the others on a San Diego team that played with brilliance any professional team must respect, including the Bears. It was a powerhouse show by a team that had failed in two previous tries to win the AFL title. Houston outscored the Chargers, 24-16, in 1960 and beat 'em 10-3 in 1961. But the Patriots, with the league's proudest defensive outfit, were no match for the San Diego Chargers. Splendidly prepared by Sid Gilman to combat Boston's almost constantly rushing line-backers, the Chargers scored on their fourth scrimmage play, on their sixth and on their 10th. The Patriots' ground attack suffered after fullback Larry Garrison incurred a head injury midway through the second period. Garrison later returned to the game but remained in it only briefly. The Patriots scored on a seven-yard run by Garrison and a 15-yard field goal by Gino Cappelletti.

1961 AFL Championship Game Houston Oilers 10, San Diego Chargers 3 Sunday, December 24, 1961 - Balboa Stadium (San Diego, CA)

The 1961 American Football League Championship game in San Diego's Balboa Stadium was a carbon copy of the previous season's title game in that the Houston Oilers beat the San Diego Chargers 10-3. On Jan. 1, 1961, the Oilers edged the Chargers, 24-16, in Houston's Jeppesen Stadium. A live audience of 29,556 fans and a nationwide television audience estimated in the vicinity of 40 million viewers witnessed a monument to defensive football at its best. The crowd at the stadium was held down due to the fact that the game was played on Christmas Eve and the game was telecast into the Los Angeles area and many San Diegans received LA's ABC affiliate, Channel 7. The Oilers scored on a 46-yard field goal by George Blanda midway through the second quarter and added the clincher, a 35-yard touchdown pass by Blanda to Billy Cannon, late in the third quarter. The Chargers only scoring came on a 12-yard field goal early in the final period. Indication of the evenness of the ballgame is that both clubs had a total net offense of 256 yards.

1960 AFL Championship Game

Houston Oilers 24, Los Angeles Chargers 16

Sunday, January 1, 1961 - Jeppesen Stadium (Houston, TX)

The American Football League's first championship game took place Jan. 1, 1961 between the Eastern Division champion Houston Oilers and the Western Division champion Los Angeles Chargers in Jeppesen Stadium, home of the Eastern titlists. The outcome: Houston 24, Los Angeles 16. In 50 degree weather with 70 percent humidity due to week-long rains, the Chargers took on the Oilers before a live crowd of 32,183 and a television audience of approximately 45 million viewers. Ben Agajanian kicked field goals of 38 and 22 yards to give the Chargers a 6-0 first quarter lead. In the second quarter, Houston's George Blanda hit Dave Smith on a 17-yard touchdown pass, added the conversion and kicked an 18-yard field goal. Agajanian kicked a 27-yard field goal with five seconds left in the half to make the score Houston 10, Los Angeles 9 at the half. In the third quarter, Blanda completed a seven-yard touchdown pass to Bill Groman and kicked the conversion. The Chargers responded when Paul Lowe slanted over from the two-yard line and with Agajanian's conversion the score was Houston 17, Los Angeles 16, at the end of three quarters. In the fourth quarter, Blanda and Billy Cannon teamed up on an 88-yard pass-run touchdown play to conclude the scoring. Player of the game honors went to Cannon, with Blanda and Lowe deadlocked a vote behind. On the day, Cannon gained 50 yards on 18 tries, caught three passes for 128 yards and returned three kickoffs for 81 yards. Blanda completed 16 of 31 passes for 301 yards. Lowe netted 165 yards on 21 carries, caught three passes for five yards and returned four kickoffs for 101 yards. Lowe's total yardage on the day was 271 yards as compared to Cannon's 259. The inability of the Chargers to take the ball in for touchdowns early in the game, setting for three first-half field goals on each occasion, and several bad breaks late in the game proved to be the difference.

CHARGERS SPANISH RADIO BROADCASTERS

All San Diego Chargers games can be heard in Spanish on XEXX 1420 AM. XEXX covers all of San Diego County and northern Baja California.

JORGE VILLANUEVA

Jorge Villanueva is in his 10th season as the Spanish voice of the Chargers. He is also a sports anchor on KBNT 19 Univision, a Spanish-speaking TV station in San Diego. Villanueva has 19 years of experience in sports journalism. In addition to football, his play-by-play experience includes soccer, baseball and boxing. Villanueva has also handled Spanish play-by-play for the Holiday Bowl, USC Trojan Football and San Diego State University Football.

EFREN DOMINGUEZ

Dominguez is in his 12th season as color analyst for the Spanish broadcasts of Chargers' games. Dominguez also anchors the station's halftime and postgame shows with live interviews with players and coaches from the locker room. He also served with Villanueva as a color analyst for the Holiday Bowl, USC Trojan Football and San Diego State University Football.

CHARGERS ON KFMB

All of the Chargers' preseason, regular season and postseason games are broadcast on 760 KFMB-AM, while all of the team's preseason games are televised by KFMB-TV, Channel 8. KFMB-TV also is the home of the Chargers' regular-season games because CBS Sports purchased the rights to televise the NFL's American Football Conference games beginning in 1998 and extending through 2005.

KFMB-TV Sports Director Ted Leitner handles the play-by-play on the Chargers' radio broadcasts. Former Chargers player and coach and current Channel 8 sportscaster Hank Bauer is the color commentator.

In addition to the preseason telecasts, KFMB-TV produces programming to promote the Chargers, the players and the team's extensive community activities.

TED LEITNER

Outspoken, outrageous, always willing to go out on a limb, Ted Leitner's reports on KFMB-TV News 8 at 5:00 and 6:30 p.m. are must-see TV for San Diego sports fans. After 24 years, he is still shaking up San Diego with his unique brand of sports reporting and unabashed opinion. He also sends shock waves through the airwaves as a talk show host on KFMB-AM on weekday mornings from 6:00 to 10 a.m., and as play-by-play announcer for the Chargers and Padres. This is his second stint as play-by-play announcer for the Chargers, having handled the duties previously from 1985-86. He has served as News 8's Sports Director since 1978 and was recognized as the nation's "most popular sportscaster" in the top 50 markets in a national survey.

HANK BAUER

Former Chargers running back, special teams captain and coach, Hank Bauer, handles the color commentary on the team's radio broadcasts. These days, Bauer tackles sports on News 8 weeknights at 5:00, 6:30 and 11 p.m. A member of the Chargers 40th Anniversary All-Time Team, Bauer played seven seasons for the Chargers. He was a team captain who was voted by his teammates Most Inspirational Player in 1978 and Special Teams Player of the Year in 1980 and 1981. Bauer scored 21 touchdowns during his career, before a broken neck forced him off the field in 1983. After a four-year coaching stint, Bauer became a sports reporter at News 8 in 1987. When Bauer broadcasts the Chargers game at Oakland on Oct. 20, 2002, it will mark his 300th game with the team as a broadcaster, player and coach.

TRAINING CAMP INFORMATION

Chargers to hold training camp at Cal State-Dominguez Hills in 2003

Beginning in 2003, the San Diego Chargers will hold their training camp at the sports complex on the campus of California State University, Dominguez Hills. The Chargers will hold training camp this year at the University of California San Diego from July 22 through August 21, marking their twenty-seventh and final season at UCSD.

"Our goal is to win a championship and the environment at training camp plays a key role in building a winning team," said General Manager John Butler. "Team chemistry and camaraderie are formed during the tough days of camp. By taking the team away from familiar surroundings and personal distractions, it helps the players focus on the task at hand. They spend time together and bond as a team.

"Winning is everything in our business. I can't stand losing. We'll do whatever it takes to help our team win."

The state-of-the-art training complex is expected to be completed in 2003 and will include a 27,000-seat soccer stadium which will be the home of the Los Angeles Galaxy of Major League Soccer. A 13,000-seat tennis stadium will host, among other events, the Pete Sampras Tennis Academy. The National Training Center also is the home of the U.S. Soccer Federation. The campus is located in Carson, California, off the 405 freeway, a two-hour drive from downtown San Diego.

"This is going to be one of the premier training facilities in the country. We still want Charger fans to come out and watch practice and connect with the players," said Butler.

Cal-State Dominguez Hills will be the eighth training camp site in the 44-year history of the Chargers. The team held its initial training camp in 1960 at Chapman College in Orange, California before holding its camp at the University of San Diego from 1961-62. In 1963, the team trained at Rough Acres Ranch in Boulevard, California, located in the rugged hills east of San Diego. The Chargers also trained in Escondido (1964-68), the University of California at Irvine (1969-73), and at United States International University in San Diego (1974-75) before moving to UCSD.

UCSD has been the home of the Chargers training camp since 1976. In 1988 the team donated a $1.1 million training facility to improve the athletic facilities for year-round use by the school.

QUALCOMM STADIUM

QUALCOMM Stadium, the stadium that the Chargers have called home since 1967, underwent an expansion in 1997 that included the addition of 11,500 seats, a club level, 37 new suites and a new west-end Jumbotron screen.

The centerpiece of the renovated stadium is the Chargers Gold Club. Chargers season ticket holders who purchase seats on the former loge level of the stadium enjoy special amenities exclusive to Gold Club members. The 7,800 Gold Club seats are wider, padded and come equipped with an attached drink holder. To enhance the Gold Club experience, members have wait service at their seats, featuring a menu complete with a variety of food specialties. Members also enjoy the comfort of four fan-friendly lounges where they can relax in an air-conditioned setting before, during and after the game. Restrooms on the Gold Club level also have been upgraded and are staffed with full-time attendants.

The former Jack Murphy Stadium was re-named Qualcomm Stadium after the Qualcomm Corporation contributed $18 million for naming rights. Additionally, the total number of parking spaces at the stadium was increased to 19,000, including 461 handicapped spaces, making the parking lot at Qualcomm Stadium the second-largest in the National Football League. There was a significant increase in restroom capacity at the stadium, with the number of women's facilities almost doubled and the men's restroom capacity increased by 33 percent.

San Diego Stadium was originally built in 1967 as a home for the Chargers at a cost of $27 million. It was dedicated at a Chargers-Lions game on August 20, 1967, before a crowd of 45,988. The 1997 renovation marks the second major facelift to occur at the stadium. Originally built to a capacity of 52,000, the stadium was expanded in 1984 to increase seating capacity to 60,100. The most recent renovation increased the seating capacity at the stadium to 70,000.

The team played before its first-ever sellout crowd on December 3, 1967, when 52,661 turned out to see the Chargers battle the Oakland Raiders. In 1999, the Chargers played in front of the largest home crowd in team history when 68,274 fans were in attendance for a game versus the Green Bay Packers on Oct. 24, 1999.

Qualcomm Stadium was expanded in 1997 to a capacity of 70,000. The stadium will be the site of Super Bowl XXXVII on January 26, 2003.
